Way Clear For Lewis Trial Proper

Defense Move To Throw Out Charge Denied

Judge Rules Anti-Injunction Act Doesn't Apply To Current Case

GROUNDWORK FOR LONG FIGHT LAID BY UNION

Formal Plea Of "Not Guilty" Entered For Mine Workers' Leader

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The government won a crucial point today in its court struggle to stop the soft coal strike but John L. Lewis' lawyers, battling every inch, laid the groundwork for a long fight.

The government's preliminary victory came when Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ruled the Norris - LaGuardia Anti - Injunction Act does not apply to the current historic case. He denied a defense motion to throw out the contempt charge against Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

But determined Welly K. Hopkins, of Lewis' legal battery, returned to the attack as the government presented its first witness, Capt. N. H. Collisson, of the Navy, the Coal Mines Administrator.

Hopkins sought to bring out by cross-questioning that the dispute in essence is merely one between private employers and a union even though the government does hold the mines temporarily, and he was still at it when court, recessed until Monday morning.

Way Cleared—For Trial Proper

Justice Goldsborough's dismissal of the defense motion cleared the way for the contempt trial proper to begin. The use of an advisory jury which was available for Lewis was waived by his counsel.

Then Hopkins entered a formal plea of "not guilty" for Lewis and the union "in order that the record be abundantly clear." There had been some suggestion from Justice Goldsborough that Monday's "return" might constitute an admission of guilt. That return acknowledged Lewis had done nothing to comply with the court's temporary restraining order on the ground it was invalid.

With Collisson on the stand, the government introduced a number of documents dealing with the government's seizure of the mines. Hopkins objected repeatedly on various technical grounds. All were overruled, but they built up a record on which an appeal might be based.

The naval captain testified that Lewis served his contract termination notice November 15 without ever having made "a direct request" to him "relative to a change in wages, hours and working conditions."

Collisson Cross-Examined

It was known at the time that Lewis did not even attend the conferences in person, awaiting the return of Secretary of the Interior Krug from the West. Subsequently it developed, from an announcement by President Truman, that Krug had notified Lewis his proposals would not be considered by the government and should be negotiated with the private operators.

Hopkins' cross-examination of Collisson, the only witness heard during the day, went into details of the operating arrangements at the idle mines. Collisson acknowledged that the government was operating them for "private account," and has waived no taxes levied upon

Porter's Resignation Accepted By Truman

OPA CHIEF RESIGNS—President Truman yesterday accepted the resignation of Paul A. Porter (above) as administrator of the Office of Price Administration. Porter did not say what new line of work he will undertake.

President Says Nation Owes OPA Administrator Debt Of Gratitude For Hard Job Well Done

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — President Truman today accepted the resignation of Paul A. Porter as administrator of the Office of Price Administration.

Porter told the President in a letter of resignation dated November 15 that personal reasons made it imperative that he leave the federal service.

He did not say what new line of work he will undertake. It had been reported that he might return to his former post in the government as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, but his letter made it plain he was leaving the government.

Porter told the President that liquidation of OPA is well under way and he did not believe he could personally make any further contribution to the job of closing it out.

Merger of the OPA and the Civilian Production Administration into a new liquidation agency is understood to be imminent.

The President in his letter, accepting the resignation, as of December 4 next, said the country owed Porter a debt of gratitude for a difficult job well done.

"We both," Mr. Truman said, "had grave reservations as to the effectiveness of the (OPA) extension bill which I signed on July 25 last, but I am confident that history will vindicate the wisdom of the decision to carry on for a while longer even with the inadequate powers which the Congress gave."

Russia Demands Removal Of Atom Bomb "Menace"

Aims To Scrap Weapon As First Step In Arms Reduction Program

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 29 (AP) — The Soviet Union left no doubt today that it was aiming to scrap the American atom bombs as the first step of the arms reduction program proposed in the United Nations by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Russia insisted, moreover, on retention of the controversial big power veto over all decisions taken on international control and inspections—a factor in conflict with the firm United States position on proposed atomic control.

"Sword Of Damocles"

"The atom bomb is a sword of Damocles suspended by a thin thread." Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky told the 54-nation Political Committee. "Only by removing such a menance can we establish security."

"Why not prohibit the manufacture of the atom bomb if you don't plan to use it?" he asked.

Kuzma V. Kiselev, Foreign Minister of White Russia, joined in the Soviet battle on the bomb with a warning that a third world war might be fomented with "atomic factories working at full power."

The Soviet position was set forth after Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.), a United States delegate, demanded that the United Nations take action on an arms reduction plan at the current session of the General Assembly and cautioned against any move to sidetrack the Atomic Energy Commission.

USSR Agreement Pleases Connally

Welcoming Molotov's surprise agreement to international inspections in the fields of arms and atom bombs, Connally said:

"It is my earnest hope in the light of recent statements by Marshal Stalin and Mr. Molotov, and especially in the light of what Mr. Molotov said yesterday about 'the necessity of strict international control,' including inspections, that it will now be possible for the Atomic Energy Commission to end the stalemate of recent months and reach unanimous agreement on a system of direct international control of atomic energy with effective

Sugar Rationing Program At Stake

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Complete scrapping of the government's sugar rationing program was viewed as a possibility by top officials tonight as the result of a federal court suit attacking OPA's sugar distribution regulations.

In giving this interpretation, one official explained to a reporter that the suit, filed by the Maple Leaf Dairies, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y., strikes at the very basis of sugar rationing regulations.

Under attack is OPA's use of the "base period system for arriving at amounts of sugar to be allotted to industrial and institutional users.

"If this system goes out," said the official, who declined use of his name, " it is possible that the entire sugar rationing program would go, to all practical purposes."

The firm, which has a sweetened condensed milk plant at Neenah, Wis., obtained a temporary injunction Wednesday to prevent OPA from issuing sugar rations under an amendment to its regulations affecting that industry.

The amendment provides that if firms were not engaged in manufacturing sweetened condensed milk prior to August, 1946, they would get no sugar.

Coal Field Stores Will Continue To Operate

WHITESBURG, Ky., Nov. 29 (AP)—Miners in the Big Sandy-Elkhorn coal field of Eastern Kentucky having "satisfactory credit or cash" continued to trade at commissaries operated by coal companies in the field today.

A re-check of the district disclosed reports that some of the stores would be closed due to the mine shutdown were erroneous.

A spokesman for the Elkhorn Collieries Company at Farraday, near here, said "yes we're still doing business. The men can buy so long as they have satisfactory credit or cash."

Truman Urged To Call For Volunteer Miners

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—A recommendation that President Truman call for public volunteers to operate coal mines—if miners fail to return to their jobs after a direct appeal by the president—came today from Sen. Knowland (R-Calif).

Knowland wrote Mr. Truman that he would "have the overwhelming support of the American people" if he took those steps to end the crippling coal strike.

Three Persons Killed In Barcelona Bombing

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 29—(AP)—Three persons, including a woman, were killed and three others injured today when a bomb exploded in the building occupied by the Falangist newspapers Solidaridad Nacional and La Prensa.

Those killed were Enrique Sanchez, newspaper electrician; Margarita Sanchez, a servant, and Ernesto Laporta, a worwman for the papers.

Ministers Fail To Solve Issue Of Reparations

Russia Agrees Yugoslavia, Greece Should Have Equal Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Russia agreed tonight that Yugoslavia and Greece should share war reparations from Italy and Bulgaria on a 50-50 basis as the Council of Foreign Ministers juggled figures for four hours without reaching a final settlement.

Persons present at the council deliberations said that it marked the first time that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had departed from his position that Yugoslavia should receive the lion's share of reparations from the two countries. However, final settlement of the issue went over until tomorrow.

Byrnes Suggests Compromise

Molotov won United States support for a substantial reduction in the assessment against Bulgaria.

James F. Byrnes, United States Secretary of State, suggested a compromise by which Yugoslavia's reparations from Italy would be increased by $25,000,000 and reduced by a like amount from Bulgaria. Under this plan Greek reparations would remain at $100,000,000 from Italy and $45,000,000 from Bulgaria. The formula would bring both Italy and Yugoslavia a total of $145,000,000 each.

This plan, if accepted, would decrease Bulgaria's reparations from the $125,000,000 recommended at the Paris peace conference to $65,000,000. At the same time it would increase Italy's reparations by $25,000,000 over the total recommended at Paris.

Lengthy Wrangle

In the lengthy wrangle there was little other progress made in peace pacts for the Axis satellites. The four ministers argued briefly on the question of compensation for destruction of Allied property in Italy. Byrnes expressed willingness to compromise on a 50 cents on the dollar compensation advocated by Molotov. Britain and France have stood pat on a return of 75 cents. There was no agreement tonight on the point.

Elliott Roosevelt Says Russians Desire Peace

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt said today, after 16 days spent in the Soviet Union, that he had found a "consuming desire" for peace and friendship with the United States by citizens and officials of Russia.

"Not only do they want peace but they believe in peace, and they also see no reason why our two systems of government cannot live in peace side by side," he said.

Roosevelt said "on every hand I've found great love" for his father, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joseph Stalin and said he had been told by "dozens upon dozens" of Russians that "if your father were alive today we believe all our common problems would be settled."

Servicemen's Cut-Rate Train Fares To Continue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission came through with a Christmas present for servicemen today—an order that their cut-rate train fares be continued at least until the end of January.

These rates are 1¼ cents per mile as compared with the civilian coach fare of 2.2 cents.

All but four railroads east of the Mississippi river had announced plans to abandon the special "furlough rates" on December 1. The ICC refused to let them and set a hearing for December 11 to decide what the policy should be after January 30.

UNAWARE OF FATE—Gary Hayden, East St. Louis, Ill., 5, who is receiving his Christmas toys early because physicians say he probably will die soon of cancer, waves a toy pistol as his father, Herman Hayden, and Mrs. Catherine Chard, a neighbor, look on. Gary played with his toys and received visitors on Thanksgiving Day although his illness kept him in bed part of the day.

Flour Controls Lifted; Brewers Get More Grain

Distillers Permitted To Use Unlimited Amounts Of Low Grade Corn

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The government today removed restrictions on domestic use of flour and granted distillers and brewers permission to use more grain for making whiskey and beer.

These changes, which President Truman announced were made possible by bountiful crops, become effective December 1.

Specifically:

(1) Millers may sell all the flour for domestic distribution that they can. Heretofore, they were limited to 85 per cent of the average monthly distribution in 1945. Present controls on exports are retained.

(2) Distillers may use unlimited quantities of low grade corn for making distilled spirits. Retained, however, was a prohibition against the use of wheat and limitations on the use of rye. The distilling industry has been limited to about 3,000,000 bushels of all grains monthly.

(3) Brewers may use, for the quarter beginning December 1, as much grain as in the corresponding months of 1945 or 1946, as the case may be. However, no wheat and only very limited quantities of rice may be used. Brewers have been limited to 90 per cent of the grain they used a year ago.

The only restrictions remaining on the use of wheat are that the grain and flour may not be used by distillers and brewers, and that milling grade wheat and flour may not be used in manufactured mixed livestock feed. The government said edible wheat and rice should be reserved for food. Restrictions were maintained on rye because supplies of this particular grain are very short.

While this year's grain crops were bountiful, they still were not sufficient, the government held, to meet unlimited demands for foods, industrial uses, livestock feed, exports and reserves. Hence, the government continued some restrictions on use by distillers and brewers.

Ghostly Procession Of Monks In Church Described By Vicar

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP) — A ghostly procession of brown-robed monks moving slowly up the aisle of St. Dunstan's Church in West London was described today by the vicar, Rev. H. H. Anton-Stephens, who said the manifestations could be seen almost any evening.

"You would probably see them yourself if you are at all psychic," said the Church of England clergyman. "My daughter, my secretary and one other, whose name I have not permission to reveal, have seen the monks."

"We are all truthful folk and it is impossible for four people to suffer from hallucinations at the same time."

Besides the monks, Mr. Anton-Stephens said manifestations in the form of recently-dead parishioners had appeared in the church.

Two Sisters Slain By Their Mother

PHILLIPSBURG, Kas., Nov. 29 (AP) — Alice Shemper, 20, and Ruth Schemper, 15, sisters, were dead today, victims of a Thanksgiving Day shooting at their farm home near Prairie View, 14 miles northwest of here.

Sheriff W. A. Hobbs said the girls were shot and killed instantly by a shotgun in the hands of their mother, Mrs. John Schemper. The mother, he said, tried to slash her throat with a butcher knife.

The sheriff said the father was in a barn milking and failed to hear the shots.

Two other children, Loren Schemper, 9, and Elaine Schemper, 17, fled from the house, and ran to the home of a neighbor, John Englesman, for help. When Englesman returned, he said he found the mother gone and the father still in the barn unaware of the tragedy.

Sheriff Hobbs said the mother, who had been in ill health, later was found barefooted and in her night clothes near a pond in a nearby pasture.

William Foster Is New Commerce Undersecretary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Alfred Schindler, St. Louis, resigned today the Undersecretary of Commerce post he took under Henry A. Wallace 19 months ago and President Truman named a small business man from Long Island, William Chapman Foster, to succeed him.

Emphasis placed by the White House announcement on Foster's small business connections underscored reports that his selection was motivated in part by desire to balance off the big business connections (railroads and banking) of Secretary Averell Harriman.

Yule Lights To Shine

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 29—(AP)—Home for Christmas for the first time in four years, ex-GI G. Thomas Zeller will have the streets of this town ablaze with Yule lights despite the nationwide dimout. Zeller obtained a 1,700-pound generator and will hitch it up with a 50-horsepower fuel burning Diesel engine to generate the needed electricity.

9-Day-Old Mine Strike Hits Home Harder Than Ever

Unemployment Grows; Additional Thousands Are Furloughed

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29—(AP)—The nine-day-old coal miners' shutdown hit home harder than ever today while the unemployed in related industries remained steady at slightly more than 90,000 but with an additional 175,000 furloughed until Monday to conserve the nation's rapidly dwindling supply of bituminous fuel.

Many miners in parts of Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia received their last full pay today, or will tomorrow, until such time as they return to the pits abandoned when John L. Lewis, head of the AFL United Mine Workers, terminated the contract with the United States government. Some firms already have paid off for work done previous to the walkout.

Emergency Credit Only

The Pocahontas Operators Association said the Poca field company stores in West Virginia were following the policy of no credit but may make exceptions in an emergency. A spokesman for the Koppers stores said they have been instructed to give no credit except in emergency and then on groceries only. Others, however, were reported carrying good credit risks.

While the unemployed picture at the Pittsburgh and Youngstown plants of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation improved with only 1,500 furloughed as compared to 3,200 two days ago, the National Tube Company laid off 2,100 workers. Between 8,000 at Carnegie-Illinois, where 89 of the 129 open hearths are shut down, are on part time, cleaning and repairing various parts of the steel works.

Auto Plants Shut Down

Carnegie-Illinois reported a loss of 56,000 tons and National Tube 3,000 tons since the start of the coal walkout. Six hundred Carnegie-

Industry May Act To Revive Negotiations

Number Of Companies File Applications For Fines With Government

TAKE VIEW CONTRACT MAKES IT MANDATORY

Southern Operators To Discuss Possibility Of Talks On Monday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Efforts to fine striking miners for every day they remain off the job were disclosed tonight.

In still another move, leaders of the southern coal mine operators were called to meet here Monday to discuss the possibility of direct negotiations with the United Mine Workers.

The head of this segment of the stricken coal industry, Edward R. Burke, told a reporter that "a very considerable number of coal companies" had filed applications with the government to slap individual fines of $1 to $2 a day for every day that a miner stays out. The amount would vary under the contract by regions.

Burke's disclosure of the fining proposals was supplemented by Lawrence E. Tierney, Jr., Bluefield, W. Va., an operator.

He said that his company alone has filed applications for fines against 2,200 strikers.

Contend Contract In Effect

Tierney contended, in talking with a reporter, that the miners' contract with the government is still in effect (Lewis has declared it void) and that its provisions for fining miners on strike still stand.

"The provisions of the contract are clear," Burke said.

"The coal companies can not only file these applications for fines but they must. There is a penalty against them, too, for failing to insist that the fines be levied."

A high official of the Federal Mines Administration, who remarked that he had been busy with the court proceedings, said he had no personal knowledge of applications for fines.

Under the contract terms, which the government says must stand for the duration of government possession of the mines, each company application for fining its workers would have to be dealt with separately.

Fines Could Total Millions

Thus if all the coal companies in the current strike should file applications for fines and the government should assess them the total penalty against the miners for the nine days of their walkout to date it would range between $3,600,000 and $7,200,000.

Insisting that the operators ought to press for immediate negotiations with Lewis, Burke, who thus far has been the most rigidly opposed to meeting Lewis' terms, told a reporter:

"The only way we can get the coal is by making an agreement, and the only way to get that agreement is to start negotiations, and the sooner the better."

Burke said the 10 directors who signed a statement at Huntington, W. Va., disclaiming any connection with this viewpoint, feared the invitation to negotiate might in some way "interfere with the government action against Mr. Lewis."

Agreed To Call Meeting

There are 27 members of the association' board of directors, who will meet here in accordance with arrangements at the last quarterly

Literary Revolution In U. S. Schools Urged At English Teachers' Meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—A literary revolution designed to puncture the prestige of Shakespeare, Shelley, Keats and other English classicists in American schools was proposed today at the 36th annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English.

E. Sculley Bradley, chairman of American civilization at the University of Pennsylvania, proposed in a paper that English writers take a back seat to Mark Twain, Edgar Allen Poe, Washington Irving, Walt Whitman and other American authors and poets.

Almost as startling as Bradley's paper was one by Harold A. Anderson, of the University of Chicago, which fired a broadside at methods of teaching grammar.

Anderson said American youth has been confused, "if not corrupted," by "such sheer grammatical myths as the split infinitive and the prepositional ending and a host of other linguistic idolatries which have preoccupied the interests of English teachers."

Dr. Dora V. Smith, of the University of Minnesota, director of the council's newly-formed Commission on the English Curriculum, reported the commission planned a three-year study with a view toward revising English curricula in elementary and secondary schools and in colleges and universities.

She said the commission would consider a change from emphasis on English literature to the teaching of American and other foreign works.

Bradley said more than three-quarters of the country's high school teachers of English were trained primarily in British literature. He added:

"Suddenly we have discovered that it no longer fits the realities of the situation. Suddenly we realize that we have had in America, and for many decades, a fully developed and noble literature of our own."

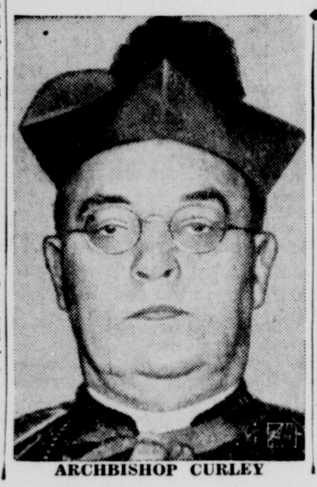
Archbishop Curley Has Headed Baltimore Archdiocese 25 Years



ARCHBISHOP CURLEY

67-Year-Old Prelate Plans To Spend His Anniversary Quietly

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Most Reverend Michael Joseph Curley, who heads the Archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington, will celebrate his 25th anniversary of his accession to the throne of the Baltimore See tomorrow, but he said he prefers to spend the day quietly, in his usual routine of work and prayer.

When priests of the two archdioceses approached him on plans for the usual ecclesiastical celebration, the 67-year-old Archbishop said he preferred to dispense with public observance.

Mine Union Leader's Ten Lawyers Caught With Their Precedents Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — John L. Lewis' ten lawyers were caught with their precedents down today.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough started it all when he asked for an argument on three points in the defendants' brief. Could he have this argument now please?

Bafflement. . . Confusion. . . Ten legal heads in a quick huddle.

Welly Hopkins, who quarterbacks the Lewis team, then said his outfit hadn't expected to argue these points. Is there a law library in the house? he asked.

Judge Goldsborough said, you're welcome to mine.

Whereupon two Lewis lawyers hustled out. Another member of the club, Edmund Burke, carried on while the two caught up on their home work.

The government has a fair-sized legal staff, too. But unlike the Lewis crew, which takes turns, five of the government men sit silent. John Sonnett does all the government talking.

Lewis looked better today than he has previously. That grayish pallor has left him. Possibly he got a rest over Thanksgiving. But his expression remained unchanged: Grim.

Reporters agree this hearing is one of the most difficult to cover in their experience.

The legal points involved are obscure. And to add to their worries, the judge speaks so softly it's difficult to catch all he is saying.

It was comforting, therefore, to learn that they aren't the only ones puzzled by this trial.

Burke was trying to explain the difference between criminal and civil contempt of court.

The judge interrupted to say: "If you understand the difference between civil and criminal contempt, you're the only person in the United States who does."

And a moment later another Lewis lawyer, T. C. Townsend, heard he was defending a man who had

Russia Agrees Yugoslavia, Greece Should Have Equal Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Russia agreed tonight that Yugoslavia and Greece should share war reparations from Italy and Bulgaria on a 50-50 basis as the Council of Foreign Ministers juggled figures for four hours without reaching a final settlement.

Persons present at the council deliberations said that it marked the first time that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had departed from his position that Yugoslavia should receive the lion's share of reparations from the two countries. However, final settlement of the issue went over until tomorrow.

Byrnes Suggests Compromise

Molotov won United States support for a substantial reduction in the assessment against Bulgaria.

James F. Byrnes, United States Secretary of State, suggested a compromise by which Yugoslavia's reparations from Italy would be increased by $25,000,000 and reduced by a like amount from Bulgaria. Under this plan Greek reparations would remain at $100,000,000 from Italy and $45,000,000 from Bulgaria. The formula would bring both Italy and Yugoslavia a total of $145,000,000 each.

This plan, if accepted, would decrease Bulgaria's reparations from the $125,000,000 recommended at the Paris peace conference to $65,000,000. At the same time it would increase Italy's reparations by $25,000,000 over the total recommended at Paris.

Lengthy Wrangle

In the lengthy wrangle there was little other progress made in peace pacts for the Axis satellites. The four ministers argued briefly on the question of compensation for destruction of Allied property in Italy. Byrnes expressed willingness to compromise on a 50 cents on the dollar compensation advocated by Molotov. Britain and France have stood pat on a return of 75 cents. There was no agreement tonight on the point.

Elliott Roosevelt Says Russians Desire Peace

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (AP) — Elliott Roosevelt said today, after 16 days spent in the Soviet Union, that he had found a "consuming desire" for peace and friendship with the United States by citizens and officials of Russia.

"Not only do they want peace but they believe in peace, and they also see no reason why our two systems of government cannot live in peace side by side," he said.

Roosevelt said "on every hand I've found great love" for his father, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Joseph Stalin and said he had been told by "dozens upon dozens" of Russians that "if your father were alive today we believe all our common problems would be settled."

Servicemen's Cut-Rate Train Fares To Continue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission came through with a Christmas present for servicemen today—an order that their cut-rate train fares be continued at least until the end of January.

These rates are 1¼ cents per mile as compared with the civilian coach fare of 2.2 cents.

All but four railroads east of the Mississippi river had announced plans to abandon the special "furlough rates" on December 1. The ICC refused to let them and set a hearing for December 11 to decide what the policy should be after January 30.

UNAWARE OF FATE—Gary Hayden, East St. Louis, Ill., 5, who is receiving his Christmas toys early because physicians say he probably will die soon of cancer, waves a toy pistol as his father, Herman Hayden, and Mrs. Catherine Chard, a neighbor, look on. Gary played with his toys and received visitors on Thanksgiving Day although his illness kept him in bed part of the day.

Flour Controls Lifted; Brewers Get More Grain

Distillers Permitted To Use Unlimited Amounts Of Low Grade Corn

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The government today removed restrictions on domestic use of flour and granted distillers and brewers permission to use more grain for making whiskey and beer.

These changes, which President Truman announced were made possible by bountiful crops, become effective December 1.

Specifically:

(1) Millers may sell all the flour for domestic distribution that they can. Heretofore, they were limited to 85 per cent of the average monthly distribution in 1945. Present controls on exports are retained.

(2) Distillers may use unlimited quantities of low grade corn for making distilled spirits. Retained, however, was a prohibition against the use of wheat and limitations on the use of rye. The distilling industry has been limited to about 3,000,000 bushels of all grains monthly.

(3) Brewers may use, for the quarter beginning December 1, as much grain as in the corresponding months of 1945 or 1946, as the case may be. However, no wheat and only very limited quantities of rice may be used. Brewers have been limited to 90 per cent of the grain they used a year ago.

The only restrictions remaining on the use of wheat are that the grain and flour may not be used by distillers and brewers, and that milling grade wheat and flour may not be used in manufactured mixed livestock feed. The government said edible wheat and rice should be reserved for food. Restrictions were maintained on rye because supplies of this particular grain are very short.

While this year's grain crops were bountiful, they still were not sufficient, the government held, to meet unlimited demands for foods, industrial uses, livestock feed, exports and reserves. Hence, the government continued some restrictions on use by distillers and brewers.

Ghostly Procession Of Monks In Church Described By Vicar

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP) — A ghostly procession of brown-robed monks moving slowly up the aisle of St. Dunstan's Church in West London was described today by the vicar, Rev. H. H. Anton-Stephens, who said the manifestations could be seen almost any evening.

"You would probably see them yourself if you are at all psychic," said the Church of England clergyman. "My daughter, my secretary and one other, whose name I have not permission to reveal, have seen the monks."

"We are all truthful folk and it is impossible for four people to suffer from hallucinations at the same time."

Besides the monks, Mr. Anton - Stephens said manifestations in the form of recently-dead parishioners had appeared in the church.

Two Sisters Slain By Their Mother

PHILLIPSBURG, Kas., Nov. 29 (AP) — Alice Shemper, 20, and Ruth Schemper, 15, sisters, were dead today, victims of a Thanksgiving Day shooting at their farm home near Prairie View, 14 miles northwest of here.

Sheriff W. A. Hobbs said the girls were shot and killed instantly by a shotgun in the hands of their mother, Mrs. John Schemper. The mother, he said, tried to slash her throat with a butcher knife.

The sheriff said the father was in a barn milking and failed to hear the shots.

Two other children, Loren Schemper, 9, and Elaine Schemper, 17, fled from the house, and ran to the home of a neighbor, John Englesman, for help. When Englesman returned, he said he found the mother gone and the father still in the barn unaware of the tragedy.

Sheriff Hobbs said the mother, who had been in ill health, later was found barefooted and in her night clothes near a pond in a nearby pasture.

William Foster Is New Commerce Undersecretary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Alfred Schindler, St. Louis, resigned today the Undersecretary of Commerce post he took under Henry A. Wallace 19 months ago and President Truman named a small business man from Long Island, William Chapman Foster, to succeed him.

Emphasis placed by the White House announcement on Foster's small business connections underscored reports that his selection was motivated in part by desire to balance off the big business connections (railroads and banking) of Secretary Averell Harriman.

9-Day-Old Mine Strike Hits Home Harder Than Ever

Unemployment Grows; Additional Thousands Are Furloughed

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29—(AP)—The nine-day-old coal miners' shutdown hit home harder than ever today while the unemployed in related industries remained steady at slightly more than 90,000 but with an additional 175,000 furloughed until Monday to conserve the nation's rapidly dwindling supply of bituminous fuel.

Many miners in parts of Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia received their last full pay today, or will tomorrow, until such time as they return to the pits abandoned when John L. Lewis, head of the AFL United Mine Workers, terminated the contract with the United States government. Some firms already have paid off for work done previous to the walkout.

Emergency Credit Only

The Pocahontas Operators Association said the Poca field company stores in West Virginia were following the policy of no credit but may make exceptions in an emergency. A spokesman for the Koppers stores said they have been instructed to give no credit except in emergency and then on groceries only. Others, however, were reported carrying good credit risks.

While the unemployed picture at the Pittsburgh and Youngstown plants of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation improved with only 1,500 furloughed as compared to 3,200 two days ago, the National Tube Company laid off 2,100 workers. Between 8,000 at Carnegie-Illinois, where 89 of the 129 open hearths are shut down, are on part time, cleaning and repairing various parts of the steel works.

Auto Plants Shut Down

Carnegie-Illinois reported a loss of 56,000 tons and National Tube 3,000 tons since the start of the coal walkout. Six hundred Carnegie-

Industry May Act To Revive Negotiations

Number Of Companies File Applications For Fines With Government

TAKE VIEW CONTRACT MAKES IT MANDATORY

Southern Operators To Discuss Possibility Of Talks On Monday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — Efforts to fine striking miners for every day they remain off the job were disclosed tonight.

In still another move, leaders of the southern coal mine operators were called to meet here Monday to discuss the possibility of direct negotiations with the United Mine Workers.

The head of this segment of the stricken coal industry, Edward R. Burke, told a reporter that "a very considerable number of coal companies" had filed applications with the government to slap individual fines of $1 to $2 a day for every day that a miner stays out. The amount would vary under the contract by regions.

Burke's disclosure of the fining proposals was supplemented by Lawrence E. Tierney, Jr., Bluefield, W. Va., an operator.

He said that his company alone has filed applications for fines against 2,200 strikers.

Contend Contract In Effect

Tierney contended, in talking with a reporter, that the miners' contract with the government is still in effect (Lewis has declared it void) and that its provisions for fining miners on strike still stand.

"The provisions of the contract are clear," Burke said.

"The coal companies can not only file these applications for fines but they must. There is a penalty against them, too, for failing to insist that the fines be levied."

A high official of the Federal Mines Administration, who remarked that he had been busy with the court proceedings, said he had no personal knowledge of applications for fines.

Under the contract terms, which the government says must stand for the duration of government possession of the mines, each company application for fining its workers would have to be dealt with separately.

Fines Could Total Millions

Thus if all the coal companies in the current strike should file applications for fines and the government should assess them the total penalty against the miners for the nine days of their walkout to date it would range between $3,600,000 and $7,200,000.

Insisting that the operators ought to press for immediate negotiations with Lewis, Burke, who thus far has been the most rigidly opposed to meeting Lewis' terms, told a reporter:

"The only way we can get the coal is by making an agreement, and the only way to get that agreement is to start negotiations, and the sooner the better."

Burke said the 10 directors who signed a statement at Huntington, W. Va., disclaiming any connection with this viewpoint, feared the invitation to negotiate might in some way "interfere with the government action against Mr. Lewis."

Agreed To Call Meeting

Literary Revolution In U. S. Schools Urged At English Teachers' Meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—A literary revolution designed to puncture the prestige of Shakespeare, Shelley, Keats and other English classicists in American schools was proposed today at the 36th annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English.

E. Sculley Bradley, chairman of American civilization at the University of Pennsylvania, proposed in a paper that English writers take a back seat to Mark Twain, Edgar Allen Roe, Washington Irving, Walt Whitman and other American authors and poets.

Almost as startling as Bradley's paper was one by Harold A. Anderson, of the University of Chicago, which fired a broadside at methods of teaching grammar.

Anderson said American youth has been confused, "if not corrupted," by "such sheer grammatical myths as the split infinitive and the prepositional ending and a host of other linguistic idolatries which have preoccupied the interests of English teachers."

Dr. Dora V. Smith, of the University of Minnesota, director of the council's newly-formed Commission on the English Curriculum, reported the commission planned a three-year study with a view toward revising English curricula in elementary and secondary schools and in colleges and universities.

She said the commission would consider a change from emphasis on English literature to the teaching of American and other foreign works.

Bradley said more than three-quarters of the country's high school teachers of English were trained primarily in British literature. He added:

"Suddenly we have discovered that it no longer fits the realities of the situation. Suddenly we realize that we have had in America, and for many decades, a fully developed and noble literature of our own."

Archbishop Curley Has Headed Baltimore Archdiocese 25 Years

ARCHBISHOP CURLEY

67-Year-Old Prelate Plans To Spend His Anniversary Quietly

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Most Reverend Michael Joseph Curley, who heads the Archdioceses of Baltimore and Washington, will celebrate his 25th anniversary of his accession to the throne of the Baltimore See tomorrow, but he said he prefers to spend the day quietly, in his usual routine of work and prayer.

When priests of the two archdioceses approached him on plans for the usual ecclesiastical celebration, the 67-year-old Archbishop said he preferred to dispense with public observance.

The Archbishop's vision has been impaired since a serious operation

Mine Union Leader's Ten Lawyers Caught With Their Precedents Down

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP) — John L. Lewis' ten lawyers were caught with their precedents down today.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough started it all when he asked for an argument on three points in the defendants' brief. Could he have this argument now please?

Bafflement. . . Confusion. . . Ten legal heads in a quick huddle.

Welly Hopkins, who quarterbacks the Lewis team, then said his outfit hadn't expected to argue these points. Is there a law library in the house? he asked.

Judge Goldsborough said, you're welcome to mine.

Whereupon two Lewis lawyers hustled out. Another member of the club, Edmund Burke, carried on while the two caught up on their home work.

The government has a fair-sized legal staff, too. But unlike the Lewis crew, which takes turns, five of the government men sit silent. John Sonnett does all the government talking.

Lewis looked better today than he has previously. That grayish pallor has left him. Possibly he got a rest over Thanksgiving. But his expression remained unchanged: Grim.

Reporters agree this hearing is one of the most difficult to cover in their experience.

The legal points involved are obscure. And to add to their worries, the judge speaks so softly it's difficult to catch all he is saying.

It was comforting, therefore, to learn that they aren't the only ones puzzled by this trial.

Burke was trying to explain the difference between criminal and civil contempt of court.

The judge interrupted to say: "If you understand the difference between civil and criminal contempt, you're the only person in the United States who does."

And a moment later another Lewis lawyer, T. C. Townsend, heard he was defending a man who had

Russian Troops Being Withdrawn From Germany

Indications Point To Major Change In Soviet Policy Toward Reich

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP)—Large scale withdrawals of Soviet troops apparently were under way in Russian-occupied Germany today amid indications that Russian policy toward Germany was undergoing a major change placing it more in line with views of the United States and Britain.

Reports of the withdrawals came from both American and German sources and Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, acting American deputy military governor, said "we believe the Russians are moving some of their troops back to Russia as Marshal Sokolovsky (Soviet commander-in-chief in Germany) informed Gen. McNarney and myself at Allied Control Council meetings."

Official German sources disclosed that the Russian zone of Germany would be divided soon into five states, each with a separate state legislature and government. The plan, similar to that in the United States and British zones, represented a reversal of Soviet policy which called for a strong central government for Germany.

No authoritative information was available on the number of Russian troops involved in the redeployment, but a German correspondent who returned recently from Thuringia said the movement there was "something terrific."

(The London Daily Mail said it believed 300,000 Russian troops were being repatriated.)

On October 23 the Soviet Union disclosed that it was making a reduction in Russian armed strength—the fourth since the war. No figures were given but a decree said that "older ages of soldiers and non-commissioned officers of land troops" would be sent home in the period from November 1 to January 1.

For the past week, however, priests, nuns and members of the laity have called at his residence with gifts in the form of spiritual bonquets, or decorated scrolls enumerating masses, ejaculations and prayers offered up for Archboshop Curley's special intention. They also are contributing to a purse to be used as the Archbishop sees fit.

When he became head of the Baltimore Archdiocese at the age of 42, he was the youngest archbishop in the country, just as was his predecessor, James Cardinal Gibbons, who ascended the throne at the age of 43.

In his first official statement Archbishop Curley said: "Where there is doubt as to which we will erect—a stately church or a capacious school—let us have no hesitation in making our choice a school."

During his first ten years here he completed a school and church construction program costing $25,000,000, of which more than $20,000,000 was spent on schools throughout the state. By 1940, funds spent on parochial schools totaled $30,000,000, and enrollment topped 56,000 students.

He was born in Ireland, October 12, 1879, in Athlone and at the age of four became a pupil of the Marist brothers there. He studied at the Jesuit college in Mungret, and was ordained from the Royal Irish University with honors. He then enrolled in the Propagandist University in Rome. His first parish was in the diocese of St. Augustine, Fla., where he later became bishop.

On his sixtieth birthday, in 1939, he was named to head both the Washington and Baltimore Archdioceses.

session in Cincinnati, held November 11, Burke said.

"At that time it was agreed that we should call a meeting here as soon as matters developed so that there appeared any chance for negotiations in which the operators would be a party," he added. "We planned to canvass the situation and determine what our position would be on the various issues."

These issues, Burke, pointed out, include the health and welfare fund, safety code, unionization of supervisors, vacation payments, and similar matters in addition to the shorter work week at higher basic pay rates.

Lewis has been reported to have doubled his welfare demand from five cents a ton, granted under the government contract ending last spring's strike, to 10 cents. At a nickel a ton the union may receive approximately $30,000,000 in a good production year.

He also is believed to have asked for the same $75.25 for a 40-hour work week as now received by the miner who works 54 hours.

Private "feelers" between the operators and the union, reported on all sides last week, may have indicated Lewis had modified these demands somewhat.

Levin Decides Fringer Is Entitled To State Employment Service Post

Special Assistant Attorney General Decides Against Brown

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP)—Special Assistant Attorney General Albert A. Levin ruled today that David L. B. Fringer, rather than Grafton Lee Brown, was entitled to the post of director of the Maryland State Employment Service.

The two had been contesting for the position since November 15, when the employment service was returned to state control by the federal government.

Fringer had been director of the service when it was under state control before the war, and was named acting director when it became the federally-controlled United States Employment Service.

Brown took Fringer's place and was named full director of the service last year.

In his formal opinion, Levin said he did not understand why Fringer was classified as an "acting director" of the USES, since he said that under the terms of the agreement under which state personnel were taken into federal service, the classifications were to remain unchanged.

Last spring, on his release from Army service, Fringer applied for reinstatement of his position, but was offered the job of assistant director.

He refused the offer, and the regional director of the United States Civil Service Commission denied his subsequent appeal.

While awaiting answer to a further appeal, Fringer accepted "with reservations" the post of assistant director and held it one day before transferring to the Veterans' Administration.

When the USES was transferred back to state control, the State Employment Commissioner ordered Fringer's reinstatement as director. Brown said he intended to confer with his attorneys before deciding what to do about the decision.

Rule Of Supreme Court Returned In Cosner Case

State Jurists Will Hold Hearing January 8 On Jury Question

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 29 — Although the Oscar Cosner case pending before the Mineral County Circuit Court has gone up to the State Supreme Court for ruling on Judge Ernest A. See's order to call a jury from Tucker to hear the case, it still holds first place in local court circles.

The rule of the Supreme Court in the case wes served on Judge See and Clerk Paul W. Dayton today, which requires the judge and the clerk of Mineral County Circuit Court and the clerk of the Circuit Court of Tucker County to show cause, on or before January 8, why the writ of prohibition asked by Cosner through his counsel should not be awarded against them. The writ would prevent the calling of a jury from Tucker county to sit in the trial of the case in Mineral county.

The rule or alternate writ of prohibition does not directly prohibit the trial now set for December 9.

In an informal conference between Judge See and two of Cosner's attorneys, the judge said he would postpone the trial now set for December 9 by a jury from Tucker county if the defendant so desired, but H. G. Shores, senior defense counsel, said no postponement would be asked by Cosner.

Shores intimated that he would try again to have the Supreme Court direct that the case not be tried on December 9. Judge See said that the continuance should be on the motion of the defendant. The judge also stated that he is of the opinion that the case should not be tried until a final ruling of the higher court is obtained.

Cosner, Keyser letter carrier, is charged with murder in the slaying of his wife, Hazel Evelyn Cosner, September 3. He went on trial at the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court. After a 100 or more jurymen had been examined, only 19 were temporarily qualified. At that time Judge See ordered the 19 jurors discharged and directed that a jury from Tucker county be summoned to appear on December 9, when the case was set for resumption.

Cosner, by his counsel, petitioned the Supreme Court for a writ of prohibition against the use of a Tucker county jury to hear the case, hence the delay in completing the trial.

Counsel for the defense indicated today that bond will be requested for their client. Cosner has been held in the county jail since his arrest after the slaying.

Four New Deputies

The new deputies, who will take the oath with him are:

Edgar M. Lewis, Independence street, who has been chief clerk of Trial Magistrate's Court and a constable for several years. He previously served as a deputy under former Sheriff George Kemp. Lewis is a native of Cumberland and has been active in the Republican party for the past 20 years.

William E. Orr, Midland, a Celanese worker for the past 12 years and a Navy veteran of World War II.

George M. Harris, of Frostburg, a former coal miner.

With the resignation of Izat as court house janitor and his appointment as deputy sheriff, no successor to the job of custodian was mentioned yesterday. This appointment seemed to surprise many of the people around the court house. Dopesters had previously hinted that Muir would probably retain Deputies John Radcliffe and Albert C. James.

Yesterday, Sheriff Steele was busy moving his family and furniture from the residence next to the jail, to his home on Patterson avenue. Steele will devote his time to the printing business.

F. Patrick Allender, representing the building trades declared that if materials are available here so that men can go right ahead with construction, instead of sitting around jobs waiting for something to work with, the cost of building can come down considerably.

Husband Of Girl, 13, Who Got Married Because Of School Worries, Is Jailed

Bride Is In Juvenile Detention Home; Mother Faces Charges

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 29 (AP)—A 13-year-old girl, who was quoted by police officials as saying she got married because of worries over her school work, was in a juvenile detention home tonight while her husband and mother were in jail.

Martin H. Baker, 23, Lowell, new bridegroom, was remanded to county jail after a brief appearance today before the same justice of the peace who married the couple slightly over two months ago.

Baker demanded examination on a charge of statutory rape in connection with his marriage to his youthful bride, Marjorie Sage Baker. He was unable to furnish $500 bond and was held for December 10 examination before Justice of the Peace John C. Loucks.

Mrs. Blanche Sage Howarth, 43, Morley, also demanded examination before Police Judge Edward G. Burleson when arraigned today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her minor daughter. She was unable to post $200 bond and was held for December 6 examination.

Kent County Social Director Ira M. Degan filed a delinquency charge against the bride, but probate court authorities said action on the girl's case would be deferred pending outcome of charges against two adults.

Prosecutor Bolt, Director Degan and police investigators gave this version of the Bakers' marital life:

Marjorie and Baker, a Lowell factory worker, applied for a marriage license September 11 listing the girl's age as 16 and filed a statement of consent by the mother. The two were married September 17.

Early this week Baker sought welfare aid because a back ailment kept him from working. Investigators discovered his bride's true age and called police.

The tearful Marjorie, in a statement to the prosecutor and his aides today, said she decided on marriage because she had difficulties keeping up with her seventh grade school work and was afraid she might not be promoted.

Guard Is Wounded At Ballistics Lab

Police Report Child Escapes Injury When Struck By Car

C. W. Smith, 31, 548 Greene street, a guard at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Pinto, was reported "getting along fine" last night in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Tuesday afternoon for treatment of a gunshot wound in the right groin.

Smith, it was reported, was accidentally injured during target practice when the .22 caliber pistol a companion was closing went off. The local man is a first sergeant in Company C of the state guard.

Members of the family said they were told he may be able to return home today.

Mrs. Delina Harvey, 28, wife of Lawrence Harvey, 135 Bedford street, was treated in Allegany yesterday at 10:20 a. m. for a laceration on the head, suffered, she said, when she fell down a flight of steps at her home.

Terry Scarlett, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Bertha Scarlett, was treated in the same hospital yesterday at 11:35 a. m. for a severe laceration on the leg suffered, he told attaches, as he was playing football. Eleven sutures were used to close the cut, attaches said.

Maxine Delozier, 5, 625 Elm street, police reported, apparently escaped injury yesterday about 2 o'clock when she was struck by a car near her home.

Police said the driver of the car, who they identified as Homer Frye, Independence street, took the girl, accompanied by her mother, to Allegany Hospital and later to a local physician. Police said the girl's mother told hospital attaches she saw the child go in back of the car.

Lee Marple, 234 North Centre street, reported to police yesterday at 2 p. m. that a local taxicab struck his car, parked on North Liberty street, and drove on. He added the left rear fender of his car was damaged by the other vehicle.

During the history of the organization, more than 403 men served in the unit and on five different occasions it was called to active duty to serve in the city. The first was on December 7, 1941 when Pearl Harbor was bombed, then during the 1942 flood, as well as on V-E and V-J Days and during the North Centre Street Explosion.

Deactivation ceremonies will be held in the State Armory where a mustering out formation will be held and final discharge papers given to the present 89 members. Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, who has commanded the unit since its formation will command the final formation.

Visiting officers expected are Lt. Col. Paul E. Sutherland, and Maj. Bernie Cassell, both regimental officers of the state unit.

Following the mustering out formation, a buffet supper will be served for all present and past members of the organization.

Heavner and Barger were riding in an east bound car, when it collided with the vehicle operated by Collins, in which White was a passenger.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, questioned Collins yesterday morning, but state police said no charges would be preferred against him, since he was cleared of all blame in the mishap.

Story Of German "Bluebeard" Was Secreted By Nazis

Laborer Died In Vienna Prison After Confessing To 53 Killings

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Nazi government, for unexplained reasons, hushed up the story of a German "Bluebeard" who confessed 56 sex killings and died a Vienna prison death in 1944, perhaps from the effects of the Nazis' medical experiments, secret police files disclosed today.

The voluminous story was uncovered by a German newspaperman who obtained access to the six by four and a half foot bookshelf in Criminal Police Headquarters which was required to hold the secret files of Bruno Luedtke who said he had killed the 53 persons with knife, club and noose in a 20-year sex-mad career.

Outdid Dr. Petiot

Luedtke, a dark beetle-browed laborer, acknowledged crimes exceeding even those of the Frenchman, Dr. Petiot, who was sentenced to death for 49 wartime slayings which the Nazis highly publicized.

Born April 3, 1901 at suburban Koepenick, Luedtke said he committed his first four murders at the age of 16 and finally was arrested as a suspect in the January 23, 1941 murder and rape of a Berlin widow.

Most Of Victims Women

Confronted by a list of similar unsolved crimes, he blandly confessed "Yes, I not only committed this murder but many of them—about 50. Practically all were women, only when forced to do so did I also kill their husbands."

He gave police his complete "murder calendar" and accurately re-enacted the crimes at the scenes. His confessions showed he had killed at least one person every year except 1927. All but four were women.

the private operators. He added however, that there have been no benefits since the government took over last May.

If Hopkins could establish that the coal case boils down to a controversy between private owners and the union, he might lay the groundwork for an appeal of Goldsborough's ruling that the Norris-LaGuardia Act, does not apply. It bars injunctions in labor disputes. The reason why the government says it does not apply in this case is that this is a matter involving sovereign powers of the government, not a private employer.

pleaded guilty — and Townsend didn't even know it.

The judge interrupted Townsend's speech to ask: "Suppose the defendant pleads guilty?"

"But this defendant isn't going to plead guilty," Townsend replied.

"He already has," said Judge Goldsborough. "Mr. Hopkins, in his opening remarks, in effect admitted the defendant was guilty."

The judge then apparently sought to soften the blow.

"Perhaps," he said, "Mr. Hopkins did it before you came to town."

"No," said Townsend. "No, I've been here all along."

And he shook his head, very, very sadly.

Indications Point To Major Change In Soviet Policy Toward Reich

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP)—Large scale withdrawals of Soviet troops apparently were under way in Russian-occupied Germany today amid indications that Russian policy toward Germany was undergoing a major change placing it more in line with views of the United States and Britain.

Reports of the withdrawals came from both American and German sources and Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, acting American deputy military governor, said "we believe the Russians are moving some of their troops back to Russia as Marshal Sokolovsky (Soviet commander-in-chief in Germany) informed Gen. McNarney and myself at Allied Control Council meetings."

Official German sources disclosed that the Russian zone of Germany would be divided soon into five states, each with a separate state legislature and government. The plan, similar to that in the United States and British zones, represented a reversal of Soviet policy which called for a strong central government for Germany.

No authoritative information was available on the number of Russian troops involved in the redeployment, but a German correspondent who returned recently from Thuringia said the movement there was "something terrific."

(The London Daily Mail said it believed 300,000 Russian troops were being repatriated.)

On October 23 the Soviet Union disclosed that it was making a reduction in Russian armed strength—the fourth since the war. No figures were given but a decree said that "older ages of soldiers and non-commissioned officers of land troops" would be sent home in the period from November 1 to January 1.

on his eye three years ago, and he forgoes public appearances except on rare occasions.

For the past week, however, priests, nuns and members of the laity have called at his residence with gifts in the form of spiritual bonquets, or decorated scrolls enumerating masses, ejaculations and prayers offered up for Archboshop Curley's special intention. They also are contributing to a purse to be used as the Archbishop sees fit.

When he became head of the Baltimore Archdiocese at the age of 42, he was the youngest archbishop in the country, just as was his predecessor, James Cardinal Gibbons, who ascended the throne at the age of 43.

In his first official statement Archbishop Curley said: "Where there is doubt as to which we will erect—a stately church or a capacious school—let us have no hesitation in making our choice a school."

During his first ten years here he completed a school and church construction program costing $25,000,000, of which more than $20,000,000 was spent on schools throughout the state. By 1940, funds spent on parochial schools totaled $30,000,000, and enrollment topped 56,000 students.

He was born in Ireland, October 12, 1879, in Athlone and at the age of four became a pupil of the Marist brothers there. He studied at the Jesuit college in Mungret, and was ordained from the Royal Irish University with honors. He then enrolled in the Propagandist University in Rome. His first parish was in the diocese of St. Augustine, Fla., where he later became bishop.

On his sixtieth birthday, in 1939, he was named to head both the Washington and Baltimore Archdioceses.

session in Cincinnati, held November 11, Burke said.

"At that time it was agreed that we should call a meeting here as soon as matters developed so that there appeared any chance for negotiations in which the operators would be a party," he added. "We planned to canvass the situation and determine what our position would be on the various issues."

These issues, Burke, pointed out, include the health and welfare fund, safety code, unionization of supervisors, vacation payments, and similar matters in addition to the shorter work week at higher basic pay rates.

Lewis has been reported to have doubled his welfare demand from five cents a ton, granted under the government contract ending last spring's strike, to 10 cents. At a nickel a ton the union may receive approximately $30,000,000 in a good production year.

He also is believed to have asked for the same $75.25 for a 40-hour work week as now received by the miner who works 54 hours.

Private "feelers" between the operators and the union, reported on all sides last week, may have indicated Lewis had modified these demands somewhat.

Levin Decides Fringer Is Entitled To State Employment Service Post

Special Assistant Attorney General Decides Against Brown

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP)—Special Assistant Attorney General Albert A. Levin ruled today that David L. B. Fringer, rather than Grafton Lee Brown, was entitled to the post of director of the Maryland State Employment Service.

The two had been contesting for the position since November 15, when the employment service was returned to state control by the federal government.

Fringer had been director of the service when it was under state control before the war, and was named acting director when it became the federally-controlled United States Employment Service.

Brown took Fringer's place and was named full director of the service last year.

In his formal opinion, Levin said he did not understand why Fringer was classified as an "acting director" of the USES, since he said that under the terms of the agreement under which state personnel were taken into federal service, the classifications were to remain unchanged.

Last spring, on his release from Army service, Fringer applied for reinstatement of his position, but was offered the job of assistant director.

He refused the offer, and the regional director of the United States Civil Service Commission denied his subsequent appeal.

While awaiting answer to a further appeal, Fringer accepted "with reservations" the post of assistant director and held it one day before transferring to the Veterans' Administration.

When the USES was transferred back to state control, the State Employment Commissioner ordered Fringer's reinstatement as director. Brown said he intended to confer with his attorneys before deciding what to do about the decision.

Rule Of Supreme Court Returned In Cosner Case

State Jurists Will Hold Hearing January 8 On Jury Question

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Nov. 29 — Although the Oscar Cosner case pending before the Mineral County Circuit Court has gone up to the State Supreme Court for ruling on Judge Ernest A. See's order to call a jury from Tucker to hear the case, it still holds first place in local court circles.

The rule of the Supreme Court in the case wes served on Judge See and Clerk Paul W. Dayton today, which requires the judge and the clerk of Mineral County Circuit Court and the clerk of the Circuit Court of Tucker County to show cause, on or before January 8, why the writ of prohibition asked by Cosner through his counsel should not be awarded against them. The writ would prevent the calling of a jury from Tucker county to sit in the trial of the case in Mineral county.

The rule or alternate writ of prohibition does not directly prohibit the trial now set for December 9.

In an informal conference between Judge See and two of Cosner's attorneys, the judge said he would postpone the trial now set for December 9 by a jury from Tucker county if the defendant so desired, but H. G. Shores, senior defense counsel, said no postponement would be asked by Cosner.

Shores intimated that he would try again to have the Supreme Court direct that the case not be tried on December 9. Judge See said that the continuance should be on the motion of the defendant. The judge also stated that he is of the opinion that the case should not be tried until a final ruling of the higher court is obtained.

Cosner, Keyser letter carrier, is charged with murder in the slaying of his wife, Hazel Evelyn Cosner, September 3. He went on trial at the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court. After a 100 or more jurymen had been examined, only 19 were temporarily qualified. At that time Judge See ordered the 19 jurors discharged and directed that a jury from Tucker county be summoned to appear on December 9, when the case was set for resumption.

Cosner, by his counsel, petitioned the Supreme Court for a writ of prohibition against the use of a Tucker county jury to hear the case, hence the delay in completing the trial.

Counsel for the defense indicated today that bond will be requested for their client. Cosner has been held in the county jail since his arrest after the slaying.

Cresaptown section. He is slated to succeed James Park.

The name of Marshall Van Meter has also been mentioned in connection with this appointment, but most court house attaches and local GOP observers believe Taylor is the man.

Lewis M. Wilson, has been repeatedly mentioned as the new attorney to the Board of Commissioners, to succeed Horace P. Whitworth, Sr.

Sheriff-elect Edward R. Muir, who will take the oath of office Monday, announced the appointment of four deputies yesterday. He failed to name any of those with whom he served under retiring Sheriff David M. Steele.

Four New Deputies

The new deputies, who will take the oath with him are:

Edgar M. Lewis, Independence street, who has been chief clerk of Trial Magistrate's Court and a constable for several years. He previously served as a deputy under former Sheriff George Kemp. Lewis is a native of Cumberland and has been active in the Republican party for the past 20 years.

William Izat, Bedford street, who resigned yesterday morning as custodian of the court. He is a native of Lonaconing and was a coal miner prior to coming to Cumberland.

William E. Orr, Midland, a Celanese worker for the past 12 years and a Navy veteran of World War II.

George M. Harris, of Frostburg, a former coal miner.

With the resignation of Izat as court house janitor and his appointment as deputy sheriff, no successor to the job of custodian was mentioned yesterday. This appointment seemed to surprise many of the people around the court house. Dopesters had previously hinted that Muir would probably retain Deputies John Radcliffe and Albert C. James.

Yesterday, Sheriff Steele was busy moving his family and furniture from the residence next to the jail, to his home on Patterson avenue. Steele will devote his time to the printing business.

Heavner and Barger were riding in an east bound car, when it collided with the vehicle operated by Collins, in which White was a passenger.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, questioned Collins yesterday morning, but state police said no charges would be preferred against him, since he was cleared of all blame in the mishap.

Bride Is In Juvenile Detention Home; Mother Faces Charges

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 29 (AP)—A 13-year-old girl, who was quoted by police officials as saying she got married because of worries over her school work, was in a juvenile detention home tonight while her husband and mother were in jail.

Martin H. Baker, 23, Lowell, new bridegroom, was remanded to county jail after a brief appearance today before the same justice of the peace who married the couple slightly over two months ago.

Baker demanded examination on a charge of statutory rape in connection with his marriage to his youthful bride, Marjorie Sage Baker. He was unable to furnish $500 bond and was held for December 10 examination before Justice of the Peace John C. Loucks.

Mrs. Blanche Sage Howarth, 43 Morley, also demanded examination before Police Judge Edward G. Burleson when arraigned today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her minor daughter. She was unable to post $200 bond and was held for December 6 examination.

Kent County Social Director Ira M. Degan filed a delinquency charge against the bride, but probate court authorities said action on the girl's case would be deferred pending outcome of charges against two adults.

Prosecutor Bolt, Director Degan and police investigators gave this version of the Bakers' marital life:

Marjorie and Baker, a Lowell factory worker, applied for a marriage license September 11 listing the girl's age as 16 and filed a statement of consent by the mother. The two were married September 17.

Early this week Baker sought welfare aid because a back ailment kept him from working. Investigators discovered his bride's true age and called police.

The tearful Marjorie, in a statement to the prosecutor and his aides today, said she decided on marriage because she had difficulties keeping up with her seventh grade school work and was afraid she might not be promoted.

pleaded guilty — and Townsend didn't even know it.

The judge interrupted Townsend's speech to ask: "Suppose the defendant pleads guilty?"

"But this defendant isn't going to plead guilty," Townsend replied.

"He already has," said Judge Goldsborough. "Mr. Hopkins, in his opening remarks, in effect admitted the defendant was guilty."

The judge then apparently sought to soften the blow.

"Perhaps," he said, "Mr. Hopkins did it before you came to town."

"No," said Townsend. "No, I've been here all along."

Laborer Died In Vienna Prison After Confessing To 53 Killings

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Nazi government, for unexplained reasons, hushed up the story of a German "Bluebeard" who confessed 56 sex killings and died a Vienna prison death in 1944, perhaps from the effects of the Nazis' medical experiments, secret police files disclosed today.

The voluminous story was uncovered by a German newspaperman who obtained access to the six by four and a half foot bookshelf in Criminal Police Headquarters which was required to hold the secret file of Bruno Luedtke who said he had killed the 53 persons with knife, club and noose in a 20-year sex-mad career.

Outdid Dr. Petiot

Luedtke, a dark beetle-browed laborer, acknowledged crimes exceeding even those of the Frenchman, Dr. Petiot, who was sentenced to death for 49 wartime slayings which the Nazis highly publicized.

Born April 3, 1901 at suburban Koepenick, Luedtke said he committed his first four murders at the age of 16 and finally was arrested as a suspect in the January 23, 1941 murder and rape of a Berlin widow.

Most Of Victims Women

Confronted by a list of similar unsolved crimes, he blandly confessed "Yes, I not only committed this murder but many of them—about 50. Practically all were women, only when forced to do so did I also kill their husbands."

He gave police his complete "murder calendar" and accurately re-enacted the crimes at the scenes. His confessions showed he had killed at least one person every year except 1927. All but four were women.

the private operators. He added however, that there have been no benefits since the government took over last May.

If Hopkins could establish that the coal case boils down to a controversy between private owners and the union, he might lay the groundwork for an appeal of Goldsborough's ruling that the Norris-LaGuardia Act does not apply. It bars injunctions in labor disputes. The reason why the government says it does not apply in this case is that this is a matter involving sovereign powers of the government, not a private employer.

Advice To The Lovelorn

She's A "Problem Bride" And Apparently Is Proud Of It

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Here is a letter that presents such a fascinating—and thoroughly revolting—study of bare-faced gall and naked, unashamed selfishness that I don't want you to miss a word of it. So I'm setting down the whole thing, long though it is.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I don't know why you always stick up for mother-in-laws. I'll bet you wouldn't if you had to put up with my husband's mamma for twenty-four hours a day! Boy, what an old witch!

"Ever since she came to live with us she has made trouble for me. Joe—my husband—is still in the service in Europe and because of that fact the old gal thinks I should stay home and knit. 'Oh, I wouldn't go to those downtown barroooms, unescorted, 'she will chirp—or—'Perhaps dear you shouldn't be seen out so late with the young man next door—his reputation isn't quite quite what it should be'—or—'Why not have some of Joe's friends in to dinner and a pleasant evening here at home?' Why not! I'm not keen about Joe's prissy friends. They don't mix with mine. And my friends can't have any fun with the old girl hanging around being ever so ladylike and cultured.

"I suppose, Miss Fairfax, you, like everyone else, are wondering why I don't tell my mother-in-law to get going. I would have tossed her out long ago if I could. But I can't, since she owns the nice house we live in and all of the furniture and the car. She was away in Washington doing some kind of war work when Joe brought me home as his bride. When the war ended, she returned and insisted on living with us. Then Joe went overseas and she still remained. I consulted a lawler, but he tells me there is nothing I can do, although Joe comes into possession of the home and a good income when his mother finally croaks.

"You'd think at her age—she's 48 if she's a day—she'd give us youngsters a chance. Not her, though. She's so miserly, she hangs on to every cent—except a small allowance she doles out to me. Far less than it should be, considering the dough she has salted away. And then when I overdraw my account or run up a few debts for necessary clothes a girl should have, she sighs and raises here eyes like a martyr.

"I keep writing to Joe, telling him how awful she is, but he doesn't seem to realize how selfish his mother is. He seems indifferent to my sufferings. And that's what she wants. Boy, wouldn't she be glad if Joe and I busted up! Of course I could clear out myself and get a job. But I'm not very strong and I think I would be letting Joe down, such is his social position, if I did so.

"I hope you will advise me what to do and also that you will tell off this old hell cat in no uncertain terms. If you do, I'll see she gets a copy of your answer on her pretty blue breakfast tray. Please let her have it, Miss Fairfax. Give her the works!

"PROBLEM BRIDE".

My, what a terrible life you're leading, "Problem Bride." A house to live in which doesn't cost you a cent of rent. Free food along with it. A life of leisure, with no lovely job to get up and go to every morning. A car to ride in. An allowance. I certainly do feel sorry for you.

I can't think of anything more selfish than for a mother-in-law to live in her own house and make all this available to her son's wife while he is away. And it's incredible that your husband should be indifferent to such suffering. How can he be so callous? It must have worn you down to nothing when you haven't even the energy to clear out and get yourself a job, but only just strength enough to totter to the nearest bar and try to drown your sorrows, or to run around to all hours of the night with the young man next door.

It's too bad you're so handicapped by your husband's social position, too. I wouldn't struggle too hard to keep up with it, though. Somehow I just don't think you're going to be able to make the grade.

If I were your mother-in-law, "Problem Bride," I'd be far kinder to you. I'd take you by the scruff of your little neck and set you right out on the curbstone, go back into my house and keep the door locked so you couldn't come whining back. I'd cut off that allowance so fast that if you wanted to eat you'd either have to do a little good honest work to get the money to buy some food, or beg a sandwich at someone's back door. And if you ran up any debts for clothes or anything else, I'd let you face the consequences.

Do put a copy of this on your mother-in-law's breakfast tray. I'm afraid it wouldn't do any good, though. I'm afraid she's just too kind-hearted, and too fond of her son, and too truly a lady to do any of these things.

She wouldn't czbdfwor

She probably won't have to, anyhow. As soon as this son gets home and finds out what's going on, he'll likely take matters into his own hands and make sure his mother doesn't trouble you any more. And I'd be very much surprised if very shortly thereafter he didn't come to the conclusion that he wouldn't trouble you any more himself either.

Today's Talk

THE MIRACLE OF OPPORTUNITY

If we actually knew that certain opportunities were to come our way, this fact would kill most of our incentive, and much of our hopeful expectation. The late William Allen White has said it is the "divine discontent" of a free people that pushes them forward, and he mentions America to prove his point.

The United States has but six per cent of the world's population, yet it is the richest and most powerful nation in the world. It is the Miracle of Opportunity that has created such a nation, with the throttle of free enterprise wide open. Opportunity is always free, but individual effort, as well, must be free in order to welcome Opportunity when it steps up.

You will recall the character of Micawber in Dickens' "David Copperfield," who was always waiting for something to turn up, but who did nothing to bring this about. An old friend of mine used to say that Opportunity was a patient old fellow, who often knocked time and again, but that none of us should expect him to kick the door panels in!

There are those who contend the day of great opportunities are past, that there are no new frontiers to conquer. Nothing could be more fallacious. There are more opportunities today than ever before in the world's history. There are so many that they crowd one another!

Anyone who will stride out for a new idea—or even a new world to conquer—will soon realize the Miracle of Opportunity. And little opportunities grow up! It's the doing of little things—and doing them well—that inspires the desire to hunt out bigger ones. And they are always around. You just have to welcome them—and they are yours.

Henry Ford once told me that anyone who could create a useful article would not have to worry about making money from it. It's the "better mousetrap" idea that always wins out. The world awaits with open arms, the one with a useful idea, and with the will and enterprise to put it over. Then it is that the Miracle of Opportunity is pictured in flaming colors.

We need, more and more, to dare to dare! There is a New Order shaping, in which there is hope for a better and a higher spiritual valuation placed upon all human kind. Let us join to make it a universal triumph!

Rivers

I happily envy those who live beside a beautiful river. It has so much personality, so much poetry, so much drama, and almost human feeling. For hours, recently, I viewed from my car window the great Connecticut, which streams its beauty through the hills and valleys of New England. Watching its flow, its turns, and its imagined moods, the hours seemed to flow in like manner to its waters—peacefully and intriguingly.

There is always interest, in abundance, connected with every river. How each greens and fertilizes the land thereabout. How happy the stock that grazes about its banks. I always look forward to that drive from St. John, New Brunswick, to Moncton. It is a driving poem! And that other drive, from Fredericksburg, along the St. John River, to St. John. My mind is pictured with the scenes of great rivers—the Merrimack, the Ohio, the Mississippi, the Hudson, the Columbia and endless others.

Stephen Foster wrote one of his most famous and beloved songs about a river—the Suwannee, though I am told he never cast his eyes upon it! H. M. Tomlinson wrote one of his most fascinating descriptions about the famous Amazon, in South America, in his book" The Sea and the Jungle." And Mark Twain has immortalized the Mississippi in his "Huckleberry Finn." The river has always been a favorite topic of poets and many song writers. And we all love to hear that greatest of all songs about a river—"Old Man River."

I never look upon a river without sensing its personality. It seems almost human in its flow and movement. I like to boat in it leisurely, and drink in its beauty that is so evident at every turn of the eye. Interest abounds within and without its course.

How important are these rivers that network the earth! They were our first mode of navigation, and remain important to this day as such, but most of all for their watering of the land. What a distributer of benefits is that of the famous Nile River! And right now one of the most troublesome problems of the United Nations is how the Danube River shall be handled among the quarreling nations about its banks — and beyond. Rivers are the very veins of life to millions of human beings.

Paroles Are Sought For Bedford Couple

BEDFORD, Pa., Nov. 30—A petition was filed Wednesday with the Bedford County Court asking the parole of Dr. and Mrs. David M. Lee, of Bedford, R. D., who are serving eight-months terms in the county jail on their plea of guilty to charges growing out of alleged cruelty to a young domestic in their home.

Attorney Richard C. Snyder, defense counsel, filed the petition with Judge Wright. The case was set for a hearing on Dec. 9 at 1:30 p. m.

The petition included an affidavit from Dr. N. A. Timmins, jail physician, stating that further confinement would impair the future health of Mrs. Lee and might result in her death. She is now a patient at Timmins Hospital, where she is receiving treatment for a nervous breakdown. She was removed to the hospital from the jail several days ago.

The Lees were jailed last Sept. 17 after they were sentenced by Judge Wright following their plea of guilty to charges of assault and battery, which resulted from alleged beating, of Beatrice (Betty) Reffner.

Paugh Surrenders

Charles L. Paugh, of the Vindex section, sought on an abduction charge gave himself up to officers Thursday and was lodged in the Garrett County Jail in Oakland to await a hearing, according to Magistrate H. A. Loraditch.

Paugh is accused of abducting his 4-year-old daughter after he had been ordered to remain away from his wife's home. The child, said to have been taken by Paugh last Friday, was returned to the mother Wednesday, authorities said.

The safest person in the United States is a little girl between 5 and 14 years old who lives in Rhode Island, according to National Safety Council statistics.

HENRY: "What did they find out, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, as a result of their medical research, they found out that approximately 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times. Included in that 5% is the small percentage known as alcoholics."

Advice To The Lovelorn

She's A "Problem Bride" And Apparently Is Proud Of It

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Here is a letter that presents such a fascinating—and thoroughly revolting—study of bare-faced gall and naked, unashamed selfishness that I don't want you to miss a word of it. So I'm setting down the whole thing, long though it is.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I don't know why you always stick up for mother-in-laws. I'll bet you wouldn't if you had to put up with my husband's mamma for twenty-four hours a day! Boy, what an old witch!

"Ever since she came to live with us she has made trouble for me. Joe—my husband—is still in the service in Europe and because of that fact the old gal thinks I should stay home and knit. 'Oh, I wouldn't go to those downtown barroooms, unescorted, 'she will chirp—or—'Perhaps dear you shouldn't be seen out so late with the young man next door—his reputation isn't quite quite what it should be'—or—'Why not have some of Joe's friends in to dinner and a pleasant evening here at home?' Why not! I'm not keen about Joe's prissy friends. They don't mix with mine. And my friends can't have any fun with the old girl hanging around being ever so ladylike and cultured.

"I suppose, Miss Fairfax, you, like everyone else, are wondering why I don't tell my mother-in-law to get going. I would have tossed her out long ago if I could. But I can't, since she owns the nice house we live in and all of the furniture and the car. She was away in Washington doing some kind of war work when Joe brought me home as his bride. When the war ended, she returned and insisted on living with us. Then Joe went overseas and she still remained. I consulted a lawler, but he tells me there is nothing I can do, although Joe comes into possession of the home and a good income when his mother finally croaks.

"You'd think at her age—she's 48 if she's a day—she'd give us youngsters a chance. Not her, though. She's so miserly, she hangs on to every cent—except a small allowance she doles out to me. Far less than it should be, considering the dough she has salted away. And then when I overdraw my account or run up a few debts for necessary clothes a girl should have, she sighs and raises here eyes like a martyr.

"I keep writing to Joe, telling him how awful she is, but she doesn't seem to realize how selfish his mother is. He seems indifferent to my sufferings. And that's what she wants. Boy, wouldn't she be glad if Joe and I busted up! Of course I could clear out myself and get a job. But I'm not very strong and I think I would be letting Joe down, such is his social position, if I did so.

"I hope you will advise me what to do and also that you will tell off this old hell cat in no uncertain terms. If you do, I'll see she gets a copy of your answer on her pretiy blue breakfast tray. Please let her have it, Miss Fairfax. Give her the works!

"PROBLEM BRIDE".

My, what a terrible life you're leading, "Problem Bride." A house to live in which doesn't cost you a cent of rent. Free food along with it. A life of leisure, with no lovely job to get up and go to every morning. A car to ride in. An allowance. I certainly do feel sorry for you.

I can't think of anything more selfish than for a mother-in-law to live in her own house and make all this available to her son's wife while he is away. And it's incredible that your husband should be indifferent to such suffering. How can he be so callous? It must have worn you down to nothing when you haven't even the energy to clear out and get yourself a job, but only just strength enough to totter to the nearest bar and try to drown your sorrows, or to run around to all hours of the night with the young man next door.

It's too bad you're so handicapped by your husband's social position, too. I wouldn't struggle too hard to keep up with it, though. Somehow I just don't think you're going to be able to make the grade.

If I were your mother-in-law, "Problem Bride," I'd be far kinder to you. I'd take you by the scruff of your little neck and set you right out on the curbstone, go back into my house and keep the door locked so you couldn't come whining back. I'd cut off that allowance so fast that if you wanted to eat you'd either have to do a little good honest work to get the money to buy some food, or beg a sandwich at someone's back door. And if you ran up any debts for clothes or anything else, I'd let you face the consequences.

Do put a copy of this on your mother-in-law's breakfast tray. I'm afraid it wouldn't do any good, though. I'm afraid she's just too kind-hearted, and too fond of her son, and too truly a lady to do any of these things.

She wouldn't czbdfwor

She probably won't have to, anyhow. As soon as this son gets home and finds out what's going on, he'll likely take matters into his own hands and make sure his mother doesn't trouble you any more. And I'd be very much surprised if very shortly thereafter he didn't come to the conclusion that he wouldn't trouble you any more himself either.

Today's Talk

THE MIRACLE OF OPPORTUNITY

If we actually knew that certain opportunities were to come our way, this fact would kill most of our incentive, and much of our hopeful expectation. The late William Allen White has said it is the "divine discontent" of a free people that pushes them forward, and he mentions America to prove his point.

The United States has but six per cent of the world's population, yet it is the richest and most powerful nation in the world. It is the Miracle of Opportunity that has created such a nation, with the throttle of free enterprise wide open. Opportunity is always free, but individual effort, as well, must be free in order to welcome Opportunity when it steps up.

You will recall the character of Micawber in Dickens' "David Copperfield," who was always waiting for something to turn up, but who did nothing to bring this about. An old friend of mine used to say that Opportunity was a patient old fellow, who often knocked time and again, but that none of us should expect him to kick the door panels in!

There are those who contend the day of great opportunities are past, that there are no new frontiers to conquer. Nothing could be more fallacious. There are more opportunities today than ever before in the world's history. There are so many that they crowd one another!

Anyone who will stride out for a new idea—or even a new world to conquer—will soon realize the Miracle of Opportunity. And little opportunities grow up! It's the doing of little things—and doing them well—that inspires the desire to hunt out bigger ones. And they are always around. You just have to welcome them—and they are yours.

Henry Ford once told me that anyone who could create a useful article would not have to worry about making money from it. It's the "better mousetrap" idea that always wins out. The world awaits with open arms, the one with a useful idea, and with the will and enterprise to put it over. Then it is that the Miracle of Opportunity is pictured in flaming colors.

We need, more and more, to dare to dare! There is a New Order shaping, in which there is hope for a better and a higher spiritual valuation placed upon all human kind. Let us join to make it a universal triumph!

Rivers

I happily envy those who live beside a beautiful river. It has so much personality, so much poetry, so much drama, and almost human feeling. For hours, recently, I viewed from my car window the great Connecticut, which streams its beauty through the hills and valleys of New England. Watching its flow, its turns, and its imagined moods, the hours seemed to flow in like manner to its waters—peacefully and intriguingly.

There is always interest, in abundance, connected with every river. How each greens and fertilizes the land thereabout. How happy the stock that grazes about its banks. I always look forward to that drive from St. John, New Brunswick, to Moncton. It is a driving poem! And that other drive, from Fredericksburg, along the St. John River, to St. John. My mind is pictured with the scenes of great rivers—the Merrimack, the Ohio, the Mississippi, the Hudson, the Columbia and endless others.

Stephen Foster wrote one of his most famous and beloved songs about a river—the Suwannee, though I am told he never cast his eyes upon it!H. M. Tomlinson wrote one of his most fascinating descriptions about the famous Amazon, in South America, in his book" The Sea and the Jungle." And Mark Twain has immortalized the Mississippi in his "Huckleberry Finn." The river has always been a favorite topic of poets and many song writers. And we all love to hear that greatest of all songs about a river—"Old Man River."

I never look upon a river without sensing its personality. It seems almost human in its flow and movement. I like to boat in it leisurely, and drink in its beauty that is so evident at every turn of the eye. Interest abounds within and without its course.

How important are these rivers that network the earth! They were our first mode of navigation, and remain important to this day as such, but most of all for their watering of the land. What a distributer of benefits is that of the famous Nile River! And right now one of the most troublesome problems of the United Nations is how the Danube River shall be handled among the quarreling nations about its banks — and beyond. Rivers are the very veins of life to millions of human beings.

Vote On Anti-Smoke Issue Proves Residents For Control

Balloting by residents of Cumberland on smoke control comes to an end at midnight tonight, but it will hardly be necessary to wait until the last vote is counted to learn the outcome.

Surveys of the tallies made from day to day since the campaign opened, and which were published to permit the public to follow the voting, have been convincing enough to show the people of the city are clamoring for smoke control. The majority in favor of a city ordinance is so great, within only a matter of hours before the voting comes to an end, that the opposition registered can not be expected to have much influence on the issue.

This outpouring of opinions has been most gratifying to this newspaper in its effort to get some semblance of feeling on the matter. It demonstrates how sentiment has so solidly crystalized on a question the City Council has been playing with for months.

It should be pointed out that those voting for city action against smoke did not direct their thoughts to railroads and industries alone. A large percentage is disclosed to favor extending the legislation to include homes, as well. While the matter of homes being included as part of the provisions of an ordinance has not been strongly advocated up to this time it has been given some thought, and in face of the desire expressed on the ballots it probably will get greater consideration. It has been contended that when the results of smoke control from railroads and industries are clearly known, the residents themselves will want to become part of this cleanup crusade by adopting measures, either through devices, or by burning a smokeless type of fuel in home heating plants.

During the period of balloting it has been shown through news stories that smoke control measures, wherever they have been adopted, have been most successful, and the results of the endeavor such that residents of those cities would fight against returning to conditions that prevailed before smoke and dirt had been finally harnessed.

It should be noted that heads of industries and public utilities in cities having anti-smoke ordinances are unanimous in acknowledging that adherence to the legislation has not only increased efficiency, but fuel costs in the operation of their plants have been reduced. Railroad operating officials in St. Louis, to name one of the many localities enjoying freedom from smoke, are in agreement that measures anti-smoke ordinances required them to take have not only brought about improvements in operations, but proven economy. And, it is claimed, it has all been accomplished without any of the establishments classed as smoke offenders reducing employment.

The balloting by the people of Cumberland has been in such volume as to give a convincing cross-section picture of opinion for and against smoke control, and in face of this mandate for control it is difficult to see how the City Council can delay much longer enactment of necessary legislation to put an end to the dirt nuisance, and restore to Cumberland its long-time distinction of "The Queen City of the Alleghenies."

Despite the excellent record the American radio has chalked up plugging for Russia, Moscow will permit no more short wave broadcasts to the U. S. Gratitude Communist style.

Housing Administrator Should Consider People

In the current scrap between Housing Administrator Wyatt and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation there is one point which, it seems to many persons, is being given far too little consideration. This is whether people will want to live in the kind of homes which Mr. Wyatt is attempting to get built.

According to a news story, the Lustron Corporation, for which the Housing Administration has been vainly seeking a $52,000,000 RFC grant, has been specializing in the manufacture of a certain type of gasoline service station. It makes these buildings of white and colored enameled steel sheets, and its idea is to make dwellings of the same materials.

It is no doubt true that most people would rather live in a house which looks vaguely like a gasoline filling station than have no home at all. But before the government spends the rather sizeable sum of $52,000,000 to subsidize the construction of prefabricated housing of this type, it might be a good idea to ascertain whether there is any future in it.

The Housing Administration admits that the credit it wants the RFC to grant "is not a good business loan." It justifies the request solely on the ground that housing is desperately needed. But it is also true that one of the major reasons why the government is subsidizing prefabrication of dwellings is to get cheaper housing for the future.

Therefore the government should be backing the types with the greatest chances of success and of winning popular favor. Unless the Lustron enameled steel house belongs in this class, the $52,000,000 might be more profitably spent in speeding construction of conventional type homes.

Government is unable to determine whether rhubarb is a fruit or a vegetabie, but has it explored the possibilities of applying a more descriptive term?

Brain Power

Science has definitely proved that dinosaurs ruled the earth for 140,000,000 years. Specimens discovered weighed up to 40 tons, and are known to have dominated all other living creatures. What puzzles the scientists is how they got away with it in view of the fact they were big but dumb. Their brains never weighed more than a few ounces, in contrast with a 150-pound man whose brain weighs three pounds.

Man, with his superior brain power, has been around a little more than one million years. It is true he has advanced to a state greatly improved over that of the dinosaur. He is dominant but still has a long way to go to equal the length of existence established by his predecessor.

Scientists are at a loss to explain this disparity. It could mean that as living creatures grew wiser they became weaker. Man's allotted three score and ten years may be more desirable than the centuries the dinosaurs held forth. But in the contrast there is proof long life does not depend upon brain capacity. In fact, the opposite seems to be true.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

MODIFYING MEASLES

AN OUNCE of prevention is still worth a pound of cure even in these days of inflation. In certain diseases such as typhoid and smallpox, we must rely upon foresight with vaccination, for the physician has little to offer should the disorders gain a foothold.

For measles, no preventive vaccine is available. On the other hand, there are preparations which can be administered to one who has been exposed and in whom the chances of becoming a victim are great. We cannot create a lasting immunity but the child can be tided over the three weeks when danger is most imminent. This is possible by giving serum from a convalescent patient, placental extract, or immune globulin. Each is effective but the last is the most potent and easiest to use.

Since most of us have had measles, it is reasonable to assume that our circulating fluid contains immunizing bodies which are sufficient to spare us from additional bouts. Thus a second episode is rare. While the American Red Cross was collecting blood for war time purposes, a certain fraction of the serum was removed and concentrated to such an extent that a small amount supplied 25 times as much protective material as was in the blood itself. This is called "immune globulin" and will prevent or modify measles in any one who has been exposed.

The incubation period is usually between 10 and 11 days and, to be successful, the solution must be employed before the seventh day after exposure. Since measles is one of our most contagious maladies, youngsters who come into contact with a victim are most likely to contract it. But when globulin is administered, only a few go on and develop typical symptoms. Many are spared entirely and others encounter a light case. Instead of running a high fever, with signs of prostration, the temperature is elevated only slightly. The catarrhal manifestations in the nose and eyes appear but are less pronounced than in the regular siege. Even the skin eruption may ensue but the lesions are light and fewer in number.

Reactions sometimes arise but are generally minimal and hardly comparable to the actual case. Soreness at the site of injection may be present and now and then the child is irritable for the following 24 hours.

Since measles is not too serious one might wonder why protection is recommended. The danger in older youngsters is slight but in tots under 2 and those who are already debilitated or sick from other causes, the condition is often serious. The plan is advised, therefore, in all pre-school agers, particularly when older brothers or sisters are afflicted. The disease is contagious as soon as fever begins to rise and catarrhal symptoms in the nose and eyes exist, about three days before the rash is observed.

Placental globulin is equally effective except that five to 10 times the dose is essential for the same degree of immunity. With convalescent serum, a much larger quantity is needed. Whichever is used, protection is short lived and should the boy or girl be exposed at a later date, another injection is required. But if a mild attack has occurred, this is not necessary.

No. There are many tall athletes. When certain muscles are overdeveloped, so that the individual becomes broader, it is possible that he may seem shorter. But this is a farfetched situation.

BENEFIT FOR WOUNDED VETERANS

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—Twenty-five thousand people crowded the stadium here a night or so ago in a moving answer to whether or not the people have forgotten the heroes of World War II. The Harvest Moon benefit was sold out a week before it was presented in a heartwarming demonstration that the purple heart league is having no off-season in the hearts of Americans.

A part of the receipts was earmarked for hospital work, so naturally Frankie Sinatra was glad to appear. . . Frankie never knows when the bread on the waters may come back in the form of plasma. The entertainment committee chairman used a master stroke to get other male celebrities. He just told them Jane Russell was going to be there and the line swarmed on the right. And when I saw Jane joined by Janis Paige and Frances Langford, I was glad I stayed up all night to get to the head of it.

But it was a delightful night. . . I was amazed to find that Jane Russell was an authority on Chinese pottery. . .too.

Lena Horne was one of the high spots of the evening. They staged a contest between us. . . and while they all agreed that Lena was prettier, my horn was voted to be trickier.

Seriously though, I do wish veterans who are still lying in the wards throughout the Nation could have been there. Chicago has been noted for a long time as a town that has a very cold wind blowing off the lake, but it proved the other night that where veterans are concerned it hasn't reached its heart.

John L. Lewis' Broken Contract Forces U. S. To Break Contracts With Europe; Lewis Condemns Communism Here, Helps It Abroad; Public Getting Frustrated

Says DREW PEARSON

(Ed Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of an open letter to John L. Lewis.)

John L. Lewis, President
The United Mine Workers
Washington, D. C.
Dear John:

A young man just out of the Army was talking to me the other day. What he said represents the viewpoint of a lot of young men, and I thought you might be interested in hearing it.

"I don't know who caused the depression," he said. "But I know I didn't. I was only eleven years old when it started, and as a result I couldn't go to college. Instead I went to support the family at sixteen, with my ambition to be a mechanical engineer gone glimmering.

"I don't know the answers on the war either. But Hitler was in Poland before I was old enough to vote, so I don't think I started it. However, I had to take four years out of my life to help finish it. And when I came home, my wife and I had grown so far apart that our marriage flopped.

"All that may have been inevitable, and I'm not complaining about the past. I don't begrudge the four years I gave to my country. But I do begrudge the present and future. What I'm interested in is where we go from here. And judging by the strikes and the general attitude of kick-the-other-fellow-in-the-shines, we aren't going anywhere fast."

Your own boy, Mr. Lewis, was luckier than that. You were able to send him to the Woodbury School in Virginia, then to Princeton, then to medical college. Which is all right. He is a fine boy, and deserved all the education he could get. But there are thousands of others who were not so lucky as your boy. And they are asking the very same question as my friend—where does the country go from here? And why do certain leaders keep on muddying up their lives?

Youths' Contract With USA

They too have a contract—a contract with life—to do for the world as they are done by. It may not be written in black and white, as your contract with the government, but it's there just the same. And without quibbling over legal loopholes, they want to make something of that contract—just as your boy does. Many of them have spent their best year fulfilling their end of the contract—all the way from Guadalcanal to Normandy—and now what they want is a period without depressions and without wars to collect some dividends.

And they know—far more than you and I realize—what broken contracts will mean in this highly integrated, highly sensitized world.

They know, for instance, that when you broke your contract with the government, the government in turn had to break its contract with France for coal. That means several million people in France will suffer this winter. I know something about that, because my brother and his four kids are over there, and their ration for all last winter was one ton of coal. This year they were hoping to do better, but, thanks to a broken contract, they won't.

However, they can buy wood at $50 a cord. And much more important are millions of others in France who can't buy wood and who are going to say: "The United States broke its contract." More important also are the French industries which won't operate; and finally the growing number of people now leaning toward communistic Russia and away from the kind of democracy jointly founded by America and France.

Lewis Foments Communism

All your life, John Lewis, you have been the sworn enemy of Communism. I was looking up your speeches made back in the Wilson Administration, and even then, twenty-five years ago, you were denouncing the Reds just as vigorously as you have been since. I agree with you on this. But right now you yourself have become the greatest single contributor to the growth of Communism in the entire United States.

You are the chief American instigator of Communism in Europe, and you may be the chief instigator right here in the United States. You are the best friend and collaborator the Reds have.

For a cold and shivering world plays right into the hands of every Red agitator from Seattle to Salerno.

France is not the only country which will suffer from broken contracts. There is England which has contracted to get certain goods from us, especially food. And finally there is Italy. Your government, John, has a contract with Italy to deliver all the coal that country planned to use this winter. Now, that contract is broken.

Do you know what that means? Hitler knew what it meant, and all during the war he used coal to whip the people of Italy into line. He knew that merely by cutting off several thousand coal cars from the Brenner Pass, the Italian people would shiver and Italian industry would grind to a stop.

To replace that German coal, Italy had a contract with us. Now, it won't be kept. Forgetting any sympathy you or I might have for the Italian people, let's consider what this means to future generations, to your boy and mine. It means that the Italians, who have been trying under great adversity to steer an even course away from both Fascism and Communism, will now be more susceptible to agitators from both sides.

In other words, John, you are now helping the people you have spent your life denouncing.

How Fascism Started

I was in Italy after World War I before Mussolini came into power, and it was the strikes, depression, broken contracts and broken promises, plus a great sense of frustration, which finally drove the Italian people into the arms of Fascism.

In your limited walks from the United Mine Workers offices to the Carlton Hotel, you may not grasp the fact that the American people are feeling the same sense of frustration today. They are tired of living in jerks. They are tired of getting up steam for a long stretch of work and then being jerked to a sudden stop by strikes.

And while they sympathize with the fact that the cost of living has gone up for miners, they also know that it has gone up for 140,000,000 other people, most of whom do not have powerful unions which can paralyze the United States until their cost-of-living demands are met.

They also recall that it was you—supported by Bill Green and Senators Taft and Wherry—who yelled loudest for the end of controls on food and the end of wage stabilization. This was all right for you—your mighty union is in a position to get what it wants. But it is not all right for millions of others who are unorganized.

No, John, there are some 140,000,000 other people living in this country, who, like the young man I just quoted, believe that they also have a contract—a contract to live and work and enjoy the fruits of their toil. And there is no clause in their contract whereby one man has the right to topple the economy of their country like a juggler stopping in the middle of his act.

You, John Lewis, conspired to ship oil to Fascist Germany when she was menacing all that we stood for. Now you refuse to mine coal for Italy when she is trying to live down her Fascism. Once may be a mistake, but twice may be treason.

The American people are patient people, but I warn that their patience some day may reach the boiling point.

And when that times comes, not only the hard-won gains of labor, but the cherished guarantees by which you have the right to stand up in court and defend yourself will be swept into one pile and go up in the same flame which Mussolini lit when he took advantage of Italian frustration.

If this time ever comes, you John Lewis, will have done more to fan the flame than any other man in America.

Once our Friend,
Drew Pearson.

Atmosphere Over Mine Paralysis Proving Injurious

By MARK SULLIVAN

There is a thing that is called "the atmosphere." It is as intangible as the word implies. Yet in many situations, especially controversies, it is more decisive than the factors that are tangible and concrete. Military men call it "the psychological factor" or "morale," and know that it decides many battles.

In the conflict between the Administration and Mr. John L. Lewis an atmosphere is being generated, quite possibly without justification, that works to the disadvantage of the Administration. It consists of an impression that this conflict is not to be a real showdown, that it is likely to end by negotiation—not negotiation between Mr. Lewis and the Administration, but between Mr. Lewis and mine owners. Rumors of gestures toward negotiation are heard by the people through press and radio. There is some residuum of fact. There has been some communication between Mr. Lewis and some mine owners or persons supposed to have influence with mine owners, toward what end is not reported. When this came to the attention of other mine owners they showed concern and disapproval. The net of ascertainable information refutes the idea that this controversy is likely to be ended by negotiation between the mine owners and Mr. Lewis.

Result Confusing To People

But there is a result, confusing to the people. These hear from one radio commentator that Mr. Lewis would like to "get himself off the hook," which is likely enough. From another they hear that the Administration would "welcome a way out." Thus an atmosphere is created which does not come from an action of the Administration but is detrimental to it.

What the Administration needs is to create its own atmosphere, by its own actions make the people understand that it is resolute. What it has done so far has been resolute enough, it has asked for an injunction against Mr. Lewis and contended for it firmly. But the nature of this step is such that conclusion will take time. Mr. Lewis contends that he has a right to terminate his contract with the government. Any question about interpretation of a contract is material for long-drawn-out legal proceedings. Mr. Lewis contends also that even if his interpretation of the contract is incorrect, an injunction against his action is contrary to an anti-injunction statute long in existence. Long argument over technical legal considerations would be likely to dissipate an attitude on the part of the people which wants greatly to resist Mr. Lewis and support the Administration.

When conflicts analagous to the present one arose between Mr. Lewis and President Roosevelt, with Mr. Lewis winning, it was occasionally said that were the situation reversed, were Mr. Lewis President of the United States and Mr. Roosevelt a labor leader, the outcome would have been reversed also. Resoluteness is a quality of which Mr. Lewis has too much for the public good. Mr. Roosevelt was resolute enough, when he chose to be; when among many examples, he ordered the Army to take over Montgomery Ward, resulting in soldiers carrying the president of that corporation out of his office. But the resoluteness which Mr. Roosevelt thus showed when Montgomery Ward did not obey a directive of the War Labor Board, he did not show when Mr. Lewis refused to obey a similar directive of the same board.

Roosevelt Acts Handicap Roosevelt

The victories Mr. Lewis won during the Roosevelt administration increase Mr. Truman's difficulty now. They entrenched Mr. Lewis in power and give him confidence in his present challenge to the government. What Mr. Truman needs is to take an attitude which will convince the public that he means to carry the conflict to an end, means to show that the government is more powerful than Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Truman is met with arguments that tend toward irresoluteness. It is said that it would be unwise to make a martyr of Mr. Lewis. But the people of the United States would rather see Mr. Lewis than see the country a martyr. When it is proposed that the government take over the mines, in the true sense and not the nominal one as at present; when it is suggested that the mines be operated by the Army, reply is made that you can't mine coal with bayonets. But it is difficult to imagine that an Army which met prodigious emergencies and carried on immense and intricate enterprises during the war, could not take coal out of the ground. Anyhow, it would not be likely to come to that, the question would answer itself. Demonstration of resoluteness on the part of the Administration, and the atmosphere it would create, would be enough.

Road To Labor Reform Legislation Opened By Blundering Acts By Lewis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — Regardless of the outcome of the legal moves which surround the controversy of John L. Lewis and the federal government, the die has been cast for new labor legislation. Organized labor has reached the peak of its power and every change now will be toward the restriction of its monopoly.

Monopoly never can be popular in America, whether it is practiced by corporations, labor unions or any other organization. For 14 years union labor has abused the powers and special privileges given to it by a politically corrupt administration in Washington, which traded votes for special privileges in the most scandalous misuse of public power since the '90's—when corporations bought their way into government by analogous methods.

The so-called rights of labor now have come into jeopardy. Inherent right such as the right to work or to quit work never will be disturbed, because these are protected by the constitution. But the so-called right of two or more individuals to conspire and persuade others to commit acts of economic violence and the privilege of such a group to monopolize the job-giving power by means of the "closed shop" will presently be taken away.

Road To Reforms Opened

The reforms may not come immediately, in the next congress; but the road has been opened. The monopolies inherent in labor unions are doomed. The American people have been aroused as never before. They are beginning to see nation-wide unions as a form of tyranny and despotism and, in the case of the coal controversy, they have seen actual insurrection—defiance of the courts and of the government itself.

If organized labor had set out to commit political suicide, it could not have chosen more effective strategy than it has used in the last fortnight. The A. F. of L. and the CIO top executives have been misled and badly advised by counsel who are living in the past. They have blundered repeatedly. They have mistaken the good nature of the American people for continued tolerance of union labor's usurpation of power.

Several labor unions enjoying nation-wide power have developed an arrogant leadership not unlike that which characterized executives of big corporations a few decades ago. The leadership of the national unions has actually gone to the point of carrying on class-warfare propaganda not unlike that of the revolutionaries in other countries. Communists moreover have infiltrated into some of the best unions and have forced the leaders to go to extremes. Now the American people are beginning to understand it all as a method of setting up a super-government which, by means of political action committees and other devices, has been used in an attempt to run the government itself.

Days of Such Appeasing Over

The days of appeasing such a destructive movement are over. An economic recession faces America because 16,000,000 workers have been exploited by a few men in wage drives that have cut the purchasing power of the dollar for the other 44,000,000 workers not in labor unions.

Such a distortion has dropped the stock market to a point below the lowest level of the past 16 years and has introduced fear and uncertainty into business generally. The labor unions could not have developed a more effective strategy for committing economic suicide and weakening post-war America than they have applied to block the reconversion efforts of industry since V-J Day.

A deep depression will be averted, a balanced economy will be restored, new confidence will be created in business, and the use of new capital to expand domestic and world markets will be encouraged—in fact prosperity is possible now only if Congress and the President deal resolutely with labor union arrogance and its abuse of power under the Wagner act.

No responsible group in congress wants to see the Wagner Act repealed nor collective bargaining eliminated nor unions destroyed; but there is a majority which favors applying to unions all the restrictions which apply to corporations wherever and whenever the public interest can be damaged.

The organized power of any group to control or dominate the economic life of the country is about to be destroyed by legislation. The coal strike has been a salutary influence in opening the eyes of the American people.

Vote On Anti-Smoke Issue Proves Residents For Control

Balloting by residents of Cumberland on smoke control comes to an end at midnight tonight, but it will hardly be necessary to wait until the last vote is counted to learn the outcome.

Surveys of the tallies made from day to day since the campaign opened, and which were published to permit the public to follow the voting, have been convincing enough to show the people of the city are clamoring for smoke control. The majority in favor of a city ordinance is so great, within only a matter of hours before the voting comes to an end, that the opposition registered can not be expected to have much influence on the issue.

This outpouring of opinions has been most gratifying to this newspaper in its effort to get some semblance of feeling on the matter. It demonstrates how sentiment has so solidly crystalized on a question the City Council has been playing with for months.

It should be pointed out that those voting for city action against smoke did not direct their thoughts to railroads and industries alone. A large percentage is disclosed to favor extending the legislation to include homes, as well. While the matter of homes being included as part of the provisions of an ordinance has not been strongly advocated up to this time it has been given some thought, and in face of the desire expressed on the ballots it probably will get greater consideration. It has been contended that when the results of smoke control from railroads and industries are clearly known, the residents themselves will want to become part of this cleanup crusade by adopting measures, either through devices, or by burning a smokeless type of fuel in home heating plants.

During the period of balloting it has been shown through news stories that smoke control measures, wherever they have been adopted, have been most successful, and the results of the endeavor such that residents of those cities would fight against returning to conditions that prevailed before smoke and dirt had been finally harnessed.

It should be noted that heads of industries and public utilities in cities having anti-smoke ordinances are unanimous in acknowledging that adherence to the legislation has not only increased efficiency, but fuel costs in the operation of their plants have been reduced. Railroad operating officials in St. Louis, to name one of the many localities enjoying freedom from smoke, are in agreement that measures anti-smoke ordinances required them to take have not only brought about improvements in operations, but proven economy. And, it is claimed, it has all been accomplished without any of the establishments classed as smoke offenders reducing employment.

The balloting by the people of Cumberland has been in such volume as to give a convincing cross-section picture of opinion for and against smoke control, and in face of this mandate for control it is difficult to see how the City Council can delay much longer enactment of necessary legislation to put an end to the dirt nuisance, and restore to Cumberland its long-time distinction of "The Queen City of the Alleghenies."

Brain Power

Science has definitely proved that dinosaurs ruled the earth for 140,000,000 years. Specimens discovered weighed up to 40 tons, and are known to have dominated all other living creatures. What puzzles the scientists is how they got away with it in view of the fact they were big but dumb. Their brains never weighed more than a few ounces, in contrast with a 150-pound man whose brain weighs three pounds.

Man, with his superior brain power, has been around a little more than one million years. It is true he has advanced to a state greatly improved over that of the dinosaur. He is dominant but still has a long way to go to equal the length of existence established by his predecessor.

Scientists are at a loss to explain this disparity. It could mean that as living creatures grew wiser they became weaker. Man's allotted three score and ten years may be more desirable than the centuries the dinosaurs held forth. But in the contrast there is proof long life does not depend upon brain capacity. In fact, the opposite seems to be true.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

MODIFYING MEASLES

AN OUNCE of prevention is still worth a pound of cure even in these days of inflation. In certain diseases such as typhoid and smallpox, we must rely upon foresight with vaccination, for the physician has little to offer should the disorders gain a foothold.

For measles, no prevéntive vaccine is available. On the other hand, there are preparations which can be administered to one who has been exposed and in whom the chances of becoming a victim are great. We cannot create a lasting immunity but the child can be tided over the three weeks when danger is most imminent. This is possible by giving serum from a convalescent patient, placental extract, or immune globulin. Each is effective but the last is the most potent and easiest to use.

Since most of us have had measles, it is reasonable to assume that our circulating fluid contains immunizing bodies which are sufficient to spare us from additional bouts. Thus a second episode is rare. While the American Red Cross was collecting blood for war time purposes, a certain fraction of the serum was removed and concentrated to such an extent that a small amount supplied 25 times as much protective material as was in the blood itself. This is called "immune globulin" and will prevent or modify measles in any one who has been exposed.

The incubation period is usually between 10 and 11 days and, to be successful, the solution must be employed before the seventh day after exposure. Since measles is one of our most contagious maladies, youngsters who come into contact with a victim are most likely to contract it. But when globulin is administered, only a few go on and develop typical symptoms. Many are spared entirely and others encounter a light case. Instead of running a high fever, with signs of prostration, the temperature is elevated only slightly. The catarrhal manifestations in the nose and eyes appear but are less pronounced than in the regular siege. Even the skin eruption may ensue but the lesions are light and fewer in number.

Reactions sometimes arise but are generally minimal and hardly comparable to the actual case. Soreness at the site of injection may be present and now and then the child is irritable for the following 24 hours.

Since measles is not too serious one might wonder why protection is recommended. The danger in older youngsters is slight but in tots under 2 and those who are already debilitated or sick from other causes, the condition is often serious. The plan is advised, therefore, in all pre-school agers, particularly when older brothers or sisters are afflicted. The disease is contagious as soon as fever begins to rise and catarrhal symptoms in the nose and eyes exist, about three days before the rash is observed.

Placental globulin is equally effective except that five to 10 times the dose is essential for the same degree of immunity. With convalescent serum, a much larger quantity is needed. Whichever is used, protection is short lived and should the boy or girl be exposed at a later date, another injection is required. But if a mild attack has occurred, this is not necessary.

REPLY

No. There are many tall athletes. When certain muscles are overdeveloped, so that the individual becomes broader, it is possible that he may seem shorter. But this is a farfetched situation.

It Says Here

BENEFIT FOR WOUNDED VETERANS

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—Twenty-five thousand people crowded the stadium here a night or so ago in a moving answer to whether or not the people have forgotten the heroes of World War II. The Harvest Moon benefit was sold out a week before it was presented in a heartwarming demonstration that the purple heart league is having no off-season in the hearts of Americans.

A part of the receipts was earmarked for hospital work, so naturally Frankie Sinatra was glad to appear. . . Frankie never knows when the bread on the waters may come back in the form of plasma. The entertainment committee chairman used a master stroke to get other male celebrities. He just told them Jane Russell was going to be there and the line swarmed on the right. And when I saw Jane joined by Janis Paige and Frances Langford, I was glad I stayed up all night to get to the head of it.

But it was a delightful night. . . I was amazed to find that Jane Russell was an authority on Chinese pottery. . .too.

Lena Horne was one of the high spots of the evening. They staged a contest between us. . . and while they all agreed that Lena was prettier, my horn was voted to be trickier.

Seriously though, I do wish veterans who are still lying in the wards throughout the Nation could have been there. Chicago has been noted for a long time as a town that has a very cold wind blowing off the lake, but it proved the other night that where veterans are concerned it hasn't reached its heart.

John L. Lewis' Broken Contract Forces U. S. To Break Contracts With Europe; Lewis Condemns Communism Here, Helps It Abroad; Public Getting Frustrated

Says DREW PEARSON

(Ed Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of an open letter to John L. Lewis.)

John L. Lewis, President
The United Mine Workers
Washington, D. C.
Dear John:

A young man just out of the Army was talking to me the other day. What he said represents the viewpoint of a lot of young men, and I thought you might be interested in hearing it.

"I don't know who caused the depression," he said. "But I know I didn't. I was only eleven years old when it started, and as a result I couldn't go to college. Instead I went to support the family at sixteen, with my ambition to be a mechanical engineer gone glimmering.

"I don't know the answers on the war either. But Hitler was in Poland before I was old enough to vote, so I don't think I started it. However, I had to take four years out of my life to help finish it. And when I came home, my wife and I had grown so far apart that our marriage flopped.

"All that may have been inevitable, and I'm not complaining about the past. I don't begrudge the four years I gave to my country. But I do begrudge the present and future. What I'm interested in is where we go from here. And judging by the strikes and the general attitude of kick-the-other-fellow-in-the-shines, we aren't going anywhere fast."

Your own boy, Mr. Lewis, was luckier than that. You were able to send him to the Woodbury School in Virginia, then to Princeton, then to medical college. Which is all right. He is a fine boy, and deserved all the education he could get. But there are thousands of others who were not so lucky as your boy. And they are asking the very same question as my friend—where does the country go from here? And why do certain leaders keep on muddying up their lives?

Youths' Contract With USA

They too have a contract—a contract with life—to do for the world as they are done by. It may not be written in black and white, as your contract with the government, but it's there just the same. And without quibbling over legal loopholes, they want to make something of that contract—just as your boy does. Many of them have spent their best year fulfilling their end of the contract—all the way from Guadalcanal to Normandy—and now what they want is a period without depressions and without wars to collect some dividends.

And they know—far more than you and I realize—what broken contracts will mean in this highly integrated, highly sensitized world.

They know, for instance, that when you broke your contract with the government, the government in turn had to break its contract with France for coal. That means several million people in France will suffer this winter. I know something about that, because my brother and his four kids are over there, and their ration for all last winter was one ton of coal. This year they were hoping to do better, but, thanks to a broken contract, they won't.

However, they can buy wood at $50 a cord. And much more important are millions of others in France who can't buy wood and who are going to say: "The United States broke its contract." More important also are the French industries which won't operate; and finally the growing number of people now leaning toward communistic Russia and away from the kind of democracy jointly founded by America and France.

Lewis Foments Communism

All your life, John Lewis, you have been the sworn enemy of Communism. I was looking up your speeches made back in the Wilson Administration, and even then, twenty-five years ago, you were denouncing the Reds just as vigorously as you have been since. I agree with you on this. But right now you yourself have become the greatest single contributor to the growth of Communism in the entire United States.

You are the chief American instigator of Communism in Europe, and you may be the chief instigator right here in the United States. You are the best friend and collaborator the Reds have.

For a cold and shivering world plays right into the hands of every Red agitator from Seattle to Salerno.

France is not the only country which will suffer from broken contracts. There is England which has contracted to get certain goods from us, especially food. And finally there is Italy. Your government, John, has a contract with Italy to deliver all the coal that country planned to use this winter. Now, that contract is broken.

Do you know what that means? Hitler knew what it meant, and all during the war he used coal to whip the people of Italy into line. He knew that merely by cutting off several thousand coal cars from the Brenner Pass, the Italian people would shiver and Italian industry would grind to a stop.

To replace that German coal, Italy had a contract with us. Now, it won't be kept. Forgetting any sympathy you or I might have for the Italian people, let's consider what this means to future generations, to your boy and mine. It means that the Italians, who have been trying under great adversity to steer an even course away from both Fascism and Communism, will now be more susceptible to agitators from both sides.

In other words, John, you are now helping the people you have spent your life denouncing.

How Fascism Started

I was in Italy after World War I before Mussolini came into power, and it was the strikes, depression, broken contracts and broken promises, plus a great sense of frustration, which finally drove the Italian people into the arms of Fascism.

In your limited walks from the United Mine Workers offices to the Carlton Hotel, you may not grasp the fact that the American people are feeling the same sense of frustration today. They are tired of living in jerks. They are tired of getting up steam for a long stretch of work and then being jerked to a sudden stop by strikes.

And while they sympathize with the fact that the cost of living has gone up for miners, they also know that it has gone up for 140,000,000 other people, most of whom do not have powerful unions which can paralyze the United States until their cost-of-living demands are met.

They also recall that it was you—supported by Bill Green and Senators Taft and Wherry—who yelled loudest for the end of controls on food and the end of wage stabilization. This was all right for you—your mighty union is in a position to get what it wants. But it is not all right for millions of others who are unorganized.

No, John, there are some 140,000,000 other people living in this country, who, like the young man I just quoted, believe that they also have a contract—a contract to live and work and enjoy the fruits of their toil. And there is no clause in their contract whereby one man has the right to topple the economy of their country like a juggler stopping in the middle of his act.

You, John Lewis, conspired to ship oil to Fascist Germany when she was menacing all that we stood for. Now you refuse to mine coal for Italy when she is trying to live down her Fascism. Once may be a mistake, but twice may be treason.

The American people are patient people, but I warn that their patience some day may reach the boiling point.

And when that times comes, not only the hard-won gains of labor, but the cherished guarantees by which you have the right to stand up in court and defend yourself will be swept into one pile and go up in the same flame which Mussolini lit when he took advantage of Italian frustration.

If this time ever comes, you John Lewis, will have done more to fan the flame than any other man in America.

Once our Friend.

Drew Pearson.

By MARK SULLIVAN

There is a thing that is called "the atmosphere." It is as intangible as the word implies. Yet in many situations, especially controversies, it is more decisive than the factors that are tangible and concrete. Military men call it "the psychological factor" or "morale," and know that it decides many battles.

In the conflict between the Administration and Mr. John L. Lewis an atmosphere is being generated, quite possibly without justification, that works to the disadvantage of the Administration. It consists of an impression that this conflict is not to be a real showdown, that it is likely to end by negotiation—not negotiation between Mr. Lewis and the Administration, but between Mr. Lewis and mine owners. Rumors of gestures toward negotiation are heard by the people through press and radio. There is some residuum of fact. There has been some communication between Mr. Lewis and some mine owners or persons supposed to have influence with mine owners, toward what end is not reported. When this came to the attention of other mine owners they showed concern and disapproval. The net of ascertainable information refutes the idea that this controversy is likely to be ended by negotiation between the mine owners and Mr. Lewis.

Result Confusing To People

But there is a result, confusing to the people. These hear from one radio commentator that Mr. Lewis would like to "get himself off the hook," which is likely enough. From another they hear that the Administration would "welcome a way out." Thus an atmosphere is created which does not come from an action of the Administration but is detrimental to it.

What the Administration needs is to create its own atmosphere, by its own actions make the people understand that it is resolute. What it has done so far has been resolute enough, it has asked for an injunction against Mr. Lewis and contended for it firmly. But the nature of this step is such that conclusion will take time. Mr. Lewis contends that he has a right to terminate his contract with the government. Any question about interpretation of a contract is material for long-drawn-out legal proceedings. Mr. Lewis contends also that even if his interpretation of the contract is incorrect, an injunction against his action is contrary to an anti-injunction statute long in existence. Long argument over technical legal considerations would be likely to dissipate an attitude on the part of the people which wants greatly to resist Mr. Lewis and support the Administration.

When conflicts analagous to the present one arose between Mr. Lewis and President Roosevelt, with Mr. Lewis winning, it was occasionally said that were the situation reversed, were Mr. Lewis President of the United States and Mr. Roosevelt a labor leader, the outcome would have been reversed also. Resoluteness is a quality of which Mr. Lewis has too much for the public good. Mr. Roosevelt was resolute enough, when he chose to be; when among many examples, he ordered the Army to take over Montgomery Ward, resulting in soldiers carrying the president of that corporation out of his office. But the resoluteness which Mr. Roosevelt thus showed when Montgomery Ward did not obey a directive of the War Labor Board, he did not show when Mr. Lewis refused to obey a similar directive of the same board.

Roosevelt Acts Handicap Roosevelt

The victories Mr. Lewis won during the Roosevelt administration increase Mr. Truman's difficulty now. They entrenched Mr. Lewis in power and give him confidence in his present challenge to the government. What Mr. Truman needs is to take an attitude which will convince the public that he means to carry the conflict to an end, means to show that the government is more powerful than Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Truman is met with arguments that tend toward irresoluteness. It is said that it would be unwise to make a martyr of Mr. Lewis. But the people of the United States would rather see Mr. Lewis than see the country a martyr. When it is proposed that the government take over the mines, in the true sense and not the nominal one as at present; when it is suggested that the mines be operated by the Army, reply is made that you can't mine coal with bayonets. But it is difficult to imagine that an Army which met prodigious emergencies and carried on immense and intricate enterprises during the war, could not take coal out of the ground. Anyhow, it would not be likely to come to that, the question would answer itself. Demonstration of resoluteness on the part of the Administration, and the atmosphere it would create, would be enough.

Road To Labor Reform Legislation Opened By Blundering Acts By Lewis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — Regardless of the outcome of the legal moves which surround the controversy of John L. Lewis and the federal government, the die has been cast for new labor legislation. Organized labor has reached the peak of its power and every change now will be toward the restriction of its monopoly.

Monopoly never can be popular in America, whether it is practiced by corporations, labor unions or any other organization. For 14 years union labor has abused the powers and special privileges given to it by a politically corrupt administration in Washington, which traded votes for special privileges in the most scandalous misuse of public power since the '90's—when corporations bought their way into government by analogous methods.

The so-called rights of labor now have come into jeopardy. Inherent right such as the right to work or to quit work never will be disturbed, because these are protected by the constitution. But the so-called right of two or more individuals to conspire and persuade others to commit acts of economic violence and the privilege of such a group to monopolize the job-giving power by means of the "closed shop" will presently be taken away.

Road To Reforms Opened

The reforms may not come immediately, in the next congress; but the road has been opened. The monopolies inherent in labor unions are doomed. The American people have been aroused as never before. They are beginning to see nation-wide unions as a form of tyranny and despotism and, in the case of the coal controversy, they have seen actual insurrection—defiance of the courts and of the government itself.

If organized labor had set out to commit political suicide, it could not have chosen more effective strategy than it has used in the last fortnight. The A. F. of L. and the CIO top executives have been misled and badly advised by counsel who are living in the past. They have blundered repeatedly. They have mistaken the good nature of the American people for continued tolerance of union labor's usurpation of power.

Several labor unions enjoying nation-wide power have developed an arrogant leadership not unlike that which characterized executives of big corporations a few decades ago. The leadership of the national unions has actually gone to the point of carrying on class-warfare propaganda not unlike that of the revolutionaries in other countries. Communists moreover have infiltrated into some of the best unions and have forced the leaders to go to extremes. Now the American people are beginning to understand it all as a method of setting up a super-government which, by means of political action committees and other devices, has been used in an attempt to run the government itself.

Days of Such Appeasing Over

The days of appeasing such a destructive movement are over. An economic recession faces America because 16,000,000 workers have been exploited by a few men in wage drives that have cut the purchasing power of the dollar for the other 44,000,000 workers not in labor unions.

Such a distortion has dropped the stock market to a point below the lowest level of the past 16 years and has introduced fear and uncertainty into business generally. The labor unions could not have developed a more effective strategy for committing economic suicide and weakening post-war America than they have applied to block the reconversion efforts of industry since V-J Day.

A deep depression will be averted, a balanced economy will be restored, new confidence will be created in business, and the use of new capital to expand domestic and world markets will be encouraged—in fact prosperity is possible now only if Congress and the President deal resolutely with labor union arrogance and its abuse of power under the Wagner act.

No responsible group in congress wants to see the Wagner Act repealed nor collective bargaining eliminated nor unions destroyed; but there is a majority which favors applying to unions all the restrictions which apply to corporations wherever and whenever the public interest can be damaged.

The organized power of any group to control or dominate the economic life of the country is about to be destroyed by legislation. The coal strike has been a salutary influence in opening the eyes of the American people.

Poll Shows Voters Object To U. S. Paying Half Of U.N.'s 1947 Cost

Present Public View Seconds Attitude Taken By U. S. Delegates

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., November 29—The American people want to take part in world affairs. They want to pay their share. But there is strong disagreement on the question of what constitutes a fair share.

A subcommittee of the UN worked out the share of the total UN expenses which the United States should bear. It came out to about 50 per cent of the total cost for 1947.

The U. S. delegation stands opposed to paying this much, in spite of the fact that the share was reportedly worked out very carefully on the basis of "ability to pay," with the aid of four yardsticks.

The great majority of the American voting public side with the U. S. delegation. They oppose having this country pay such a large proportion of the total cost.

In measuring sentiment throughout the nation on the issue, the Institute had field reporters question a representative sample of the voting population as follows:

"The United States has as much national income as all of the other nations in the UN put together. In view of this, do you think the United States should pay one half of all costs of the United Nations Organization?"

The replies:

Yes	16%
No	69
Undecided	15

Sentiment remains as one-sided on the question among Democratic voters as among Republican voters, among veterans as among the rest of the voting population.

People interviewed in this survey who have had college training are slightly more inclined than other voters to see this country pay half of the total UN bill for next year.

Even here, however, majority sentiment adds up to opposition toward the idea of United States bearing a half of the roughly twenty-three and a half millions in the proposed UN 1947 budget.

Here are tables showing the vote among Democrats and Republicans, among veterans, and among different educational groups:

	Yes	No	No Opinion
Democrats	19%	67%	14%
Republicans	13	74	13
World War II Veterans	18	75	7
College	23	71	6
High School	17	71	12
Elementary School or Less	14	67	19

U. S. View

The way the United States looks at the situation has been expressed by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, U. S. representative on the U.N. Budget Committee.

He reported that this country might agree to pay one third of the total cost for 1947, but that such an arrangement must be regarded as only temporary.

Five Are Injured In Auto Accident

Five persons were injured Thursday about 6 p. m. when a moving automobile sideswiped a parked car on Route 46, about two miles west of the Patterson's Creek bridge on Fort Ashby road.

West Virginia state police said William Hollenbach, 58, Keyser, W. Va., had stopped to inspect the motor of his car, which was not operating properly, when it was sideswiped by a car operated by Howard Clifford Grapes, Wiley Ford, W. Va.

Injured in the crash were Hollenbach, who was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., as were Charles Pownall, 18, and Earl Cox, 28, both of Keyser.

Hospital attaches said all three were resting comfortably last night.

Miss Leona Crabtree, 18, this city, was admitted to the hospital but released yesterday. Mrs. Ruth Grapes, 18, Wiley Ford, was released yesterday from the Keyser hospital. Both were occupants of the Grapes car.

Reckless driving charges were preferred against two motorists, Francis C. Davis, 432 North Centre street, and Roy R. Reall, Martins Ferry Ohio, following a two-car collision at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets about 3:40 a. m., yesterday. No one was hurt.

Folliwing the crash, police said, the car operated by Davis ran between two parking meters, jumped the sidewalk in front of McCrory Store and came to a stop.

Police said Davis managed to back the vehicle off the sidewalk. Officers P. M. Crabtree and C. D. Manges investigated and summoned both men to appear this morning in Trial Magistrates' Court for hearings.

In another accident, Ruth Lewis, 17, Green Ridge, suffered a possible fractured left leg and facial lecerations when the car in which she was riding wrecked on Mt. Savage road early Wednesday morning. She was admitted to Allegany Hospital for treatment and observation.

Charles Spicer, 29, 602 Oldtown road, was treated in Allegany yesterday morning for a possible fracture of the jaw suffered, he told attaches, when "someone" struck him. Two sutures were used to close the cut and he was advised to return for X-rays.

Early war vessels (1812) usually were black-hulled, with their below-deck interiors painted a dull red everywhere to make less conspicuous the blood spilled in an engagement.

Poll Shows Voters Object To U. S. Paying Half Of U.N.'s 1947 Cost

Present Public View Seconds Attitude Taken By U. S. Delegates

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., November 29—The American people want to take part in world affairs. They want to pay their share. But there is strong disagreement on the question of what constitutes a fair share.

A subcommittee of the UN worked out the share of the total UN expenses which the United States should bear. It came out to about 50 per cent of the total cost for 1947.

The U. S. delegation stands opposed to paying this much, in spite of the fact that the share was reportedly worked out very carefully on the basis of "ability to pay," with the aid of four yardsticks.

The great majority of the American voting public side with the U. S. delegation. They oppose having this country pay such a large proportion of the total cost.

In measuring sentiment throughout the nation on the issue, the Institute had field reporters question a representative sample of the voting population as follows:

"The United States has as much national income as all of the other nations in the UN put together. In view of this, do you think the United States should pay one half of all costs of the United Nations Organization?"

The replies:

Yes	16%
No	69
Undecided	15

Sentiment remains as one-sided on the question among Democratic voters as among Republican voters, among veterans as among the rest of the voting population.

People interviewed in this survey who have had college training are slightly more inclined than other voters to see this country pay half of the total UN bill for next year.

Even here, however, majority sentiment adds up to opposition toward the idea of United States bearing a half of the roughly twenty-three and a half millions in the proposed UN 1947 budget.

Here are tables showing the vote among Democrats and Republicans, among veterans, and among different educational groups:

	Yes	No	No Opinion
Democrats	19%	67%	14%
Republicans	13	74	13
World War II Veterans	18	75	7
College	23	71	6
High School	17	71	12
Elementary School or Less	14	67	19

U. S. View

The way the United States looks at the situation has been expressed by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, U. S. representative on the U.N. Budget Committee.

He reported that this country might agree to pay one third of the total cost for 1947, but that such an arrangement must be regarded as only temporary.

Five Are Injured In Auto Accident

Five persons were injured Thursday about 6 p. m. when a moving automobile sideswiped a parked car on Route 46, about two miles west of the Patterson's Creek bridge on Fort Ashby road.

West Virginia state police said William Hollenbach, 58, Keyser, W. Va., had stopped to inspect the motor of his car, which was not operating properly, when it was sideswiped by a car operated by Howard Clifford Grapes, Wiley Ford, W. Va.

Injured in the crash were Hollenbach, who was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., as were Charles Pownall, 18, and Earl Cox, 28, both of Keyser.

Hospital attaches said all three were resting comfortably last night.

Miss Leona Crabtree, 18, this city, was admitted to the hospital but released yesterday. Mrs. Ruth Grapes, 18, Wiley Ford, was released yesterday from the Keyser hospital. Both were occupants of the Grapes car.

Reckless driving charges were preferred against two motorists, Francis C. Davis, 432 North Centre street, and Roy R. Reall, Martins Ferry Ohio, following a two-car collision at the intersection of Baltimore and Centre streets about 3:40 a. m., yesterday. No one was hurt.

Following the crash, police said, a car operated by Davis ran between two parking meters, jumped the sidewalk in front of McCrory store and came to a stop.

Police said Davis managed to back the vehicle off the sidewalk. Officers P. M. Crabtree and C. D. Manges investigated and summoned both men to appear this morning in Trial Magistrates' Court for hearings.

In another accident, Ruth Lewis, 17, Green Ridge, suffered a possible fractured left leg and facial lecerations when the car in which she was riding wrecked on Mt. Savage road early Wednesday morning. She was admitted to Allegany Hospital for treatment and observation.

Charles Spicer, 29, 602 Oldtown road, was treated in Allegany yesterday morning for a possible fracture of the jaw suffered, he told attaches, when "someone" struck him. Two sutures were used to close the cut and he was advised to return for X-rays.

Early war vessels (1812) usually were black-hulled, with their below-deck interiors painted a dull red everywhere to make less conspicuous the blood spilled in an engagement.

WIFE PRESERVERS

The easiest way to clean a waffle iron is to wire a small piece of fine steel wool on the end of a wooden skewer and prod the burned pieces out of the corners.

PLENTY OF ROOM FOR ALL when no one takes more than his share. It's the same way with party-line telephone service. If you're on a party line, remember to keep conversations brief . . . allow an interval between calls . . . answer promptly. That way everyone will get his fair share of telephone service. LADY, P-L-E-A-S-E LOOK SAD

This article is going to get me in wrong. I not only expect such a result but I positively gloat in the prospect. It's my loving hope to make these remarks so downright nasty that they'll raise a blister from Staten Island to Alcatraz. If there are any crumbs of approval, I'll be grateful, but I don't anticipate any.

Why the gripe?

It's a purely personal one but it has been gnawing at me for years and here's where I blow.

Over what?

Over our accepted and long established institution of divorce pictures.

You know the kind. Ladies with presumably broken hearts and shattered dreams. Yet look 'em over! There they stand displaying flashing grins and ecstatic cheese cake that would make a man eating tigress green with envy.

And these are supposed to be wrecked lives!

But which, says I, is one of the most disgusting demonstrations in all our cockeyed democracy and should earn us the well known horse laugh from all foreigners who have heard us brag about the superior charm and intelligence of American womanhood and our respect for its sanctity.

Sanctity? Great gobs of plush covered fishhooks—if that is sanctity give me a good burlesque any night!

No, I am not crusading against divorce. But I am giving a shrill and sustained yell at the vulgar, heartless and senseless display which thousands of supposedly decent women make over it. The old Police Gazette at its most prurient peak would have balked at such pictures.

At which point you're going to remark that if it were not for our newspapers there would be no such photographs. Guess again. Newspapers are simply markets which cater to public demand. These hysterical Hettys are no treat to any seasoned editor, photographer or reporter. They pose and print 'em that way because girly wants it like that, under the fond delusion that it will increase her stock on the next venture. And she'll raise the roof if ignored.

All of which is just about as amusing as a dirty postcard. Regardless of individual cases, divorce is always a tragic and sordid experience. It's bound to leave lasting scars of loneliness and regret on any woman who is worth her salt. And if she isn't sensitive enough to feel its bitterness there should be a law against making a strip tease act of her new found freedom.

Men may be ruthless brutes lacking in all finer feelings but I have yet to see one take off his sock and brassiere, strip to his shorts and go into a spring dance to celebrate a divorce decree. I wish I could say the same of my sex.

For the love of Mike, lady, please look sad even if you don't feel it.

A Masterpiece
in the Flower Kingdom

The orchid is a flower of great beauty! It is recognized by horticulturists as a masterpiece in the flower kingdom, and reaches maturity only after seven years cultivation.

Physical beauty is the only requirement the orchid must fulfill to assume its place in the world. It is otherwise a soulless botanical specimen.

The botanist who cultivated this flower also possessed a son, and as the orchid approached maturity so also grew the child. The flower and the child were the objects of his greatest pride and affection. While his success with the orchid was certain, he failed in the greatest responsibility of his life—the training of his son.

The father's failure was caused by his inability to see the all important difference between the soulless flower and the immortal soul of his son. He thought only of the physical and mental prowess of his boy and thus neglected the child's greatest potential heritage—spiritual development. He had forgotten there was a Church! He had forgotten God!

The Church offers guidance and help to parents in the training of their children. Every parent and every child needs the sustaining strength of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

Regulations Announced

Electricity users throughout this area have been asked this week by the Monongahela Power Company to observe the order of the Civilian Production administration in providing for dim-outs in 21 states.

The do's and don'ts were listed by the company to include the following: all outdoor and indoor advertising and promotional lighting, decorative or ornamental lighting, show window or show case, are eliminated with heavy restrictions on street lighting and directional or identification signs. The reduction in the use of electricity would remain in force until settlement of the coal strike.

A. G. Hesen, mayor, who had received orders from Governor O'Conor to place restrictions where necessary to preserve the health, safety and dignity of the state in this emergency, said this morning that he hoped the merchants and all others would cooperate fully with the brownout order. He said that most of them already had complied.

He declared the coal situation here at present seemed to be in fair condition and that some coal was being delivered in Oakland. Non-union mines still were working in this county, although union mines remained closed.

Mr. Hesen said that the coal supply in public buildings seemed to be sufficient for present uses. Governor O'Conor had ordered the restriction or closing of amusement places, schools, etc., where necessary.

Regulations Announced

Electricity users throughout this area have been asked this week by the Monongahela Power Company to observe the order of the Civilian Production administration in providing for dim-outs in 21 states.

The do's and don'ts were listed by the company to include the following: all outdoor and indoor advertising and promotional lighting, decorative or ornamental lighting, show window or show case, are eliminated with heavy restrictions on street lighting and directional or identification signs. The reduction in the use of electricity would remain in force until settlement of the coal strike.

A. G. Hesen, mayor, who had received orders from Governor O'Conor to place restrictions where necessary to preserve the health, safety and dignity of the state in this emergency, said this morning that he hoped the merchants and all others would cooperate fully with the brownout order. He said that most of them already had complied.

He declared the coal situation here at present seemed to be in fair condition and that some coal was being delivered in Oakland. Non-union mines still were working in this county, although union mines remained closed.

Mr. Hesen said that the coal supply in public buildings seemed to be sufficient for present uses. Governor O'Conor had ordered the restriction or closing of amusement places, schools, etc., where necessary.

Changes In Boating Laws For Deep Creek Lake Asked By Commission

Proposed New Section Is Turned Over To State Legislative Council

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Nov. 29 — Plans for changes in Maryland boating laws, which would affect Deep Creek Lake in this county, have reached a definite stage with the formulation of a proposed new section to take the place of section 108 in the annotated code of Maryland by the Maryland State Game and Inland Fish Commission, according to Fulcher P. Smith, Oakland, a member of the commission.

The wording of the new section was compiled at a recent meeting of the commission, and it has already been turned over to the Legislative Council for their approval and introduction in the form of a bill into the legislature when it convenes in January.

The bill is being proposed to give the commission some authority to supervise the activities along the lake in an attempt to prevent any repetition of the tragedy last September 8 which caused the deaths of two men and a boy when a boat was capsized, apparently from waves of speeding motorboats, Mr. Smith said.

The September term Grand jury at that time recommended that serious consideration be given to passing necessary legislation for the guidance of pleasure boat operators, and the Pennsylvania Electric Company, owners of the lake, served notice that it might refuse to renew the lease of the lake to the state unless steps were taken to enforce laws that would reduce tragedies at the lake.

The proposed bill puts all boats used on the lake under the supervision of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, and they will be licensed and assigned a number which must be displayed prominently. Heretofore boats were under federal regulations but there were no federal officers here to enforce them.

Licenses will cost from $3 to $10, depending on size and no boat may be operated that is longer than 30 feet. A bright light is required of all craft running at night with a regular lantern for showing red and green.

In the bill is the provision that no person shall operate any motorboat or any vessel in a reckless or negligent manner so as to endanger the life, limb or property of any person. It will be required to carry a life preserver and ring buoy or buoyant cushion for each person on board.

No houseboats of any description shall be permitted. The commission would be given the right in its discretion to license and regulate seaplane activity on the lake.

The penalty for conviction of any infractions of the law will be a fine from $25 to $100 and a person may be sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Gives Up Practice

Dr. W. M. Reynolds, veterinarian in the county for the past several years, and in charge of work of the Livestock Sanitary Service, is relinquishing his practice and will return to the Bureau of Animal Industry, it was announced this week.

Dr. Franklin Custer, graduate of Michigan State University in veterinary work, who recently received his discharge from the U. S. Army, will take over Dr. Reynold's practice effective December 1. Dr. Custer has assisted Dr. Reynolds here upon several occasions. He is a native of this county.

Changes In Boating Laws For Deep Creek Lake Asked By Commission

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Nov. 29 — Plans for changes in Maryland boating laws, which would affect Deep Creek Lake in this county, have reached a definite stage with the formulation of a proposed new section to take the place of section 108 in the annotated code of Maryland by the Maryland State Game and Inland Fish Commission, according to Fulcher P. Smith, Oakland, a member of the commission.

The wording of the new section was compiled at a recent meeting of the commission, and it has already been turned over to the Legislative Council for their approval and introduction in the form of a bill into the legislature when it convenes in January.

The bill is being proposed to give the commission some authority to supervise the activities along the lake in an attempt to prevent any repetition of the tragedy last September 8 which caused the deaths of two men and a boy when a boat was capsized, apparently from waves of speeding motorboats, Mr. Smith said.

The September term Grand jury at that time recommended that serious consideration be given to passing necessary legislation for the guidance of pleasure boat operators, and the Pennsylvania Electric Company, owners of the lake, served notice that it might refuse to renew the lease of the lake to the state unless steps were taken to enforce laws that would reduce tragedies at the lake.

The proposed bill puts all boats used on the lake under the supervision of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, and they will be licensed and assigned a number which must be displayed prominently. Heretofore boats were under federal regulations but there were no federal officers here to enforce them.

Licenses will cost from $3 to $10, depending on size and no boat may be operated that is longer than 30 feet. A bright light is required of all craft running at night with a regular lantern for showing red and green.

In the bill is the provision that no person shall operate any motorboat or any vessel in a reckless or negligent manner so as to endanger the life, limb or property of any person. It will be required to carry a life preserver and ring buoy or buoyant cushion for each person on board.

No houseboats of any description shall be permitted. The commission would be given the right in its discretion to license and regulate seaplane activity on the lake.

The penalty for conviction of any infractions of the law will be a fine from $25 to $100 and a person may be sentenced to thirty days in jail.

Gives Up Practice

Dr. W. M. Reynolds, veterinarian in the county for the past several years, and in charge of work of the Livestock Sanitary Service, is relinquishing his practice and will return to the Bureau of Animal Industry, it was announced this week.

Dr. Franklin Custer, graduate of Michigan State University in veterinary work, who recently received his discharge from the U. S. Army, will take over Dr. Reynold's practice effective December 1. Dr. Custer has assisted Dr. Reynolds here upon several occasions. He is a native of this county.

Seven Are Hurt In Car Mishap Near Parsons

PARSONS, W. Va., Nov. 29 — Seven persons were injured, two critically, when the car in which they were riding hit a culvert and overturned on Route 219 about two miles from here Wednesday night.

Most seriously injured were Miss Erma Grace Price, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Price, Route 2, Montrose, who was taken to a local hospital in an unconscious condition with a fractured skull, and Veris Phillips, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Phillips, Parsons, who also suffered a fractured skull.

Miss Price, who also suffered possible internal injuries, was reported in a critical condition last night by hospital attaches. She is still unconscious. Phillips, who has not completely regained consciousness, is in serious condition, attaches said.

Phillips' brother, Hayward, 18, driver of the car, suffered a fractured pelvis. Others admitted to the hospital were Ethel Coffman, 17, Montrose, who suffered a laceration of the scalp and multiple abrasions and lacerations of the body; and Worth Armentrout, 18, Elkins, who suffered a fracture of the left forearm and multiple lacerations and abrasions of the head and body.

Those treated were James Shrout, 31, Parsons, and Virgil Johnson, 16, Parsons, who suffered multiple lacerations of the body and shock.

The group was en route to Parsons from Elkins when the accident occurred, according to police who are investigating.

In another accident Harold Parsons, 31, a teacher in Thomas High School, suffered a fractured pelvis and abrasions of the back, legs and arms when he was crushed against the railing of the Thomas bridge by a passing truck Wednesday afternoon. He was admitted to the hospital here, where his condition was reported favorable last night.

Parsons, son of Mayor and Mrs. James Parsons, this city, was standing on the bridge when struck by the machine driven by Paul White, Thomas, and owned by Pete Sedmock, also of Thomas.

Stock Market Registers Advance For Third Consecutive Session

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—The stock market today made it three advancing sessions in a row for the first time since early this month with leading steels, motors utilities, rails and industrials adding fractions to two or more points despite persistent pessimism over the national fuel situation.

Boardrooms were pretty well deserted by customers who decided to extend the Thanksgiving holiday through the weekend. Dealings quieted after a fairly active opening but picked up as prices hardened in the final hour. Transfers totalled 1,010,000 shares compared with 1,070,000 Wednesday.

Du Pont gained four points at 180 on limited sales. Youngstown Sheet 2½ at 63½, Santa Fe 2¼ at 91, American Telephone 2⅜ at 167, Douglas Aircraft 2¼ at 69¼, United States Steel 1⅜ at 71½ and Chrysler one at 85½.

On the upside were Bethlehem, General Motors, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Woolworth, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Baltimore and Ohio, International Paper, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris and Eastman Kodak.

Among Curb gainers were Ronson Art Metal (on an extra disbursement), Elliott Company, International Petroleum, United States Foil (B), Cities Service and Middle West Corporation. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 360,000 in the preceding session.

Past demand for new American Telephone debentures highlighted dealings in a narrow bond market. The activity helped swell total volume to $6,070,000 from $4,812,000 Wednesday.

United States governments declined 1-32 to 5-32 of a point in the over-the-counter market. The victory Loan December 2½s of '67-'72 lost 4-32 at 101 30-31 bid.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29 — More long distance telephone calls, telegrams, and what have you, went on between Michael Curtiz and Sam Goldwyn the last few days. It was all because Mike wanted Dana Andrews, Virginia Mayo and Cathy Downs, promising young actress, for leads in "The Unsuspected." I was with Mike when he saw "The Best Years Of Our Lives," and from then on he couldn't be satisfied until he had these three. Now it's settled, and he has them, he is a pretty happy guy.

Dick Powell

Virginia, who is a terribly pretty girl, for the first time in her life really does some acting in "The Best Years Of Our Lives." So now Mike kicks off with his first independent picture at Warners with Virginia, Dana (a swell actor) and Cathy. Could any producer ask for more? Remember "The Unsuspected" by Charlotte Armstrong, ran in one of the national magazines and was later put in book form.

Sir Alexander Korda and William Goetz have made a deal that pleasantly affects Laurence Olivier. Bill has bought Alex film rights to Edward Rostand's famous play, "Cyrano De Bergerac," and more important the script is already prepared by Ben Hecht. So when the talented and attractive Olivier reaches Hollywood with Vivien Leigh in December, he won't have to wait for a movie. What actor wouldn't give his eye teeth to play the fascinating, adventurious Cyrano, the man with the trick nose? "Cyrano" and "Hamlet" were the two plays Charlie Chaplin always hoped to do. I don't know how much Billy paid for the rights on account of he didnt tell me.

Let me take you in on a secret. Olivia De Haviland has bowed out of "Ivy." She told me weeks ago she had not signed a contract and was a little dubious about the wisdom of playing the part. She said she was so fond of Sam Wood she found it hard to refuse to make the picture. But today she told me that definitely she was out of "Ivy." "I don't want to do it," she said, "because I think it's too similar to 'Dark Mirror,' another psychological drama. I want to vary my characters." All you producers, don't crowd. Olivia may do a Broadway play.

Chatter ih Hollywood: Edna Ryan, the beautiful blonde Leo Durocher forgot to tell about Laraine Day, is in Hollywood—but not, I hear, to protect her romantic interests in Lippy Leo. She's talking a couple of good movie jobs and looks perfectly blank when anybody happens to mention the name of either Leo or Laraine. Apparently she's forgotten where to get in touch with him, too, for Edna hasn't once seen her former love. This is one occasion when Lippy didn't get lippy enough.

Helena Carter came out to Universal-International to make a test for "Bloomer Girl" and really snapped the garter. But when that picture was indefinitely postponed she was left with only a good test to her credit. I mean she WAS left until one of the executives took a look at it and decided she was just right for the second femme lead to Phyllis Calvert in "Time Out Of Mind." What I haven't told you about Helena is that she is a former cover girl and model who was dissovered for the movies when a national mag used her as a typical collegiate in a Hunter's College layout.

Only Ed "Archie" Gardner could be riding in a taxicab when the car driver fell out. And I'm not kidding. Tuesday night, my radio friend was returning home late after burning the midnight oil getting creaks out of his script, and after giving the cabbie his address in Bel Air he fell off to snooze. Suddenly, a terrific jolt of the car awakened him. In making a very sharp turn, the driver tumbled out, hit his head on a curbstone and what could Ed do but put the cabbie in the back seat, take over the wheel and rush him to the Receiving Hospital where eight stitches were taken in his head. Everything happens to Archie!

Hugh Daniel is a very unhappy man. His wife, the former Icia Murray, walked in and told him that she wanted her freedom. Up to that point, there had never been any trouble in the family. Moreover, she wants the custody of their two children. The Daniels are all living under the same roof, but Mrs. Daniels plans a divorce. Maybe you remember Hugh. Some years ago he picked out the ten best dressed men in his opinion, for this column. He was with Perry Lieber at RKO for 11 years before he went into the Army.

Stock Market Registers Advance For Third Consecutive Session

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—The stock market today made it three advancing sessions in a row for the first time since early this month with leading steels, motors utilities, rails and industrials adding fractions to two or more points despite persistent pessimism over the national fuel situation.

Boardrooms were pretty well deserted by customers who decided to extend the Thanksgiving holiday through the weekend. Dealings quieted after a fairly active opening but picked up as prices hardened in the final hour. Transfers totalled 1,010,000 shares compared with 1,070,000 Wednesday.

Du Pont gained four points at 180 on limited sales. Youngstown Sheet 2½ at 63½, Santa Fe 2¼ at 91, American Telephone 2⅝ at 167, Douglas Aircraft 2¼ at 69¼, United States Steel 1⅝ at 71½ and Chrysler one at 85½.

On the upside were Bethlehem, General Motors, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Woolworth, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Southern Railway, Great Northern, Baltimore and Ohio, International Paper, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris and Eastman Kodak.

Among Curb gainers were Ronson Art Metal (on an extra disbursement), Elliott Company, International Petroleum, United States Foil (B), Cities Service and Middle West Corporation. Turnover here was 280,000 shares versus 360,000 in the preceding session.

Fast demand for new American Telephone debentures highlighted dealings in a narrow bond market. The activity helped swell total volume to $6,070,000 from $4,812,000 Wednesday.

United States governments declined 1-32 to 5-32 of a point in the over-the-counter market. The victory Loan December 2½s of '67-'72 lost 4-32 at 101 30-31 bid.

Six-Day Deer Season Will Open Monday

Sixteen Wardens To Patrol Woods In District No. 1

Nine Stations To Check Bucks; Minke Lists Illegal Rifles

With the approach of the six-day deer hunting season on Monday Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, last night, announced that nine checking stations have been established and sixteen wardens will patrol the woods in the counties of Garrett, Washington and Allegany.

Eight of the sixteen wardens will be stationed in Garrett county. The regular wardens in that county are Lloyd Cook, Stephen DeWitt and Francis Ruge.

Checking stations are located at the following places:

Garrett County:

Allegany County:

Shipway's Inn, Route 40, Green Ridge; Lewis's Store, Oldtown, and the LaVale Barracks of the Maryland State Police.

Washington County:

Sincell's Gas Station, Route 40, at Hancock.

Lists Illegal Rifles

Minke explained that approximately 50 types of rifles are legal for deer hunting but there are a number of weapons taboo. The "illegal" rifles include all makes of .22 caliber with the exception of .22 high-powered rifle. Also outlawed are all 25-20, 32-20 and all makes of rim fire cartridges, all makes of 32-40 and 38-40 rifles, also .35 caliber self-loading Winchester rifles.

The law specifically states that for deer hunting any high-powered rifle must have a muzzle velocity of 1,200 pounds.

Those uncertain as to the legality of their rifles are urged to contact game wardens for the necessary information before attempting to hunt. Use of illegal rifles carries a penalty of $10 to $50.

Checking stations will be open in the three counties from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Francis A. Ruge, Garrett county warden, yesterday stressed the following regulations:

It is unlawful to remove the head or hide or any part from a deer or cut the meat into parts until checked. Every person killing a deer must report to the proper authorities within 24 hours. It is unlawful to kill any deer except a male having two or more points to one antler. The limit is one per season.

Hours Are 7 To 4:45

It is unlawful to shoot from an automobile or other vehicle or from any public highway or have in one's possession in an automobile or other vehicle a loaded rifle or shotgun.

It is unlawful to use bullets with steel jackets and unlawful to hunt deer with firearms capable of firing a series of bursts by automatic loading. Hunting hours are from 7 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.

Hunters are always warned each year to wear large patches of red on their jackets and caps to reduce the danger of accidents.

Mr. Ruge said from all reports deer were more plentiful than last year and that there were prospects of a successful season. Practically every available space in boarding houses, hotels, etc., have been reserved by out of county hunters in advance who plan to come Sunday night and spend the entire week in this county.

Following the deer season the season on small upland game will be resumed. Thus far hunters have reported fair success with squirrels and rabbits but declared there were practically no birds to be seen. Rabbits were scarce in some sections.

CAGE GROUP FAVORS USE OF TWO ARBITERS FOR ALL CONTESTS

Meeting last night at the Central YMCA for a basketball rules interpretation session, the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia District Board of Approved Officials went on record in favor of requiring the use of two officials instead of one for all cage contests during the 1946-47 season.

John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh led the group in the interpretation of new and old rules and reported on the past year's activities of the board.

Clifton Van Roby, physical director of the Central YMCA, where the meeting was held, gave a report on the basketball clinic to be held here December 21, at which Lee Patton, West Virginia University coach, will be one of the speakers. Roby announced that Clifford Fearer and Kenneth Gerard will assist as members of the committee making preparations for the event.

Those attending last night's meeting were Fred Clark, Keyser High; Robert Pence, Allegany High; "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill High; Herman Koegel, Clifford Fearer, "Chick" Snider, Kenneth Gerard, Jack Bolyard and Roby.

In the other feature bout Angelo Ambrosano, 128½, took a unanimous decision over Jimmy Parlin, 121½.

PAT MURPHY WILL FIGHT "BUD" TALERICO HERE

HUGHES DEFEATS GRAY IN LIVE-BIRD SHOOT FOR PURSE OF $500

Francis Hughes defeated Graham Gray in a live-bird shooting match at Midland on Thanksgiving Day in Midland for a purse of $500. Both of the shooters are from Midland.

Hughes killed 18 out of 21 birds while Gray shot 17 out of 21.

The winner issues a challenge to any shooter in Allegany county for a purse of $500.

Harry Wilkes, pride of Ocean sharpshooters, defeated Chalmer Winner, of Midland, in a special match for $50, which followed the main shooting event.

Wilkes bagged three out of seven and Winner two out of seven, but rumors heard, after an examination of the birds that fell, are to the effect that no marks were found on them, and it is the opinion of those attending this match that the birds died in the air of heart failure.

Baltimore Pros To Play Amvets Here On Sunday

"Bud" Jeannette's Bullets Will Battle Locals At 9 O'Clock

Basketball fans of Cumberland and vicinity will be given another Sunday treat when the Baltimore Bullets, defending champions and current pace-setters in the American Professional Basketball League, do battle with the Cumberland Amvets tomorrow night at 9 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

It will be the third high-class road aggregation to be faced by the Amvets in as many successive Sundays. Duquesne University opened the season here and the Harlem Globe Trotters were here last Sunday. An interesting feature on the Globe Trotters appears in the latest issue of "Life" Magazine.

Sparked By Jeannette

The Bullets are coached and spark-plugged by Harry "Bud" Jeannette, who has appeared in this city on two occasions in past years and made a great hit. He played here in his college days with Washington and Jefferson and later with a Detroit pro outfit. It is hoped that he has recovered from a recent hand injury to be able to perform in tomorrow's contest.

Other luminaries with the Bullets this year are McKeever, who coached the Sampson Naval Station teams during the war, Mike Bloom and Jake Ahearn, who have played in Cumberland with various pro teams in past seasons.

The Amvets held three practices this week and are sure to show improvement in their teamwork. The point-getting ability of Bob Pence pleased the fans last Sunday and the way he has been hitting the basket in practice this week marks him as the man the Bullets will have to stop. Walter "Pooch" Orndorff's defensive play has been outstanding for the local boys.

Reserve seats tickets for the game still may be purchased at the Amvets Home, K. of C., Savoy, Roxy and SS. Peter and Paul bowling alleys, Wilson Hardware Company, Sports Center, Shober's Restaurant and the Goodfellowship Club and the Hi Dee Club in South End.

Prelim Set For 8 P. M.

The game will be handled by Clifton Van Roby and Clifford Fearer and will be preceded by a contest featuring the Amvets' Bees and the Loyal Order of Moose Club of the Interstate League at 8 o'clock.

General admission and student tickets will go on sale when the doors open at 7:30. Five hundred of these seats are available as only the center sections of the Fayette Street gym are sold in advance.

Jay Bechtel and John Borchert will give a running account of the game over the public address system.

28,000 See VPI Win; Ralph Beard Stars

Ralph Beard, former Fort Hill gridder, played an outstanding role as Virginia Tech defeated V.M.I. on Thanksgiving Day at Roanoke, Va., by the score of 20-7 before 28,000 persons, the largest crowd in Virginia football history.

In a thrill packed final period, Beard galloped nine yards through left tackle for a touchdown. Tech scored in the first period and the eydets tied the score in the second.

102,000 Will See Cadets Play Navy At Philadelphia

"Specs" Get $90 A Pair For Tickets; Army Is Heavy Favorite

By SID FEDER

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP)—Army's careening Cadets throw a farewell party in Municipal Stadium tomorrow, and practically everyone except Navy's well-walloped Middies figure it will be a fancy final fling for the Black Knights of the Hudson.

This will be the 47th colision between the Army and the Navy, and will mark the end of the football road for nine of the 11 starting Cadets who have rolled up the greatest gridiron record of a generation, headed by line-busting Doc Blanchard and Galloping Glenn Davis.

It figures to be quite a party, too, what with fair and cold—45 degree temperature—promised by old man weather for the 1:30 p. m. (EST) kickoff, and a cozy gathering of 102,000 cramming the huge South Philadelphia horseshoe. Local "specs" who still have some tickets are asking—and getting—a mere $90 a pair for them.

President To Attend

Of course, this asking price doesn't apply to those who already have their ducats locked up with the family jewels, or the official Washington "invaders" who will be on hand, like President and Mrs. Truman, and War and Navy Secretaries Robert Patterson and James Forrestal, to say nothing of the army brass and navy scrambled eggs.

It promises to be an especial kind of a good-bye, too, for the high-flying future generals, unbeaten in 27 straight trips to the post since they dropped a 13-0 decision to the Middies back in '43. Since then, they have taken everything apart that they've met, with the single exception of the Notre Dame Irish who fought them to a no-hit, no-run dead heat three weeks ago.

And the bettors don't think that this Navy team, beaten in seven straight starts and sporting an injury list that makes you wonder if it might not be representing some hospital from Annapolis, is going to offer much to stop the West Point whiz-bangs. The local price-makers have Army a four-touchdown favorite—with extra points to boot.

Navy Squad Crippled

This just draws guffaws from Navy Coach Tom Hamilton, who is convinced the up-to-now meek Middies will be on a raw-meat diet this time and will wind up in front when the shooting ends. Coach Tom admits it won't be easy, but says his sailor-boys are the lads who can pull the biggest rabbit out of the smallest hat in years and years of this annual legal mayhem.

He insists on that, too, in spite of the assorted bumps and bruises riddling his squad.

On the sidelines will be Joe Bartos, whose shoulder separation will definitely keep him from any action at all, along with Bill Hawkins, Bob Van Summern, Alvin McCully and Bill McClain, all suffering assorted aches and pains that will limit their working time to only a few minutes apiece, at best.

Fuson Rejoins Cadets

On the other hand, Army comes up to this one at full strength, with the return of Herschel (Ug) Fuson, the 215-pound right-halfback from Middlesburg, Ky., and Shelton Biles, the 200-pound Tennessee tackle, from the hospital list. The chances are Biles won't start, but that's no cause for Army to start wrinkling its forehead, because in his place will be Harold Tavzel, a 190-pounder from Cleveland who teamed up with Davis in the Penn game to top off a 78-yard un-and-lateral-pass play for the usual six points.

Other Saturday games include:

Tennessee at Vanderbilt
Tulane at Louisiana State
Mississippi State at Alabama
Auburn at Florida
Maryland at North Carolina State
North Carolina at Virginia
Holy Cross at Boston College
Baylor at Rice
Texas Christian at So. Methodist
Nebraska at UCLA

Hursey Gets Nod

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP) — Smuggsey Hursey, 159, Washington, took a unanimous decision over Ellis Stewart, 153, Baltimore, tonight in a close eight-rounder at the Garden A. C.

Stewart was knocked down in the sixth, but arose after a count of six. Although Hursey was the aggressor all the way, the Baltimore fighter's hit-and-clinch tactics kept him in the contest until the final bell.

TO SEE SON PLAY—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Lookabaugh, 725 Columbia Avenue, yesterday obtained choice box seats for the Washington Redskins-Green Bay Packers game of the National Professional Football League Sunday at Clark Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C. The tickets were a gift to the Lookabaughs from George Preston Marshall, owner of the Redskins, so they could see their son John "Bud" Lookabaugh play with the 'Skins. It will be the local couple's first glimpse of a pro football game. In fact, Mr. Lookabaugh says he hasn't seen "Bud" play since the days he starred for Ridgeley High School. Green Bay will be Washington's final home opponent of the season. "Bud" starred for the Redskins at an end position in last Sunday's game against the Eagles at Philadelphia.

The victory gave the Hilltoppers a clean sweep of three games with its city rivals, including a previous 19-0 decision over the Campers and a 14-0 triumph over LaSalle. The conquest was Fort Hill's first on Turkey Day since 1940 and smashed Allegany's five-game winning streak in holiday tilts.

Sensabaugh Scores First

Fort Hill actually won the game in the first four minutes of play when Fullback Don Sensabaugh smashed over from the four-yard line to climax a 49-yard march. Sensabaugh carried the ball three times for 44 yards, including a 35-yard run, to spark the drive goalward.

The Sentinels tried only two passes during the game, both in the second period, and both produced touchdowns with Elmer Freeland being on the receiving end on each occasion.

Driving 69 yards and racking up four first downs, the Scarlet and White moved the ball from their own 31 to the AHS 20 where Robert "Bub" Frye lateraled to Jimmie Manges, who pitched a "strike" into Freeland's outstretched arms in the end zone for the second six-pointer of the contest.

Lewis Intercepts Pass

Jack Lewis intercepted one of Tom Powers' passes, catching the ball on his shoetops on the AHS 37 to set the stage for the final score. On the first play Manges fumbled but recovered, Frye marked up a first on the Campers 27, and Medford Nicholson advanced three yards. Fort Hill was penalized five yards for offside, but Manges regained the lost yardage on the next play. Then Frye, who is the catcher on Fort Hill's baseball team, rifled a 24-yard pass to Freeland, the Sentinel's first baseman, who was parked in the end zone.

Early in the fourth period Fort Hill scored its fourth touchdown on an 11-yard dash by Jimmie Manges but the score was nullified as a result of a five-yard penalty being slapped on the Sentinels for being offside on the play. The Hahnmen only were able to pick up 14 yards in the four succeeding plays and lost the ball on downs on the AHS two-yard stripe.

Freeland accounted for 15 of the Fort Hill tallies, scoring twice on pass plays and hitting 1.000 in three tries in the placement kicking department.

Fail To Pass 35-Yard Line

Allegany never threatened during the game and experienced great difficulty in fighting its way out of its own territory. The Campers got as far as the Fort Hill 45 in the third quarter but lost the ball on downs. This rally started when Tom Jamison recovered Tucker's fumble on the Campers' 24 and was featured by Powers' 22-yard run. In the first period the Campobello eleven got as far as the Sentinels' 45 as a result of a 15-yard pass interference penalty and the deepest penetration made by Coach Pence's team into enemy territory came in the fourth stanza when it reached the 35. Frye, however, dashed the AHS hopes to smithereens when he intercepted Powers' aerial on the 28 and returned to the 43.

AHS opened a last ditch rally late in the battle, advancing 44 yards in its own territory but a three-yard loss and Milford Dean's interception of Powers' pass on the Fort Hill 33 halted the spurt. Two plays later the game ended.

Fort Hill's forward wall gave a brilliant performance in limiting the Campers to five first downs. The winners notched 12 firsts, 11 coming on ground plays.

Allegany Claims Fort Hill Pennant As Trophy Of War

Boys Remove "Enemy" Flag From Pole; Notes On Turkey Day Game

Allegany High School lost the Thanksgiving Day football game and the city title to Fort Hill but two Campobello students managed to salvage something from the wreckage.

Tommy Alderman, freshman, assisted by "Buddy" Easton, Seventh Grader, appointed themselves a committee of two to remove a Fort Hill pennant from the flagpole at Allegany. The pennant, believed to have been hoisted atop the pole by Fort Hill students on Wednesday night, was waving in the breeze as Thanksgiving, day of the big game, dawned.

After getting the flag to the top of the pole, the "enemy" cut the rope about 20 feet above the ground. Alderman, however, with the aid of Easton, shinnied up the pole, yanked on the rope and down came the pennant.

"I'm keeping it the same as a trophy of war," Aldermar declared.

"No wonder Fort Hill won," remarked an Allegany rooter after the Turkey Day game. They had Tucker in their backfield. Isn't that how Army wins its games."

Mr. Tucker (not Arnold but Edgar) did exceptionally well for a fellow who received little printer's ink before the game. He carried the ball five times for 41 yards or slightly over eight yards a play. In the fourth period he accounted for two first downs with 14 and 13 yards sprints.

The top yardage gainer in the game was Medford Nicholson, of Fort Hill. He toted the leather an even dozen times for 57 net yards. Jimmie Manges was next with 54 in 12 tries followed by Tommy Powers, Allegany's ace with 50 in 11 plays. Next in order were Don Sensabaugh with 44 in three, Tucker 41 in five, Howard "Dutch" Peterson 28 in five and "Bub" Frye with 12 in three.

Fort Hill's forward pass defense was tops. Jack Lewis, Milford Dean and Frye came through in the clutch three times to steal Camper forwards. Lewis' snatch paved the way for the Hilltoppers' final score.

The officials were the best to work a local game in many moons. They missed very little. In fact, one wag remarked: "They must have had eyes in the back of their heads." They called a total of 16 penalties, Fort Hill being set back 60 yards and AHS 30. There was only one 15-yard penalty in the lot. The other 15 were five yards each.

It was Mervin Cox, Sentinel left tackle, who administered the knockout drops to Allegany on the very first play of the game when he sent the Campers back on their heels with a 58-yard kickoff to the two-yard line. Powers returned the kick to the 19 but AHS picked up only one yard in three line plays and was forced to punt back to its own 49. From here the drive started that netted the first and winning touchdown.

Cox is the young fellow who took up amateur boxing, knocked out his first opponent, then retired undefeated. He shifted his punch to his feet in the Turkey day classic.

It was a toss-up as to who beamed the brightest—Old Sol or "Huck" McFerran. The latter smiled from ear to ear as money jingled into the boxes for the "Stadium Scoreboard Fund." Several days before the game "Huck" predicted $700 would be collected at the game. He was close. Contributions totalled $681.77.

Summing up the game briefly, one fan said:

SEMLER FIELD IS DEDICATED

Hagerstown High Honors Veteran Coach; Hubs Cop Final, 46-7

Hagerstown high school's athletic field was dedicated Semler Field in honor of Edwin (Eddie) H. Semler, Hagerstown football and basketball coach for the past 20 years, at a brief ceremony between halves of the Hagerstown-Waynesboro game Thanksgiving day in Hagerstown. Dedicatory remarks were made by Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of Washington county schools.

At the conclusion of Willis's speech members of the Hagerstown High School team hoisted Coach Semler on their shoulders and carried him to the players bench and then went on to beat Waynesboro by the score of 46 to 7.

The victory wave Hagerstown a perfect season on the gridiron. The Maroon and Gray, incidentally, numbered three Cumberland schools among its victims, defeating Allegany 38-0, LaSalle 27-0 and Fort Hill 20-13.

Hagerstown defeated Waynesboro earlier in the season by the score of 8-0.

A crowd of 6,000 witnessed the final game. It was the thirtieth meeting of the schools on the gridiron since 1919 and the sixteenth victory for Hagerstown.

Semler is well known in Cumberland and has brought his Hagerstown cage and grid teams here to play Allegany since 1926.

Portage Feather Meets Local Boy On Monday Night

Four Pennsy Boxers Will Appear In SCAC At West Side Gym

Pat Murphy, hard-hitting South End featherweight, has been matched with "Bud" Taberico, 126-pounder, of Portage, Pa., in the feature bout of the South Cumberland Athletic Club's amateur boxing show to be staged Monday night at 8 o'clock in SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

Murphy met Talerico twice last summer in bouts at Ebensburg and Portage, Pa., but on both occasions dropped close decisions to the Pennsylvanian. Pat, incidentally, split even in six matches out-of-town during the summer season.

Fights Twelfth Time

Monday night's bout will mark the twelfth start for Murphy since he entered the simon pure ranks last year. He has a record of six wins and five defeats.

"Chuck" Richardson, cousin of Bobby Richardson, one-time Johnstown professional middleweight, who fought Bobby Green and K.O. Yutzy here years ago, will bring a team of four Portage boxers here to meet local boys. Richardson once handled Tommy Burns, the classy pro middleweight from Johnstown. None of the Portage boxers coming here Monday have appeared before in local shows.

The card will open with Edgar Tucker, of the SCAC, trading wallops with Paul Lepley, Tiger A.C. lightweight, followed by a match between Roy Richardson, of the SCAC, and Jimmie Deetz, Legion flyweight. Johnny Wolfe, 260-pounder, of the SCAC, is paired with Kenneth "Red" Morrissey, another local heavyweight.

Others expected to see action are Jack Knippenburg, who always gives the fans a run for their money, Jim Klosterman, who has won eight straight bouts, Don Miller, Jimmie Catanese, Bobby Goss, Melvin Washington, Jack Jones and Bobby Porter.

Kelley To Referee

James E. Kelley, Jr., will referee all the bouts on the card. Ross W. Prysock and Howard "Red" Bush will be the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Illness prevented Kelley from officiating in last week's show here. Jim, however, hopes to be able to resume his duties as referee next week.

LaSalle Annexes Final At Beall

Scoring four touchdowns—two in the first period and two in the third quarter—LaSalle climaxed its football season by defeating Beall High School by the score of 26 to 0 on Thanksgiving Day in Frostburg.

Approximately 5,000 witnessed the game at Frostburg State Teachers' College field.

Tracy Riggins, John Nesbit, John Esposito and Tommy O'Toole accounted for the LaSalle touchdowns while Riggins and O'Toole added the extra points on a punt and pass.

LaSalle racked up 18 first downs to 12 for the losers. The Explorers completed nine of 14 passes for 87 yards and had one aerial intercepted. Beall completed two of six passes for only seven yards.

Coach John J. Long's eleven in marking up its third win against four losses and two ties, piled up 233 yards on the ground and lost 17 yards. Beall gained 136 yards and lost 20 yards rushing. LaSalle was set back 40 yards on penalties and Beall 35.

The loss was the fifth in a row for Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall team which opened the season with a victory over Meyersdale.

Six-Day Deer Season Will Open Monday

Sixteen Wardens To Patrol Woods In District No. 1

Nine Stations To Check Bucks; Minke Lists Illegal Rifles

With the approach of the six-day deer hunting season on Monday Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, last night, announced that nine checking stations have been established and sixteen wardens will patrol the woods in the counties of Garrett, Washington and Allegany.

Eight of the sixteen wardens will be stationed in Garrett county. The regular wardens in that county are Lloyd Cook, Stephen DeWitt and Francis Ruge.

Checking stations are located at the following places:

Garrett County:

Allegany County:

Washington County:

Sincell's Gas Station, Route 40, at Hancock.

Lists Illegal Rifles

Minke explained that approximately 50 types of rifles are legal for deer hunting but there are a number of weapons taboo. The "illegal" rifles include all makes of .22 caliber with the exception of .22 high-powered rifle. Also outlawed are all 25-20, 32-20 and all makes of rim fire cartridges, all makes of 32-40 and 38-40 rifles, also .35 caliber self-loading Winchester rifles.

The law specifically states that for deer hunting any high-powered rifle must have a muzzle velocity of 1,200 pounds.

Those uncertain as to the legality of their rifles are urged to contact game wardens for the necessary information before attempting to hunt. Use of illegal rifles carries a penalty of $10 to $50.

Checking stations will be open in the three counties from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Francis A. Ruge, Garrett county warden, yesterday stressed the following regulations:

It is unlawful to remove the head or hide or any part from a deer or cut the meat into parts until checked. Every person killing a deer must report to the proper authorities within 24 hours. It is unlawful to kill any deer except a male having two or more points to one antler. The limit is one per season.

Hours Are 7 To 4:45

It is unlawful to shoot from an automobile or other vehicle or from any public highway or have in one's possession in an automobile or other vehicle a loaded rifle or shotgun.

It is unlawful to use bullets with steel jackets and unlawful to hunt deer with firearms capable of firing a series of bursts by automatic loading. Hunting hours are from 7 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.

Hunters are always warned each year to wear large patches of red on their jackets and caps to reduce the danger of accidents.

Mr. Ruge said from all reports deer were more plentiful than last year and that there were prospects of a successful season. Practically every available space in boarding houses, hotels, etc., have been reserved by out of county hunters in advance who plan to come Sunday night and spend the entire week in this county.

Following the deer season the season on small upland game will be resumed. Thus far hunters have reported fair success with squirrels and rabbits but declared there were practically no birds to be seen. Rabbits were scarce in some sections.

CAGE GROUP FAVORS USE OF TWO ARBITERS FOR ALL CONTESTS

Meeting last night at the Central YMCA for a basketball rules interpretation session, the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia District Board of Approved Officials went on record in favor of requiring the use of two officials instead of one for all cage contests during the 1946-47 season.

John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh led the group in the interpretation of new and old rules and reported on the past year's activities of the board.

Clifton Van Roby, physical director of the Central YMCA, where the meeting was held, gave a report on the basketball clinic to be held here December 21, at which Lee Patton, West Virginia University coach, will be one of the speakers. Roby announced that Clifford Fearer and Kenneth Gerard will assist as members of the committee making preparations for the event.

Those attending last night's meeting were Fred Clark, Keyser High; Robert Pence, Allegany High; "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill High; Herman Koegel, Clifford Fearer, "Chick" Snider, Kenneth Gerard, Jack Bolyard and Roby.

HUGHES DEFEATS GRAY IN LIVE-BIRD SHOOT FOR PURSE OF $500

Francis Hughes defeated Graham Gray in a live-bird shooting match at Midland on Thanksgiving Day in Midland for a purse of $500. Both of the shooters are from Midland.

Hughes killed 18 out of 21 birds while Gray shot 17 out of 21.

The winner issues a challenge to any shooter in Allegany county for a purse of $500.

Harry Wilkes, pride of Ocean sharpshooters, defeated Chalmer Winner, of Midland, in a special match for $50, which followed the main shooting event.

Wilkes bagged three out of seven and Winner two out of seven, but rumors heard, after an examination of the birds that fell, are to the effect that no marks were found on them, and it is the opinion of those attending this match that the birds died in the air of heart failure.

Baltimore Pros To Play Amvets Here On Sunday

"Bud" Jeannette's Bullets Will Battle Locals At 9 O'Clock

Basketball fans of Cumberland and vicinity will be given another Sunday treat when the Baltimore Bullets, defending champions and current pace-setters in the American Professional Basketball League, do battle with the Cumberland Amvets tomorrow night at 9 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

It will be the third high-class road aggregation to be faced by the Amvets in as many successive Sundays. Duquesne University opened the season here and the Harlem Globe Trotters were here last Sunday. An interesting feature on the Globe Trotters appears in the latest issue of "Life" Magazine.

Sparked By Jeannette

The Bullets are coached and spark-plugged by Harry "Bud" Jeannette, who has appeared in this city on two occasions in past years and made a great hit. He played here in his college days with Washington and Jefferson and later with a Detroit pro outfit. It is hoped that he has recovered from a recent hand injury to be able to perform in tomorrow's contest.

Other luminaries with the Bullets this year are McKeever, who coached the Sampson Naval Station teams during the war, Mike Bloom and Jake Ahearn, who have played in Cumberland with various pro teams in past seasons.

The Amvets held three practices this week and are sure to show improvement in their teamwork. The point-getting ability of Bob Pence pleased the fans last Sunday and the way he has been hitting the basket in practice this week marks him as the man the Bullets will have to stop. Walter "Pooch" Orndorff's defensive play has been outstanding for the local boys.

Reserve seats tickets for the game still may be purchased at the Amvets Home, K. of C., Savoy, Roxy and SS. Peter and Paul bowling alleys, Wilson Hardware Company, Sports Center, Shober's Restaurant and the Goodfellowship Club and the Hi Dee Club in South End.

Prelim Set For 8 P. M.

The game will be handled by Clifton Van Roby and Clifford Fearer and will be preceded by a contest featuring the Amvets' Bees and the Loyal Order of Moose Club of the Interstate League at 8 o'clock.

General admission and student tickets will go on sale when the doors open at 7:30. Five hundred of these seats are available as only the center sections of the Fayette Street gym are sold in advance.

Jay Bechtel and John Borchert will give a running account of the game over the public address system.

28,000 See VPI Win; Ralph Beard Stars

Ralph Beard, former Fort Hill gridder, played an outstanding role as Virginia Tech defeated V.M.I. on Thanksgiving Day at Roanoke, Va., by the score of 20-7 before 28,000 persons, the largest crowd in Virginia football history.

In a thrill packed final period, Beard galloped nine yards through left tackle for a touchdown. Tech scored in the first period and the Keydets tied the score in the second.

102,000 Will See Cadets Play Navy At Philadelphia

"Specs" Get $90 A Pair For Tickets; Army Is Heavy Favorite

By SID FEDER

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 (AP)—Army's careening Cadets throw a farewell party in Municipal Stadium tomorrow, and practically everyone except Navy's well-walloped Middies figure it will be a fancy final fling for the Black Knights of the Hudson.

This will be the 47th colision between the Army and the Navy, and will mark the end of the football road for nine of the 11 starting Cadets who have rolled up the greatest gridiron record of a generation, headed by line-busting Doc Blanchard and Galloping Glenn Davis.

It figures to be quite a party, too, what with fair and cold—45 degree temperature—promised by old man weather for the 1:30 p. m. (EST) kickoff, and a cozy gathering of 102,000 cramming the huge South Philadelphia horseshoe. Local "specs" who still have some tickets are asking—and getting—a mere $90 a pair for them.

President To Attend

Of course, this asking price doesn't apply to those who already have their ducats locked up with the family jewels, or the official Washington "invaders" who will be on hand, like President and Mrs. Truman, and War and Navy Secretaries Robert Patterson and James Forrestal, to say nothing of the army brass and navy scrambled eggs.

It promises to be an especial kind of a good-bye, too, for the high-flying future generals, unbeaten in 27 straight trips to the post since they dropped a 13-0 decision to the Middies back in '43. Since then, they have taken everything apart that they've met, with the single exception of the Notre Dame Irish who fought them to a no-hit, no-run dead heat three weeks ago.

And the bettors don't think that this Navy team, beaten in seven straight starts and sporting an injury list that makes you wonder if it might not be representing some hospital from Annapolis, is going to offer much to stop the West Point whiz-bangs. The local price-makers have Army a four-touchdown favorite—with extra points to boot.

Navy Squad Crippled

This just draws guffaws from Navy Coach Tom Hamilton, who is convinced the up-to-now meek Middies will be on a raw-meat diet this time and will wind up in front when the shooting ends. Coach Tom admits it won't be easy, but says his sailor-boys are the lads who can pull the biggest rabbit out of the smallest hat in years and years of this annual legal mayhem.

He insists on that, too, in spite of the assorted bumps and bruises riddling his squad.

On the sidelines will be Joe Bartos, whose shoulder separation will definitely keep him from any action at all, along with Bill Hawkins, Bob Van Summern, Alvin McCully and Bill McClain, all suffering assorted aches and pains that will limit their working time to only a few minutes apiece, at best.

Fuson Rejoins Cadets

On the other hand, Army comes up to this one at full strength, with the return of Herschel (Ug) Fuson, the 215-pound right-halfback from Middlesburg, Ky., and Shelton Biles, the 200-pound Tennessee tackle, from the hospital list. The chances are Biles won't start, but that's no cause for Army to start wrinkling its forehead, because in his place will be Harold Tavzel, a 190-pounder from Cleveland who teamed up with Davis in the Penn game to top off a 78-yard un-and-lateral-pass play for the usual six points.

Other Saturday games include:

Tennessee at Vanderbilt
Mississippi State at Alabama
Auburn at Florida
North Carolina at Virginia
Holy Cross at Boston College
Baylor at Rice
Nebraska at UCLA

Hursey Gets Nod

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29 (AP) — Smuggsey Hursey, 159, Washington, took a unanimous decision over Ellis Stewart, 153, Baltimore, tonight in a close eight-rounder at the Garden A. C.

Stewart was knocked down in the sixth, but arose after a count of six. Although Hursey was the aggressor all the way, the Baltimore fighter's hit-and-clinch tactics kept him in the contest until the final bell.

TO SEE SON PLAY—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Lookabaugh, 725 Columbia Avenue, yesterday obtained choice box seats for the Washington Redskins-Green Bay Packers game of the National Professional Football League Sunday at Clark Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C. The tickets were a gift to the Lookabaughs from George Preston Marshall, owner of the Redskins, so they could see their son John "Bud" Lookabaugh play with the 'Skins. It will be the local couple's first glimpse of a pro football game. In fact, Mr. Lookabaugh says he hasn't seen "Bud" play since the days he starred for Ridgeley High School. Green Bay will be Washington's final home opponent of the season. "Bud" starred for the Redskins at an end position in last Sunday's game against the Eagles at Philadelphia.

The victory gave the Hilltoppers a clean sweep of three games with its city rivals, including a previous 19-0 decision over the Campers and a 14-0 triumph over LaSalle. The conquest was Fort Hill's first on Turkey Day since 1940 and smashed Allegany's five-game winning streak in holiday tilts.

Sensabaugh Scores First

Fort Hill actually won the game in the first four minutes of play when Fullback Don Sensabaugh smashed over from the four-yard line to climax a 49-yard march. Sensabaugh carried the ball three times for 44 yards, including a 35-yard run, to spark the drive goalward.

The Sentinels tried only two passes during the game, both in the second period, and both produced touchdowns with Elmer Freeland being on the receiving end on each occasion.

Driving 69 yards and racking up four first downs, the Scarlet and White moved the ball from their own 31 to the AHS 20 where Robert "Bub" Frye lateraled to Jimmie Manges, who pitched a "strike" into Freeland's outstretched arms in the end zone for the second six-pointer of the contest.

Lewis Intercepts Pass

Jack Lewis intercepted one of Tom Powers' passes, catching the ball on his shoetops on the AHS 37 to set the stage for the final score. On the first play Manges fumbled but recovered, Frye marked up a first on the Campers 27, and Medford Nicholson advanced three yards. Fort Hill was penalized five yards for offside, but Manges regained the lost yardage on the next play. Then Frye, who is the catcher on Fort Hill's baseball team, rifled a 24-yard pass to Freeland, the Sentinel's first baseman, who was parked in the end zone.

Early in the fourth period Fort Hill scored its fourth touchdown on an 11-yard dash by Jimmie Manges but the score was nullified as a result of a five-yard penalty being slapped on the Sentinels for being offside on the play. The Hahnmen only were able to pick up 14 yards in the four succeeding plays and lost the ball on downs on the AHS two-yard stripe.

Fail To Pass 35-Yard Line

Allegany never threatened during the game and experienced great difficulty in fighting its way out of its own territory. The Campers got as far as the Fort Hill 45 in the third quarter but lost the ball on downs. This rally started when Tom Jamison recovered Tucker's fumble on the Campers' 24 and was featured by Powers' 22-yard run. In the first period the Campobello eleven got as far as the Sentinels' 45 as a result of a 15-yard pass interference penalty and the deepest penetration made by Coach Pence's team into enemy territory came in the fourth stanza when it reached the 35. Frye, however, dashed the AHS hopes to smithereens when he intercepted Powers' aerial on the 28 and returned to the 43.

AHS opened a last ditch rally late in the battle, advancing 44 yards in its own territory but a three-yard loss and Milford Dean's interception of Powers' pass on the Fort Hill 33 halted the spurt. Two plays later the game ended.

Fort Hill's forward wall gave a brilliant performance in limiting the Campers to five first downs. The winners notched 12 firsts, 11 coming on ground plays.

ILLINOIS WILL BATTLE UCLA IN ANNUAL ROSE BOWL GAME

Big Nine Champs Accept Invite To Pasadena New Year's Day

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP) — Illinois 1946 gridiron champion of the Western Conference, will battle undefeated, united UCLA in Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

The "Fighting Illini", triumphant in six out of seven conference games, were the choice of the conference faculty representativs, who today communicated their votes to Kenneth L. Wilson, commissioner of athletics, at Chicago.

Illinois, lacking a glittering offense, will go into the New Year's Day classic boasting Bulldog tenacity and courage. Few teams in conference history have displayed better defensive ability. Victorious over Michigan, Ohio State, Iowa, Wisconsin, Purdue and Northwestern, Illinois yielded only to Indiana, defending champion, in "Big Nine" competition.

Champaign, a university community of 50,000 was elated over Illinois' acceptance, marking the end of the "Big Nine's" 26-year old ban on bowl contests.

The faculty committee on athletics at Illinois lost no time in accepting the bid. Decision was reached after a brief session and Commissioner Wilson was quickly notified.

This was the same committee which a month ago voted against a Western Conference—Pacific Coast five-year tieup.

The Illinois squad will resume football practice at Champaign Dec. 15 and will entrain for Los Angeles Dec. 20 to get in a week's practice on the coast to acclimate the players to the 70 degree temperature usually prevailing at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Allegany Claims Fort Hill Pennant As Trophy Of War

Boys Remove "Enemy" Flag From Pole; Notes On Turkey Day Game

Allegany High School lost the Thanksgiving Day football game and the city title to Fort Hill but two Campobello students managed to salvage something from the wreckage.

Tommy Alderman, freshman, assisted by "Buddy" Easton, Seventh Grader, appointed themselves a committee of two to remove a Fort Hill pennant from the flagpole at Allegany. The pennant, believed to have been hoisted atop the pole by Fort Hill students on Wednesday night, was waving in the breeze as Thanksgiving, day of the big game, dawned.

After getting the flag to the top of the pole, the "enemy" cut the rope about 20 feet above the ground. Alderman, however, with the aid of Easton, shinnied up the pole, yanked on the rope and down came the pennant.

"I'm keeping it the same as a trophy of war," Aldermar declared.

"No wonder Fort Hill won," remarked an Allegany rooter after the Turkey Day game. They had Tucker in their backfield. Isn't that how Army wins its games."

Mr. Tucker (not Arnold but Edgar) did exceptionally well for a fellow who received little printer's ink before the game. He carried the ball five times for 41 yards or slightly over eight yards a play. In the fourth period he accounted for two first downs with 14 and 13 yards sprints.

The top yardage gainer in the game was Medford Nicholson, of Fort Hill. He toted the leather an even dozen times for 57 net yards. Jimmie Manges was next with 54 in 12 tries followed by Tommy Powers, Allegany's ace with 50 in 11 plays. Next in order were Don Sensabaugh with 44 in three, Tucker 41 in five, Howard "Dutch" Peterson 28 in five and "Bub" Frye with 12 in three.

Fort Hill's forward pass defense was tops. Jack Lewis, Milford Dean and Frye came through in the clutch three times to steal Camper forwards. Lewis' snatch paved the way for the Hilltoppers' final score.

The officials were the best to work a local game in many moons. They missed very little. In fact, one wag remarked: "They must have had eyes in the back of their heads." They called a total of 16 penalties, Fort Hill being set back 60 yards and AHS 30. There was only one 15-yard penalty in the lot. The other 15 were five yards each.

It was Mervin Cox, Sentinel left tackle, who administered the knockout drops to Allegany on the very first play of the game when he sent the Campers back on their heels with a 58-yard kickoff to the two-yard line. Powers returned the kick to the 19 but AHS picked up only one yard in three line plays and was forced to punt back to its own 49. From here the drive started that netted the first and winning touchdown.

Cox is the young fellow who took up amateur boxing, knocked out his first opponent, then retired undefeated. He shifted his punch to his feet in the Turkey day classic.

It was a toss-up as to who beamed the brightest—Old Sol or "Huck" McFerran. The latter smiled from ear to ear as money jingled into the boxes for the "Stadium Scoreboard Fund." Several days before the game "Huck" predicted $700 would be collected at the game. He was close. Contributions totalled $681.77.

Summing up the game briefly, one fan said:

Freeland Gains Runner-Up Spot In Scoring Race

Sentinel End Jumps Total To 39; Powers Leads With 54 Tallies

When Elmer Freeland, Fort Hill end, caught two touchdown passes and kicked three extra points against Allegany on Thanksgiving Day for a total of 15 points, he advanced into the runner - up position in the city scoring race for the 1946 grid season.

Hagerstown High Honors Veteran Coach; Hubs Cop Final, 46-7

Hagerstown high school's athletic field was dedicated Semler Field in honor of Edwin (Eddie) H. Semler, Hagerstown football and basketball coach for the past 20 years, at a brief ceremony between halves of the Hagerstown-Waynesboro game Thanksgiving day in Hagerstown. Dedicatory remarks were made by Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of Washington county schools.

At the conclusion of Willis's speech members of the Hagerstown High School team hoisted Coach Semler on their shoulders and carried him to the players bench and then went on to beat Waynesboro by the score of 46 to 7.

The victory wave Hagerstown a perfect season on the gridiron. The Maroon and Gray, incidentally, numbered three Cumberland schools among its victims, defeating Allegany 38-0, LaSalle 27-0 and Fort Hill 20-13.

Hagerstown defeated Waynesboro earlier in the season by the score of 8-0.

A crowd of 6,000 witnessed the final game. It was the thirtieth meeting of the schools on the gridiron since 1919 and the sixteenth victory for Hagerstown.

Semler is well known in Cumberland and has brought his Hagerstown cage and grid teams here to play Allegany since 1926.

Portage Feather Meets Local Boy On Monday Night

Four Pennsy Boxers Will Appear In SCAC At West Side Gym

Pat Murphy, hard-hitting South End featherweight, has been matched with "Bud" Taberico, 126-pounder, of Portage, Pa., in the feature bout of the South Cumberland Athletic Club's amateur boxing show to be staged Monday night at 8 o'clock in SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium.

Murphy met Talerico twice last summer in bouts at Ebensburg and Portage, Pa., but on both occasions dropped close decisions to the Pennsylvanian. Pat, incidentally, split even in six matches out-of-town during the summer season.

Fights Twelfth Time

Monday night's bout will mark the twelfth start for Murphy since he entered the simon pure ranks last year. He has a record of six wins and five defeats.

"Chuck" Richardson, cousin of Bobby Richardson, one-time Johnstown professional middleweight, who fought Bobby Green and K.O. Yutzy here years ago, will bring a team of four Portage boxers here to meet local boys. Richardson once handled Tommy Burns, the classy pro middleweight from Johnstown. None of the Portage boxers coming here Monday have appeared before in local shows.

The card will open with Edgar Tucker, of the SCAC, trading wallops with Paul Lepley, Tiger A.C. lightweight, followed by a match between Roy Richardson, of the SCAC, and Jimmie Deetz, Legion flyweight. Johnny Wolfe, 260-pounder, of the SCAC, is paired with Kenneth "Red" Morrissey, another local heavyweight.

Others expected to see action are Jack Knippenburg, who always gives the fans a run for their money, Jim Klosterman, who has won eight straight bouts, Don Miller, Jimmie Catanese, Bobby Goss, Melvin Washington, Jack Jones and Bobby Porter.

Kelley To Referee

James E. Kelley, Jr., will referee all the bouts on the card. Ross W. Prysock and Howard "Red" Bush will be the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Illness prevented Kelley from officiating in last week's show here. Jim, however, hopes to be able to resume his duties as referee next week.

LaSalle Annexes Final At Beall

Scoring four touchdowns—two in the first period and two in the third quarter—LaSalle climaxed its football season by defeating Beall High School by the score of 26 to 0 on Thanksgiving Day in Frostburg.

Approximately 5,000 witnessed the game at Frostburg State Teachers' College field.

Tracy Riggins, John Nesbit, John Esposito and Tommy O'Toole accounted for the LaSalle touchdowns while Riggins and O'Toole added the extra points on a punt and pass.

LaSalle racked up 18 first downs to 12 for the losers. The Explorers completed nine of 14 passes for 87 yards and had one aerial intercepted. Beall completed two of six passes for only seven yards.

Coach John J. Long's eleven in marking up its third win against four losses and two ties, piled up 233 yards on the ground and lost 17 yards. Beall gained 136 yards and lost 20 yards rushing. LaSalle was set back 40 yards on penalties and Beall 35.

The loss was the fifth in a row for Coach Joe Hoopengardner's Beall team which opened the season with a victory over Meyersdale.

Fund For Scoreboard Exceeds $1,500 Mark

The campaign to raise $3,000 for the purchase of a football scoreboard at the local stadium reached the halfway mark yesterday after contributions totaling $681.77 were made by fans attending the Fort Hill-Allegany football game on Thanksgiving Day.

A total of $1,531.97 has been raised to date.

Others who have contributed to the fund in the past few days include: Russell Campbell $10; Dr. J. Russell Cook $10; G. Louis Spoerl $10; Schell Miller $5; Bernard McGreevy $5 and Arnett M. Widener $2.

Recent donations included a $50 gift from William L. Sherman and $25 from Charles A. Piper.

C. Edgar Keller Tells Of Playing Football In College 52 Years Ago

District Court Deputy Clerk Says Game Is Entirely Different Today

By F. ALAN WEATHERHOLT

While football has nothing to do with the tradition that surrounds Thanksgiving Day, America's only strictly all-American holiday, "Turkey-Day" games have themselves become a tradition.

Wednesday while making the rounds of a regular news beat, numerous people were talking about games they would like to see Thursday or games they had seen in the past which left poignant memories.

In the Federal building, this reporter called at the office of the venerable deputy clerk of United States District Court, C. Edgar Keller, and queried, "well Mr. Keller, are you going to the game tomorrow?"

Whereupon Keller replied, gazing out of the window, "No, I'm not. They don't play my kind of football anymore. Why 52 years ago, I played at Wilmington, Del., with a couple of inches of snow on the ground. We played on hard gravel fields in those days and the ground was pretty hard when it was frozen. We played 45 minute halves then too, and didn't send in lots of substitutes. None of these grass covered fields with 15-minute quarters for me. I don't go to games any more."

By this time your reporter was about stunned and found a chair. Settling down to listen, with a little prompting, Keller unfolded an interesting "Turkey-Day football story".

Played At St. John's

"I graduated from St. John's College at Annapolis in 1893 and played tackle on the toughest football team you ever heard of for three years. That would have been 1890-91 and 92," he began.

"We played all the big teams then, but our greatest rival was Johns Hopkins University." He chuckled gleefully as he rummaged in his desk and came up with a yellowed newspaper clipping.

It showed comparative scores of St. John's and Johns Hopkins from 1885 through 1934. The recap indicated that St. John's had won 23 games, and lost 22 to Johns Hopkins. Seven games ended in ties: One game was forfeited when the St. John's team got sore and walked off the field. That was in 1902. John Hopkins had a total of 477 points and St. John's a total of 455 for the years shown.

After glancing over the clipping and casually jotting a few notes, Keller was asked, "what other teams did you play?"

"Well we played'em all. We beat the Middies at Annapolis in 1892, I believe it was, and they wanted a return game so we beat 'em again. They were so mad that they pushed some of our boys over a sea wall into the water," he laughed.

"We played the Washington-Lee team, VMI, University of Virginia, Delaware College and others. Those Virginia fellows always had good teams too," he continued.

"Everything is different about the game now than it was 52 years ago when I played it," he recalled. The goal posts have been moved back from where they used to be. The ball is a different shape, he explained. "The ball we used was more round than the one used now."

"Now-a-days, the players wear more protection on each man than we had for our whole team. All we wore was a canvas jacket and short canvas pants, laced together tight with corset strings. Now these fellows wear shin guards, nose protectors, shoulder pads helmets, and all other kind of gear." He grimaced, "I'm even told they wear padding inside their britches, too."

Mt. Savage Man Played

Asked if he remembered the names of some of the players on the teams when he was in school, Keller said, "yes I think I do. There was a Mt. Savage fellow named Bias you ought to remember who became quite famous. I've got a picture of our 1892 team here."

He walked over near the doorway and removed a picture from the wall and began naming the players shown there. "One of them" he pointed proudly, "was one of our professors. In those days teachers could play too if they wanted too. We only had 125 students in St. John's and needed all the players we could get. But we had a powerful team," he exclaimed.

Asked if crowds attended the games in those days, Keller said, "not like they do today. We didn't have stadiums. Didn't know what a modern stadium was."

He paused in his story and then suddenly exclaimed, "Why I understand some fellows even get paid for playing football now. Why 52 years ago we played for the sport and because we loved our school. I remember times when we had to pass a hat to take up enough collection to get travel money."

"We were lucky if we had three substitutes on our squad, and there wasn't any such thing as taking a man out and resting him. Why anybody should be able to stand up for 15 minutes like they play now, even if he was sick. But I'd like to see some of them play for 45 minutes at a stretch like the old football players did."

Mr. Keller then identified most of the players on his highly prized picture, and said he would let us borrow it, but made us promise faithfully it would be returned intact. He has kept abreast of football and knows the names of many of today's players too, but he couldn't be prevailed upon to attend the local game.

He said he'd stay home and listen to the radio.

FOOTBALL 52 YEARS AGO—C. Edgard Keller, deputy clerk of United States District Court, recalled this week that football teams when he played were better and tougher and had less equipment 52 years ago than they do now. This picture which he displays in his office is the 1892 team of St. John's College, Annapolis. Keller recalls the names of the players as follows: back row left to right, Thomas E. Lattimer, Gordon Tull, Pluto Johnson, Burlingham, Edward M. Pusey, C. Edgar Keller, (tackle) and Charles E. Dryden. Seated left to right are Professor John L. Chew, (teachers played then too), Hewing, John Bias, team captain, formerly of Mt. Savage; Iglehart and Proctor. Lying on the ground are Waller and Charles L. Wilhelm. As Keller tried to recall their names he said wistfully, "some of them are dead now, and I've lost track of the others, but we had a team that beat the best of them." (see story)

District Court Deputy Clerk Says Game Is Entirely Different Today

By F. ALAN WEATHERHOLT

While football has nothing to do with the tradition that surrounds Thanksgiving Day, America's only strictly all-American holiday, "Turkey-Day" games have themselves become a tradition.

Wednesday while making the rounds of a regular news beat, numerous people were talking about games they would like to see Thursday or games they had seen in the past which left poignant memories.

In the Federal building, this reporter called at the office of the venerable deputy clerk of United States District Court, C. Edgar Keller, and queried, "well Mr. Keller, are you going to the game tomorrow?"

Whereupon Keller replied, gazing out of the window, "No, I'm not. They don't play my kind of football anymore. Why 52 years ago, I played at Wilmington, Del., with a couple of inches of snow on the ground. We played on hard gravel fields in those days and the ground was pretty hard when it was frozen. We played 45 minute halves then too, and didn't send in lots of substitutes. None of these grass covered fields with 15-minute quarters for me. I don't go to games any more."

By this time your reporter was about stunned and found a chair. Settling down to listen, with a little prompting, Keller unfolded an interesting "Turkey-Day football story".

Played At St. John's

"I graduated from St. John's College at Annapolis in 1893 and played tackle on the toughest football team you ever heard of for three years. That would have been 1890-91 and 92," he began.

"We played all the big teams then, but our greatest rival was Johns Hopkins University." He chuckled gleefully as he rummaged in his desk and came up with a yellowed newspaper clipping.

It showed comparative scores of St. John's and Johns Hopkins from 1885 through 1934. The recap indicated that St. John's had won 23 games, and lost 22 to Johns Hopkins. Seven games ended in ties: One game was forfeited when the St. John's team got sore and walked off the field. That was in 1902. John Hopkins had a total of 477 points and St. John's a total of 455 for the years shown.

After glancing over the clipping and casually jotting a few notes, Keller was asked, "what other teams did you play?"

"Well we played'em all. We beat the Middies at Annapolis in 1892, I believe it was, and they wanted a return game so we beat 'em again. They were so mad that they pushed some of our boys over a sea wall into the water," he laughed.

"We played the Washington-Lee team, VMI, University of Virginia, Delaware College and others. Those Virginia fellows always had good teams too," he continued.

"Everything is different about the game now than it was 52 years ago when I played it," he recalled.

The goal posts have been moved back from where they used to be. The ball is a different shape, he explained. "The ball we used was more round than the one used now."

"Now-a-days, the players wear more protection on each man than we had for our whole team. All we wore was a canvas jacket and short canvas pants, laced together tight with corset strings. Now these fellows wear shin guards, nose protectors, shoulder pads, helmets, and all other kind of gear." He grimaced, "I'm even told they wear padding inside their britches, too."

Mt. Savage Man Played

Asked if he remembered the names of some of the players on the teams when he was in school, Keller said, "yes I think I do. There was a Mt. Savage fellow named Bias you ought to remember who became quite famous. I've got a picture of our 1892 team here."

He walked over near the doorway and removed a picture from the wall and began naming the players shown there. "One of them" he pointed proudly, "was one of our professors. In those days teachers could play too if they wanted too. We only had 125 students in St. John's and needed all the players we could get. But we had a powerful team," he exclaimed.

Asked if crowds attended the games in those days, Keller said, "not like they do today. We didn't have stadiums. Didn't know what a modern stadium was."

He paused in his story and then suddenly exclaimed, "Why I understand some fellows even get paid for playing football now. Why 52 years ago we played for the sport and because we loved our school. I remember times when we had to pass a hat to take up enough collection to get travel money."

"We were lucky if we had three substitutes on our squad, and there wasn't any such thing as taking a man out and resting him. Why anybody should be able to stand up for 15 minutes like they play now, even if he was sick. But I'd like to see some of them play for 45 minutes at a stretch like the old football players did."

Mr. Keller then identified most of the players on his highly prized picture, and said he would let us borrow it, but made us promise faithfully it would be returned intact. He has kept abreast of football and knows the names of many of today's players too, but he couldn't be prevailed upon to attend the local game.

He said he'd stay home and listen to the radio.

FOOTBALL 52 YEARS AGO—C. Edgard Keller, deputy clerk of United States District Court, recalled this week that football teams when he played were better and tougher and had less equipment 52 years ago than they do now. This picture which he displays in his office is the 1892 team of St. John's College, Annapolis. Keller recalls the names of the players as follows: back row left to right, Thomas E. Lattimer, Gordon Tull, Pluto Johnson, Burlingham, Edward M. Pusey, C. Edgar Keller, (tackle) and Charles E. Dryden. Seated left to right are Professor John L. Chew, (teachers played then too), Hewing, John Bias, team captain, formerly of Mt. Savage; Iglehart and Proctor. Lying on the ground are Waller and Charles L. Wilhelm. As Keller tried to recall their names he said wistfully, "some of them are dead now, and I've lost track of the others, but we had a team that beat the best of them." (see story)

Two Grid Games Get Right Of Way On Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Climax of the network football season, that is save for the year-end bowl games, comes Saturday. Two games get the right of way, Army vs. Navy in annual tussle at Philadelphia, and Notre Dame vs. Southern California at South Bend, Ind.

NBC gets the broadcast rights, television too, to the Army-Navy contest, coming on its coast to coast network at 1:15. Television will start an hour earlier, going to four cities, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Schenectady.

All three networks will be on Notre Dame-Southern California, CBS and MBS from the preview at 2:15 and NBC as soon as it finishes Army-Navy.

Grand Ole Opry, which started out at WSM, Nashville, before the days of the networks, will celebrate the beginning of its 22nd year on the air via NBC at 10:30. The show moved onto the network some years ago. . . The Hit Parade, long a New York produced program, will transfer all of its CBS activities at 9 to Hollywood. All the cast goes too.

The ABC matinee broadcast from the Metropolitan opera stage at 2 will be a four-hour presentation of "Tristan and Isolde." This is about an hour longer than the usual presentation.

A dog that learns to talk will be the "hero" of the CBS Workshop drama at 6:15 under the title of It Shouldn't Happen to a Man." . . . Rex Harrison will have his wife Lilli Palmer along for the CBS This Is Hollywood at 10:15. . . The Chicago Theater is presenting "The Desert Song" for MBS at 10.

Two Grid Games Get Right Of Way On Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Climax of the network football season, that is save for the year-end bowl games, comes Saturday. Two games get the right of way, Army vs. Navy in annual tussle at Philadelphia, and Notre Dame vs. Southern California at South Bend, Ind.

NBC gets the broadcast rights, television too, to the Army-Navy contest, coming on its coast to coast network at 1:15. Television will start an hour earlier, going to four cities, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Schenectady.

All three networks will be on Notre Dame-Southern California, CBS and MBS from the preview at 2:15 and NBC as soon as it finishes Army-Navy.

Grand Ole Opry, which started out at WSM, Nashville, before the days of the networks, will celebrate the beginning of its 22nd year on the air via NBC at 10:30. The show moved onto the network some years ago. . . The Hit Parade, long a New York produced program, will transfer all of its CBS activities at 9 to Hollywood. All the cast goes too.

The ABC matinee broadcast from the Metropolitan opera stage at 2 will be a four-hour presentation of "Tristan and Isolde." This is about an hour longer than the usual presentation.

A dog that learns to talk will be the "hero" of the CBS Workshop drama at 6:15 under the title of It Shouldn't Happen to a Man." . . . Rex Harrison will have his wife Lilli Palmer along for the CBS This Is Hollywood at 10:15. . . The Chicago Theater is presenting "The Desert Song" for MBS at 10.

MR. FARMER! You want the highest prices obtainable at your sale. You may employ the best auctioneer, but he cannot coax competitive bids from an empty barn-lot, you must have a CROWD. Let a Times-News For Sale ad that reaches more than 30,000 families daily bring a crowd—and higher bids to your sale.

George Henderson Takes Oath As Judge Today

Commissioners To Organize Monday; Many Changes In County Positions Are Predicted

The first action in changing of personnel at the county court house as a result of last month's election, will occur at 10 a. m. today, when George Henderson will take the oath of office as associate judge, succeeding Judge Walter C. Capper. The oath will be administered by Clerk of Court Robert Jackson in the court room.

The newly elected Board of Allegany County Commissioners Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson William H. Lemmert and James Holmes, is scheduled to meet and organize Monday morning. Just who will be the board president is not yet known, but gossip around the court house has it that Wilkinson will get the nod. Some think however, he may be inclined to follow his contention of four years ago that "the man who heads the ticket with the most votes should be the president of the board." If he holds to this, court house attaches say the president will be Lemmert. Others contend Lemmert will give Wilkinson the nod because of his experience on the board.

While members of the board make no comments or advance predictions on appointments, it is believed some appointments will be made at the Monday meeting, with others announced later in the month.

Hear Many Predictions

From a source believed to be reliable, the News has learned of several changes which will be made in county personnel. Around the court house there is much conjecture and many predictions but yesterday the following reports seemed to be reasonably reliable.

W. A. Strother, of Shriver avenue, is being most prominently mentioned as tax collector of the Cumberland district to succeed Lucien Radcliffe.

R. Mason Hill, chief assessor is slated for removal, according to reports. Hill, who has served in the office for 30 years, acknowledged yesterday that he understands he is on the list to go. His successor is reported to be Claude R. Woodard, present assistant assessor.

Among those being mentioned as assistant assessor to replace Woodard, is J. Milton Dick. Dick is a member of the House of Delegates, but did not run to succeed himself.

Dick was a candidate in the GOP primary for register of wills but was defeated by A. Charles Stewart of Frostburg.

No successor has been mentioned around the court house for Walter A. Johnston, county auditor. Johnston submitted his resignation several weeks ago.

Robert E. Smith, superintendent of the county asylum is believed the likely successor of William Matheney, superintendent of the county home. This is one of the most talked of changes, but of course is unconfirmed. No successor to Smith has been suggested by the dopesters.

James W. Morris, present county milk inspector is also mentioned as one of those to be replaced. His successor is reported to be Albert Smouse.

Taylor Tax Collector

Thomas H. Taylor, formerly a bookkeeper for Ort's Bakery at Midland, is prominently mentioned as tax collector for the Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport and

First Methodist Church Has Guest Preacher Sunday

Rev. F. Reid Isaac, Jr., D. D., general superintendent of the Board of Child Care of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church, will be guest preacher at the First Methodist Church, Bedford street at 11 a. m. tomorrow, according to Rev James A. Richards, pastor.

The board of which Rev. Mr. Isaac is the head, serves the entire Methodist church child welfare program in the state of Maryland and Washington, D. C. It has direct control of the Swartzell Home for Children in Washington, the Kelso Home for Girls at Towson and the Strawbridge Home for Boys at Sykesville.

During the past two years, Rev. Mr. Richards said yesterday, the board has cleared over 600 needy applications. Institutional care has been given 200 children during this time with a 55 percent increase in enrollment at the three homes.

In addition to the three homes for children, the Board has a large number of Christian Homes for other needy children who cannot be cared for within any institution. At tomorrow's service here, a special holiday offering will be taken to help finance this child-care program.

Rev. Mr. Richards said he hopes the gifts here will be generous. He declared he spent 14 years of his childhood in two of these homes and is now a member of the Board of Trustees of the Strawbridge Home and a member of the Board of Child Care. The Board is asking a total of $30,000 from the combined Christmas effort this year, for these homes.

The service tomorrow is open to the public, and Rev. Mr. Richards declared this is an excellent opportunity to hear an outstanding preacher.

Arbitrator Rules For Recall Of 18 Garment Workers

Decision Closes 2-Month Strike At Local Plant, ILGWU Says

Mrs. Angela Bambace, manager of the Maryland-Virginia district of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL, announced last night that the arbitration case brought by the union against the Cumberland Undergarment Company for the reinstatement of 18 strikers has been settled and resulted in a victory for the union.

In the decision dated November 25, she reported, the following persons, were ordered reinstated:

Virginia Scatturo, Dorothy Folk, Eva Pownall, Wanda Ashenfelter, Mary Jane Keiglein, Lenora Folk, Malda Bender, Virginia Wetzel, Wanda Hogbin, Lareda Sipes, Anna Max Kriglein, Viola Brown, Dorothy Fees, Georgia Lechliter, Mildred Ryan, Mildred Fletcher, Mary Wagner and Mary Madero.

The arbitration hearing was held at the court house here before Maxwell Copelof, United States Department of Labor arbitrator, on November 19 with Charles Kriendler, international vice president, and William Kaufman, union official, represented the union, and Thomas B. Finan, company attorney representing the Gay street garment factory.

Mrs. Bambace stated "this decision closes all questions that have arisen as a result of the strike. All workers who completed trial with the company were ordered reinstated. The union expected that in the future all relations will be governed by the same processes followed in thousands of contracts that the union has with employers."

The arbitration decision arose from the refusal of the company to recall leaders of the strike which closed the Gay street garment plant for about two months, beginning July 18.

Maurice Milberg, plant manager, was quoted, following the resumption of operations, that the company did not intend to recall some 12 workers, asserting they were leaders in the strike which constituted a breach of contract between the company and the ILGWU.

The work stoppage began as a dispute over starting and piece work rates at the plant and involved many AFL and CIO unions here who offered unofficial aid to the strikers.

Three-Alarm Fire Destroys Garage

50 Telephones Put Out Of Order By Blaze On Hill Top Drive

A three-alarm fire early last night resulted in the destruction of a one-car garage at the home of John L. Reed, 500 Hill Top drive, and threw some 50 telephone lines out of order for about four hours.

South End Fire Company, which answered an alarm from Box 621 at 6:38 p. m. said flames were shooting from the roof of the ironclad garage when they arrived.

Central and East Side Companies, responding to an alarm from Box 612, stayed at the blaze for a time.

Firemen said the garage was empty at the time the blaze of undetermined origin broke out and added that the family was in the front of the home and unaware of the blaze. The flames did not endanger the home some 40 feet away.

Firemen said the flames charred a telephone pole near the rear of the garage and a telephone official added the flames melted the lead insulation from the cable, disrupting service to some 50 circuits, including eight Memorial Hospital lines.

The company said a repair crew of 10 men had replaced three of the hospital lines by 10:15 p. m. and predicted all lines would be in order by midnight.

Police Have Hope Of Catching Man Who Shot Bennear

Ex-Soldier Regains Consciousness After Being Beaten, Shot

Virginia Police held new hope of apprehenting a hitch-hiker, who attacked and shot Robert Bennear, Thomas, W. Va., ex-soldier near Gore, Va., November 20, when hospital attaches announced that the victim had regained consciousness.

State police said last night, that they were unable to gain many details of the ssault from Bennear, who is still weak after being unconscious since he was admitted to the Winchester, Va., hospital shortly after he was slugged and shot through the chest with a .45 caliber revolver.

Talked Few Minutes

The young man talked for a few minutes police said, but was too weak to give accurate details of the incident or to give a complete description of his attacker. Bennear did however, identify the man as being about 23 or 24 years of age, and said he had light hair.

Such a description, police said, would rule out the "rough-looking read-headed man, that was reported seen near the scene of the shooting, a few hours before Bennear was discovered. Police had been searching for the red headed man for the past week.

According to police Bennear told authorities that he picked the man up about 30 minutes outside of Washington, where he had driven Lee Sutton, Thomas Theater operator, who was enroute to Florida.

Bennear's condition was described as "good" last night by police, who said they are planning to question him further today and then renew their search for the suspected hitch-hiker.

Remembers Ring, Watch

The victim's father, told police that his son remembers having his watch and a ring stolen and when asked about his pocketbook remarked "they got part of that too."

Bennear told his father that he didn't remember going through Winchester, but he did recall being forced out of the car and being shot. The ex-soldier also expressed concern over the car, and inquired of his father if the vehicle had been recovered.

Virginia authorities located the car in Winchester on the same night that Bennear was shot and robbed They reported the car was abandoned by the man believed to have taken it after forcing Bennear out and shooting him.

Bennear's family was planning to take him to Charlottesville, Va., for an examination by a brain specialist, but the trip will not be made now, since the young man has regained consciousness, police said.

Mayor Gets Offers For Sharing Coal

Offers to earmark coal stockpiles for limited supply to Cumberland residents under circumstances of emergency have been received at City Hall, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Mayor Post said that Charles L. Albright, Mt. Savage dealer, has informed him that he has approximately 400 tons of coal which he will reserve for that purpose. The mayor said he has not yet ordered any of the coal, but he added that he received two calls yesterday from persons who were out of coal in homes where there is sickness.

In addition, two Cumberland citizens have informed the mayor that they have from one to three tons of extra coal which they will be able to share in case of emergency.

Mayor Post said he will postpone the appointment of a community committee and other emergency measures until the national coal situation becomes clarified.

Smoke Control Favored By Margin Of 3 To 1 In Times-News Election

Midnight Tonight Is Deadline For Voting And Letter Contest

Ballots on smoke control poured into the Times-News offices yesterday as the deadline for casting ballots—midnight tonight—neared.

Again the ballots received yesterday were far in the majority for smoke control of railroads and industries. South Cumberland and West Side again led in the number of ballots cast, with East Side third, North End fourth and the center of the city fifth.

Another concerted effort by those who oppose smoke control in the South End was indicated when another batch of ballots was received over Thanksgiving Day, but again those favoring control from that section of the city were in the lead by better than 2 to 1 on yesterday afternoon's tally. Those ballots favoring control from South Cumberland came by mail, showing no solicitation had been made, and that the votes were cast voluntarily.

The West Side continued to keep its slate clean by not having a single vote cast against control, while North End is almost unanimous for smoke control, as is also the East Side and the center section of the city.

The West Side shows 1,248 votes for and none against control; South Cumberland 1,616 for and 1,032 against for a ration of a little less than 2 to 1; North End 808 for to 56 against for a ratio of 14 to 1 for control; East Side 880 for and 32 against for approximately a 28 to 1 for control, and the center of the city 684 for and 166 against, or a ratio of almost 6 to 1. The margin over the entire city shows a better than 3 to 1 vote for smoke control on the basis of votes cast to date.

Tonight at midnight is the deadline for casting ballots and also for entering the contest for $75 in cash awards for the best eight letters for or against smoke control. All letters and ballots must be brought to the Times-News office or postmarked not later than midnight tonight.

November Bills Of Jones Family Total $617.61

Committee Reports Children In Good Spirits; Home Fixed Up

Expenses for the Jones family at Midland in November were $617.61 according to a report submitted to the News yesterday by William A. Wilson, chairman of the "Jones Family Fund" which is administering the fund. Expenditures in October were $739.89 making a total of $1,357.50 spent by the committee in two months. Total contributions to date to the fund, which was sponsored by the Cumberland News, is $7,378.86 leaving a balance in the fund of $6,021.36.

The committee, in its report said, "we realize that the expenses for the first two months have been rather high but the home and children are now fully equipped. The home is now a bright, cheery place and Mrs. Leasure, the housekeeper, has done a wonderful job. She reports the children to be eating heartily and in good spirits. There are other repairs to be made on the home, such as having gas piped into rooms but the landlord has promised to take care of all other matters.

This week Mrs. Jones wrote a letter to F. Alan Weatherholt, Cumberland News reporter, who wrote the original story on the Jones family situation, expressing her thanks to the Cumberland News and all "those good people who made it possible for us to keep our children in their own home, while my husband, our daughter and myself are recuperating here in the sanitarium".

Mrs. Jones wrote that she has already gained 10 pounds and that Betty Faye is progressing nicely. She added that her husband looks fairly well. "They are both in the hospital, but I am in one of the six cottages with 10 other women who are all very nice to me. The first week was pretty tough but now when I look back I thank God that there are so many decent people in the world.

"Every letter that I get from home proves that everything is turning out wonderful, and our children are getting along fine with Mrs. Leasure, who proved even before I left, she was a competent housekeeper and interested in the welfare of our children.

"I have a pass to visit my husband and daughter three times weekly. I can go to the movies four nights a week and church on Sunday morning and Tuesday evening Every morning when it's clear we see the most beautiful sunrise, on the order of being at Dan's Rock when the sun comes up. All of our hearts are back in good old Allegany county and we look forward to the day we can all be together again."

Saying that she could not think of a more appropriate time than Thanksgiving to thank people who have been so kind to them, Mrs. Jones said "I still feel like we haven't thanked everyone enough, so I want you to tell all those who contributed to the fund how much we appreciate it." She said she hoped to be able to come home at Christmas to see the children and friends in Allegany county.

New Rural Adult Classes To Open February 3 And 4

Program Will Include Machine Repair And Community Canning

Two new rural adult education classes are expected to be added to five presently operating under the sponsorship of the Board of Education with evening programs being planned to begin February 3 and 4, James H. House, supervisor, said yesterday.

The new classes will be organized in Frostburg, with David Plummer as instructor, and in Corriganville with Ray Getz in charge. Other classes are already being operated in Flintstone, Oldtown, Belle Grove, Bedford Road and Triple Lakes.

Comprised of Two Parts

The program is comprised of two parts, consisting of farm mechanics and community canning, House said. Shops where classes are held, are equipped with tools such as power saws, forges, acetylene and electric welding equipment, electric drills and many hand tools.

During the war years the program was known as the Rural War Production Training Service, and afforded many farmers the opportunity of repairing equipment that couldn't be replaced or repaired in other places.

Proof that persons engaged in agriculture are interested in the service is furnished by the number of items repaired in the present five shops since July 1.

The list includes repair of 247 farm machines; 330 welding jobs; 212 forge work jobs; 278 cold metal jobs; 432 tool fitting jobs; 90 soldering jobs and 259 miscellaneous jobs, such as woodwork, harness repair and construction work.

Can Repair Own Tools

Under the program interested persons may study and at the same time repair broken or injured equipment that they use on the farm. Quantities of materials and supplies can be purchased at the shops in accord with the program.

The canning project deals with production, conservation and processing of food for family use. Since July 1 when the canning classes were begun this year, 21,605 cans of food have been processed in the two canning centers now operating in Belle Grove and Eckhart.

About 217 women are enrolled in classes now being conducted at the two centers, and are free to use the processing facilities during all class hours. The centers are open on an average of two days a week.

TWUA Seeks Boost At Keyser Plant

Celanese Wage Negotiations Will Resume Monday Morning

James A. Dundon, regional TWUA director, and Joseph J. Barley, business manager of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Worker Union of America, will begin wage negotiations for workers of the Potomac Worsted Spinning Mill, Keyser, W. Va., at a conference with Joseph Blum, company attorney in New York City today.

Barley said the union is seeking a 20-cent across the board increase at the Keyser mill, a change in working hours and vacation clauses such as prevail at the Amcelle plant.

He said the union wants the present shifts of 6 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. changed to 7 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. and 3:30 p. m. to 12 p. m., with 2½ per cent of annual salary as vacation pay for one year's service and double that amount for those with five or more years' seniority.

Barley said the recent election at the Keyser mill resulted in the naming of Goldie Boehmis as president; Nelsie Downey, vice president, and Fannie* Rizer as recording secretary.

Negotiations for a wage increase at the Amcelle plant, Barley said, will be resumed Monday at 10 o'clock. Wesley Cook, assistant director of the TWUA's rayon division, will attend the conference.

The TWUA, he added, will also negotiate next week with Industrial Rayon and Viscose firms on 18-cent an hour increases.

Three Veterans Head Housing Committee Here

Local Citizens Committee Proceeds With Plans To Start Project; Orndorff Named Chairman

Three veterans were chosen last night to serve as temporary officers of the Veterans-Citizens Housing Project Committee, at a meeting in the Peoples Bank.

The committee formed for the purpose of getting building materials channeled into the Cumberland area and to construct homes for veterans.

William B. Orndorff, 125 Pennsylvania avenue, an army veteran and commander of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, was elected chairman of the group.

F. Alan Weatherholt, 512 Rose Hill avenue, News reporter and Pacific theater army veteran was named vice chairman .

Committees Named

Orndorff appointed several committees to proceed with plans for the local building projects. Weatherholt, Russ Minter local architect and James M. Beacham, realtor were named to select a site or sites for a housing project.

Thomas B. Finan, Jr., Carscaden, W. Earle Cobey and John T. Fey, local attorneys, all veterans, were chosen as legal advisory committee.

Results of the survey conducted through local newspapers were studied in relation to the demand for housing for veterans, and there was considerable discussion on feasibility and desirability of several proposed sites.

Minter and Weatherholt reported they had inspected a number of localities and together with the legal communities, they were authorized to proceed with plans to take options with the view of developing one or more of these tracts.

It was the consensus of opinion of those at the meeting that an effort should be made to purchase or acquire title to a tract of land suitable for 25 houses or more and begin developing it as quickly as possible.

Mention was made of the fact that other people besides veterans here need and want housing, and it was agreed that any houses built will be made available to others if veterans do not buy them within 30 days.

Non-Profit Corporation

The group plans to form itself into a non-profit corporation for the express purpose of building a minimum of 25 houses within a price range, and containing the number of rooms most veterans want.

The biggest handicap in housing here has been the lack of building materials. Surveys of other communities, according to members of the group, show that building materials are available. The shortage here has not only kept the price of construction up, but has made it next to impossible for many people to build.

Communities now getting materials seem to be those who did some construction during the war, and had large war industries and plants in their areas. The allocations of building materials now, it was explained, is based upon the amount used in a community during the war.

Officials in Washington have assured members of the committee that a special allocation will be

Court Dismisses Suit In Strip Mining Dispute

Restraining orders against defendants in a strip coal mining dispute were lifted and a bill of complaint dismissed in an opinion from Chief Judge William A. Huster and Judge Walter C. Capper, in circuit court yesterday. An equity action, the plaintiffs are given "the right to pursue any remedy at law they might have."

David N. Goldberg, Angelo Franciose and Ralph Franciose, partners and doing business as the Dorothy Coal Company, filed the action against James W. Ford, trading as the Ford Coal Company; James W. Ford, George E. Ford, John Betters and Dominic Betters, trading as the Betters-Ford Coal Company, and the Mt. Savage Refractories Company.

Under the Court decision, the refractories company is entitled to relief under its cross-bill and will be granted an injuction restraining the Ford Coal Company from entering upon or mining coal on the lands near Mt. Savage.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., of Westernport, and Wilbur Galbraith of Pittsburgh, are attorneys for the refractories firm.

The complainants are represented by Albert A. Doub, Jr., John M Robb and S. Robert Reiter, while Harry I. Stegmaier is counsel for the Ford company.

The plaintiffs sought a decree for specific performance of a contract dated July 10, 1946, and asked restraining orders to keep the defendants from selling or otherwise disposing of coal on the property. They alleged that the coal company and the refractories firm "contrived to bring about cancellation of the agreement." A demurrer by the defendant coal company was overruled.

It was alleged that the plaintiffs had agreed to strip and load not less than 10,000 tons of coal a month, beginning last July 1, but that the total tonnage up to October 3 amounted to only 286 tons.

It was also charged that trucks to transport the coal were not provided and that the coal was "of inferior quality and could not be marketed." The Court cited that the evidence indicated that the plaintiffs simply "folded up" and took their equipment elsewhere.

The judges pointed out that the matter should be decided in a law action, and the Court could not rule in such a dispute brought as an equity suit. It was also pointed out that the refractortes company had nothing to do with the stripping operation and is entitled to possession of its property free of any claims of the other parties involved.

George Henderson Takes Oath As Judge Today

Commissioners To Organize Monday; Many Changes In County Positions Are Predicted

The first action in changing of personnel at the county court house as a result of last month's election, will occur at 10 a. m. today, when George Henderson will take the oath of office as associate judge, succeeding Judge Walter C. Capper. The oath will be administered by Clerk of Court Robert Jackson in the court room.

The newly elected Board of Allegany County Commissioners Charles N. "Jerry" Wilkinson William H. Lemmert and James Holmes, is scheduled to meet and organize Monday morning. Just who will be the board president is not yet known, but gossip around the court house has it that Wilkinson will get the nod. Some think however, he may be inclined to follow his contention of four years ago that "the man who heads the ticket with the most votes should be the president of the board." If he holds to this, court house attaches say the president will be Lemmert. Others contend Lemmert will give Wilkinson the nod because of his experience on the board.

While members of the board make no comments or advance predictions on appointments, it is believed some appointments will be made at the Monday meeting, with others announced later in the month.

Hear Many Predictions

From a source believed to be reliable, the News has learned of several changes which will be made in county personnel. Around the court house there is much conjecture and many predictions but yesterday the following reports seemed to be reasonably reliable.

W. A. Strother, of Shriver avenue, is being most prominently mentioned as tax collector of the Cumberland district to succeed Lucien Radcliffe.

R. Mason Hill, chief assessor is slated for removal, according to reports. Hill, who has served in the office for 30 years, acknowledged yesterday that he understands he is on the list to go. His successor is reported to be Claude R. Woodard, present assistant assessor.

Among those being mentioned as assistant assessor to replace Woodard, is J. Milton Dick. Dick is a member of the House of Delegates, but did not run to succeed himself.

Dick was a candidate in the GOP primary for register of wills but was defeated by A. Charles Stewart of Frostburg.

No successor has been mentioned around the court house for Walter A. Johnston, county auditor. Johnston submitted his resignation several weeks ago.

Robert E. Smith, superintendent of the county asylum is believed the likely successor of William Mathemey, superintendent of the county home. This is one of the most talked of changes, but of course is unconfirmed. No successor to Smith has been suggested by the dopesters.

James W. Morris, present county milk inspector is also mentioned as one of those to be replaced. His successor is reported to be Albert Smouse.

Taylor Tax Collector

Thomas H. Taylor, formerly a bookkeeper for Ort's Bakery at Midland, is prominently mentioned as tax collector for the Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport and

First Methodist Church Has Guest Preacher Sunday

Rev. F. Reid Isaac, Jr., D. D., general superintendent of the Board of Child Care of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church, will be guest preacher at the First Methodist Church, Bedford street at 11 a. m. tomorrow, according to Rev James A. Richards, pastor.

The board of which Rev. Mr. Isaac is the head, serves the entire Methodist church child welfare program in the state of Maryland and Washington, D. C. It has direct control of the Swartzell Home for Children in Washington, the Kelso Home for Girls at Towson and the Strawbridge Home for Boys at Sykesville.

During the past two years, Rev. Mr. Richards said yesterday, the board has cleared over 600 needy applications. Institutional care has been given 200 children during this time with a 55 percent increase in enrollment at the three homes.

In addition to the three homes for children, the Board has a large number of Christian Homes for other needy children who cannot be cared for within any institution. At tomorrow's service here, a special holiday offering will be taken to help finance this child-care program.

Rev. Mr. Richards said he hopes the gifts here will be generous. He declared he spent 14 years of his childhood in two of these homes and is now a member of the Board of Trustees of the Strawbridge Home and a member of the Board of Child Care. The Board is asking a total of $30,000 from the combined Christmas effort this year, for these homes.

The service tomorrow is open to the public, and Rev. Mr. Richards declared this is an excellent opportunity to hear an outstanding preacher.

Arbitrator Rules For Recall Of 18 Garment Workers

Decision Closes 2-Month Strike At Local Plant, ILGWU Says

Mrs. Angela Bambace, manager of the Maryland-Virginia district of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL, announced last night that the arbitration case brought by the union against the Cumberland Undergarment Company for the reinstatement of 18 strikers has been settled and resulted in a victory for the union.

In the decision dated November 25, she reported, the following persons, were ordered reinstated:

Virginia Scatturo, Dorothy Folk, Eva Pownall, Wanda Ashenfelter, Mary Jane Keiglein, Lenora Folk, Malda Bender, Virginia Wetzel, Wanda Hogbin, Lareda Sipes, Anna Max Kriglein, Viola Brown, Dorothy Fees, Georgia Lechliter, Mildred Ryan, Mildred Fletcher, Mary Wagner and Mary Madero.

The arbitration hearing was held at the court house here before Maxwell Copelof, United States Department of Labor arbitrator, on November 19 with Charles Kriendler, international vice president, and William Kaufman, union official, represented the union, and Thomas B. Finan, company attorney representing the Gay street garment factory.

Mrs. Bambace stated "this decision closes all questions that have arisen as a result of the strike. All workers who completed trial with the company were ordered reinstated. The union expected that in the future all relations will be governed by the same processes followed in thousands of contracts that the union has with employers."

The arbitration decision arose from the refusal of the company to recall leaders of the strike which closed the Gay street garment plant for about two months, beginning July 18.

Maurice Milberg, plant manager, was quoted, following the resumption of operations, that the company did not intend to recall some 12 workers, asserting they were leaders in the strike which constituted a breach of contract between the company and the ILGWU.

The work stoppage began as a dispute over starting and piece work rates at the plant and involved many AFL and CIO unions here who offered unofficial aid to the strikers.

Three-Alarm Fire Destroys Garage

50 Telephones Put Out Of Order By Blaze On Hill Top Drive

A three-alarm fire early last night resulted in the destruction of a one-car garage at the home of John L. Reed, 500 Hill Top drive, and threw some 50 telephone lines out of order for about four hours.

South End Fire Company, which answered an alarm from Box 621 at 6:38 p. m. said flames were shooting from the roof of the ironclad garage when they arrived.

Central and East Side Companies, responding to an alarm from Box 612, stayed at the blaze for a time.

Firemen said the garage was empty at the time the blaze of undetermined origin broke out and added that the family was in the front of the home and unaware of the blaze. The flames did not endanger the home some 40 feet away.

Firemen said the flames charred a telephone pole near the rear of the garage and a telephone official added the flames melted the lead insulation from the cable, disrupting service to some 50 circuits, including eight Memorial Hospital lines.

The company said a repair crew of 10 men had replaced three of the hospital lines by 10:15 p. m. and predicted all lines would be in order by midnight.

Police Have Hope Of Catching Man Who Shot Bennear

Ex-Soldier Regains Consciousness After Being Beaten, Shot

Virginia Police held new hope of apprehenting a hitch-hiker, who attacked and shot Robert Bennear, Thomas, W. Va., ex-soldier near Gore, Va., November 20, when hospital attaches announced that the victim had regained consciousness.

State police said last night, that they were unable to gain many details of the ssault from Bennear, who is still weak after being unconscious since he was admitted to the Winchester, Va., hospital shortly after he was slugged and shot through the chest with a .45 caliber revolver.

Talked Few Minutes

The young man talked for a few minutes police said, but was too weak to give accurate details of the incident or to give a complete description of his attacker. Bennear did however, identify the man as being about 23 or 24 years of age, and said he had light hair.

Such a description, police said, would rule out the "rough-looking read-headed man, that was reported seen near the scene of the shooting, a few hours before Bennear was discovered. Police had been searching for the red headed man for the past week.

According to police Bennear told authorities that he picked the man up about 30 minutes outside of Washington, where he had driven Lee Sutton, Thomas Theater operator, who was enroute to Florida.

Bennear's condition was described as "good" last night by police, who said they are planning to question him further today and then renew their search for the suspected hitch-hiker.

Remembers Ring, Watch

The victim's father, told police that his son remembers having his watch and a ring stolen and when asked about his pocketbook remarked "they got part of that too."

Bennear told his father that he didn't remember going through Winchester, but he did recall being forced out of the car and being shot. The ex-soldier also expressed concern over the car, and inquired of his father if the vehicle had been recovered.

Virginia authorities located the car in Winchester on the same night that Bennear was shot and robbed They reported the car was abandoned by the man believed to have taken it after forcing Bennear out and shooting him.

Bennear's family was planning to take him to Charlottesville, Va., for an examination by a brain specialist, but the trip will not be made now, since the young man has regained consciousness, police said.

Mayor Gets Offers For Sharing Coal

Offers to earmark coal stockpiles for limited supply to Cumberland residents under circumstances of emergency have been received at City Hall, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Mayor Post said that Charles L. Albright, Mt. Savage dealer, has informed him that he has approximately 400 tons of coal which he will reserve for that purpose. The mayor said he has not yet ordered any of the coal, but he added that he received two calls yesterday from persons who were out of coal in homes where there is sickness.

In addition, two Cumberland citizens have informed the mayor that they have from one to three tons of extra coal which they will be able to share in case of emergency.

Mayor Post said he will postpone the appointment of a community committee and other emergency measures until the national coal situation becomes clarified.

Missing Man Returns

Police said yesterday that James M. Hite, 25, who had been reported as missing from his home, 212 South Mechanic street, since last Saturday, returned home Thursday.

Smoke Control Favored By Margin Of 3 To 1 In Times-News Election

Midnight Tonight Is Deadline For Voting And Letter Contest

Ballots on smoke control poured into the Times-News offices yesterday as the deadline for casting ballots—midnight tonight—neared.

Again the ballots received yesterday were far in the majority for smoke control of railroads and industries. South Cumberland and West Side again led in the number of ballots cast, with East Side third. North End fourth and the center of the city fifth.

Another concerted effort by those who oppose smoke control in the South End was indicated when another batch of ballots was received over Thanksgiving Day, but again those favoring control from that section of the city were in the lead by better than 2 to 1 on yesterday afternoon's tally. Those ballots favoring control from South Cumberland came by mail, showing no solicitation had been made, and that the votes were cast voluntarily.

The West Side continued to keep its slate clean by not having a single vote cast against control, while North End is almost unanimous for smoke control, as is also the East Side and the center section of the city.

The West Side shows 1,248 votes for and none against control; South Cumberland 1,616 for and 1,032 against for a ration of a little less than 2 to 1; North End 808 for to 56 against for a ratio of 14 to 1 for control; East Side 880 for and 32 against for approximately a 28 to 1 for control, and the center of the city 684 for and 166 against, or a ratio of almost 6 to 1. The margin over the entire city shows a better than 3 to 1 vote for smoke control on the basis of votes cast to date.

Tonight at midnight is the deadline for casting ballots and also for entering the contest for $75 in cash awards for the best eight letters for or against smoke control. All letters and ballots must be brought to the Times-News office or postmarked not later than midnight tonight.

Expenses for the Jones family at Midland in November were $617.61 according to a report submitted to the News yesterday by William A. Wilson, chairman of the "Jones Family Fund" which is administering the fund. Expenditures in October were $739.89 making a total of $1,357.50 spent by the committee in two months. Total contributions to date to the fund, which was sponsored by the Cumberland News, is $7,378.86 leaving a balance in the fund of $6,021.36.

The committee, in its report said, "we realize that the expenses for the first two months have been rather high but the home and children are now fully equipped. There are other repairs to be made on the home, such as having gas piped into rooms but the landlord has promised to take care of all other matters.

This week Mrs. Jones wrote a letter to F. Alan Weatherholt, Cumberland News reporter, who wrote the original story on the Jones family situation, expressing her thanks to the Cumberland News and all "those good people who made it possible for us to keep our children in their own home, while my husband, our daughter and myself are recuperating here in the sanitarium".

Mrs. Jones wrote that she has already gained 10 pounds and that Betty Faye is progressing nicely. She added that her husband looks fairly well. "They are both in the hospital, but I am in one of the six cottages with 10 other women who are all very nice to me. The first week was pretty tough but now when I look back I thank God that there are so many decent people in the world.

"Every letter that I get from home proves that everything is turning out wonderful, and our children are getting along fine with Mrs. Leasure, who proved even before I left, she was a competent housekeeper and interested in the welfare of our children.

"I have a pass to visit my husband and daughter three times weekly. I can go to the movies four nights a week and church on Sunday morning and Tuesday evening Every morning when it's clear we see the most beautiful sunrise, on the order of being at Dan's Rock when the sun comes up. All of our hearts are back in good old Allegany county and we look forward to the day we can all be together again."

Saying that she could not think of a more appropriate time than Thanksgiving to thank people who have been so kind to them, Mrs. Jones said "I still feel like we haven't thanked everyone enough, so I want you to tell all those who contributed to the fund how much we appreciate it." She said she hoped to be able to come home at Christmas to see the children and friends in Allegany county.

Three Veterans Head Housing Committee Here

Program Will Include Machine Repair And Community Canning

Two new rural adult education classes are expected to be added to five presently operating under the sponsorship of the Board of Education with evening programs being planned to begin February 3 and 4, James H. House, supervisor, said yesterday.

The new classes will be organized in Frostburg, with David Plummer as instructor, and in Corriganville with Ray Getz in charge. Other classes are already being operated in Flintstone, Oldtown, Belle Grove, Bedford Road and Triple Lakes.

Comprised of Two Parts

The program is comprised of two parts, consisting of farm mechanics and community canning, House said Shops where classes are held, are equipped with tools such as power saws, forges, acetylene and electric welding equipment, electric drills and many hand tools.

During the war years the program was known as the Rural War Production Training Service, and afforded many farmers the opportunity of repairing equipment that couldn't be replaced or repaired in other places.

Proof that persons engaged in agriculture are interested in the service is furnished by the number of items repaired in the present five shops since July 1.

The list includes repair of 247 farm machines; 330 welding jobs; 212 forge work jobs; 278 cold metal jobs; 432 tool fitting jobs; 90 soldering jobs and 259 miscellaneous jobs, such as woodwork, harness repair and construction work.

Can Repair Own Tools

Under the program interested persons may study and at the same time repair broken or injured equipment that they use on the farm. Quantities of materials and supplies can be purchased at the shops in accord with the program.

The canning project deals with production, conservation and processing of food for family use. Since July 1 when the canning classes were begun this year, 21,605 cans of food have been processed in the two canning centers now operating in Belle Grove and Eckhart.

About 217 women are enrolled in classes now being conducted at the two centers, and are free to use the processing facilities during all class hours. The centers are open on an average of two days a week.

TWUA Seeks Boost At Keyser Plant

Celanese Wage Negotiations Will Resume Monday Morning

James A. Dundon, regional TWUA director, and Joseph J. Barley, business manager of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Worker Union of America, will begin wage negotiations for workers of the Potomac Worsted Spinning Mill, Keyser, W. Va., at a conference with Joseph Blum, company attorney in New York City today.

Barley said the union is seeking a 20-cent across the board increase at the Keyser mill, a change in working hours and vacation clauses such as prevail at the Amcelle plant.

He said the union wants the present shifts of 6 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. changed to 7 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. and 3:30 p. m. to 12 p. m., with 2½ per cent of annual salary as vacation pay for one year's service and double that amount for those with five or more years' seniority.

Barley said the recent election at the Keyser mill esulted in the naming of Goldie Boehmis as president; Nelsie Downey, vice president, and Fannie Rizer as recording secretary.

Negotiations for a wage increase at the Amcelle plant, Barley said, will be resumed Monday at 10 o'clock. Wesley Cook, assistant director of the TWUA's rayon division, will attend the conference.

The TWUA, he added, will also negotiate next week with Industrial Rayon and Viscose firms on 18-cent an hour increases.

Local Citizens Committee Proceeds With Plans To Start Project; Orndorff Named Chairman

Three veterans were chosen last night to serve as temporary officers of the Veterans-Citizens Housing Project Committee, at a meeting in the Peoples Bank.

The committee formed for the purpose of getting building materials channeled into the Cumberland area and to construct homes for veterans, William B. Orndorff, 125 Pennsylvania avenue, an army veteran and commander of J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, was elected chairman of the group.

F. Alan Weatherholt, 512 Rose Hill avenue, News reporter and Pacific theater army veteran was named vice chairman .

Committees Named

Orndorff appointed several committees to proceed with plans for the local building projects. Weatherholt, Russ Minter local architect and James M. Beacham, realtor were named to select a site or sites for a housing project.

Thomas B. Finan, Jr., Carscaden, W. Earle Cobey and John T. Fey, local attorneys, all veterans, were chosen as legal advisory committee.

Results of the survey conducted through local newspapers were studied in relation to the demand for housing for veterans, and there was considerable discussion on feasibility and desirability of several proposed sites.

Minter and Weatherholt reported they had inspected a number of localities and together with the legal communities, they were authorized to proceed with plans to take options with the view of developing one or more of these tracts.

It was the consensus of opinion of those at the meeting that an effort should be made to purchase or acquire title to a tract of land suitable for 25 houses or more and begin developing it as quickly as possible.

Mention was made of the fact that other people besides veterans here need and want housing, and it was agreed that any houses built will be made available to others if veterans do not buy them within 30 days.

Non-Profit Corporation

The group plans to form itself into a non-profit corporation for the express purpose of building a minimum of 25 houses within a price range, and containing the number of rooms most veterans want.

The biggest handicap in housing here has been the lack of building materials. Surveys of other communities, according to members of the group, show that building materials are available. The shortage here has not only kept the price of construction up, but has made it next to impossible for many people to build.

Communities now getting materials seem to be those who did some construction during the war, and had large war industries and plants in their areas. The allocations of building materials now, it was explained, is based upon the amount used in a community during the war.

Court Dismisses Suit In Strip Mining Dispute

Restraining orders against defendants in a strip coal mining dispute were lifted and a bill of complaint dismissed in an opinion from Chief Judge William A. Huster and Judge Walter C. Capper, in circuit court yesterday. An equity action, the plaintiffs are given "the right to pursue any remedy at law they might have."

David N. Goldberg, Angelo Franciose and Ralph Franciose, partners and doing business as the Dorothy Coal Company, filed the action against James W. Ford, trading as the Ford Coal Company; James W. Ford, George E. Ford, John Betters and Dominic Betters, trading as the Betters-Ford Coal Company, and the Mt. Savage Refractories Company.

Under the Court decision, the refractories company is entitled to relief under its cross-bill and will be granted an injuction restraining the Ford Coal Company from entering upon or mining coal on the lands near Mt. Savage.

The complainants are represented by Albert A. Doub, Jr., John M Robb and S. Robert Peiter, while Harry I. Stegmaier is counsel for the Ford company.

The plaintiffs sought a decree for specific performance of a contract dated July 10, 1946, and asked restraining orders to keep the defendants from selling or otherwise disposing of coal on the property. They alleged that the coal company and the refractories firm "contrived to bring about cancellation of the agreement." A demurrer by the defendant coal company was overruled.

It was alleged that the plaintiffs had agreed to strip and load not less than 10,000 tons of coal a month, beginning last July 1, but that the total tonnage up to October 3 amounted to only 286 tons.

It was also charged that trucks to transport the coal were not provided and that the coal was "of inferior quality and could not be marketed." The Court cited that the evidence indicated that the plaintiffs simply "folded up" and took their equipment elsewhere.

The judges pointed out that the matter should be decided in a law action, and the Court could not rule in such a dispute brought as an equity suit. It was also pointed out that the refractories company had nothing to do with the stripping operation and is entitled to possession of its property free of any claims of the other parties involved
